29 Jun 1854 preached College of S Augustine Canterbury [SAC] England

[Historical Note on Norfolk Island and New Zealand:

(1788) Norfolk Island was settled from Sydney, later abandoned, later re-settled as a 'place of secondary punishment', subject to the government of NSW and (from 1836) the bishop of Australia.

(1840) when transportation to NSW ceased, it continued to Van Diemen's Land [Tasmania] until 1853.

(1840) Norfolk Island (remaining as a penal settlement) came under Tasmanian colonial jurisdiction and (1842) after the creation of the diocese of Tasmania under the bishop of Tasmania.

(1856) GA SELWYN tried to buy land on Norfolk island as the base for the incipient Melanesian mission. Sir William DENISON the governor of NSW and governor general of the Australian colonies (the latter office being titular only and ceasing in 1861) objected to SELWYN's proposal because he did not want Norfolk Island to be the centre of SELWYN's Melanesian mission – he referred to 'the influence of the savage Melanesians on Mr NOBBS' carefully-guarded and child-like flock'.

(1866) under his successor Sir John YOUNG the Melanesian mission did purchase land on Norfolk island:

(1867) Norfolk island was the headquarters for the missionary diocese of Melanesia, and thus part of the Anglican province of New Zealand.

(1913) administration of Norfolk island transferred from the NSW state to the Australian federal government

(1919) after the headquarters of the diocese of Melanesia moved to the Solomons, the parish of Norfolk island continued to be staffed by chaplains appointed by the diocese of Melanesia.

(05 Aug 1938) Norfolk island was formally transferred to the diocese of Sydney, and thus the Anglican church of Australia. (269;111)

organised 1st diocesan clergy conference, against opposition of Lord HARROWBY and some clergy
Dec 1867 adjourned session of 1867 Lambeth Conference of bishops appointed him 'corresponding secretary of the bishops for the Anglican Communion'

04 Jan 1868 confirmed at Bow in the see of Lichfield

09 Jan 1868 enthroned 91st bishop (vice LONSDALE) of Lichfield

20 May 1869 wrote to his successor as metropolitan the new primate HARPER, that his resignation as metropolitan and as bishop of New Zealand had been registered in the office of faculties of the archbishop of Canterbury

1877 1st prelate of the Order of SS Michael and George, 'in recognition of long and great services rendered to the Church in the colonies' (212;219;144;287)

Other Notes

His brother William SELWYN was a member of the Ecclesiological Society (previously Cambridge Camden Society); George was an episcopal patron but before accepting that appointment, not a member. (312)
1851 Mrs Charlotte GODLEY describes him. 'A quite first-rate man, and so untiring and earnest in his calling, that you look at him almost with wonder and always with pleasure; he has such a very fine head, and regular features, and when he has lost only a few more hairs at the back of his head will be exactly like the pictures of SCarlo BORROMEO.... No one is quite perfect, and with grief I must own that one of the Bishop's eyes is not quite so lively as the other; it is scarcely a cast, far less anything of a squint, but a slight want of unanimity that just mars the perfect benignity of his expression; and it is the greater pity, because they are such very good eyes.' After watching him with the Revd Thomas JACKSON, she noted: 'his disposition is to take a certain kind of pride in "roughing it" and "doing without" things, so that he took great pleasure in assuring Mrs JACKSON that she would find realities very different from these charming dreams [of her husband's fantasy plans for this designated see of Lyttelton/Christchurch], and Mr JACKSON was almost angered at last at the contemptuous way in which the Bishop received his little affected jokes and notions about the people and ways of going on here.' married 24 Feb 1845 S John Manchester England
Elizabeth BUXTON
died 23 May 1906 Krambruk aged 83

Education

24 Sep 1854 deacon Melbourne
not priested

Positions

28 Mar 1855 complaint lodged by WR CROXTON recorded in Register diocese Melbourne: CROXTON complained that VIPONT was involved in fraudulent dealings with ... had represented himself to the bishop of Melbourne as a Wesleyan ministry from America. Information laid later suggested his true name may have been Thomas BURKITT.
14 May 1855 suspended until return of bishop Melbourne

Other

Theophilus Taylor, diary (14/3/1854): VIPONT was cast upon these shores six months ago by shipwreck. He presented himself to the Wesleyan district meeting in Melbourne as a minister of the Methodists and solicited a post as a Wesleyan minister. The District employed him for 6 months at Ballarat. At the end of this period and in prospect of our arrival from England it was agreed to dismiss him.....he proceeds to Geelong as a minister of the Establishment. (14/7/1854) has explained deficiencies in his accounts.

21 Sep 1873 priest Christchurch S Michael (3;4)

Note on ordination as deacon:

Neither place, nor year, nor bishop for his ordination as deacon is actually given by WILLS. This reticence is unexpected in a man who from other accounts enjoyed self-promotion. A possible motive for this silence is unravelled below.

1865 Family information (from a 1922 newspaper interview with WILLS in Melbourne) has him ordained in England in 1865. This is not true.

Jun 1866 The history of the diocese of Bloemfontein says Joseph Harris WILLS left England for the Orange Free State to join the first bishop for the missionary diocese of Orange River Free State. Bishop Edward TWELLS ordained him deacon after arrival in South Africa. See Some Account of the Diocese of Bloemfontein by Archdeacon CRISP (Oxford: James Parker 1895)

Jul 1869 Charges of sodomy were prepared against Bishop TWELLS, who under a pseudonym fled the country for Britain. TWELLS resigned the see 02 Aug 1869, and died 04 May 1898 Clifton Bristol.

Embarrassment might have inclined WILLS to avoid later reference to his ordaining bishop. (For background information, see N SOUTHEY ‘Uncovering Homosexuality in Colonial South Africa: the case of Bishop Twells’ in South African Historical Journal No.36, May 1997; see also the SPG history by PASCOE, which obscures identity of TWELLS, referring to him as the bishop of the Orange River, a missionary of the Society, and his resignation (47))

1870-ca Jun 1872 Church registers have WILLS baptising in S Alban Pretoria. His ministry as a deacon was clearly acceptable to the successor to TWELLS, Allan Becher WEBB, (from 1870) 2nd bishop of the diocese of Bloemfontein, previously Orange River Free State.

1881 has his very first appearance in Crockford: ‘J H WILLS, formerly incumbent of Green Ponds diocese Tasmania, incumbent of Forth and Leven.’ - but has no information on his ordinations, nor of his years in South Africa, nor of his brief ministry in the diocese of Christchurch New Zealand. Without alteration the identical entry repeats annually to 1885, even though he had left Forth & Leven after a scandal, in 1881; 1886 edition of Crockford gives him (erroneous) Christian names ‘John Henry’;

1889 edition of Crockford lacks contemporary information, ‘formerly incumbent of Green Ponds’;

1890-1915 editions of Crockford omit his entry altogether. (8)

1916-1923 editions of Crockford show him restored to the status of licensed priest in the diocese of Tasmania – he had been out of church ministry since 1881. Crockford now has ‘Joseph Harris WILLS, of Whitemark Flinders Islands Tasmania Australia, deacon and priest 1873 Christchurch. Formerly incumbent of Green Ponds 1876-1878; Forth and Leven 1879-1882. 1915- vicar Furneaux islands diocese Tasmania.’ (8) Thus in his last years (from the evidence of his entry in Crockford) WILLS claimed to have been ordained both deacon and priest in 1873 by HARPER the bishop of Christchurch. This is certainly incorrect, for HARPER, on accepting his ordination as deacon in South Africa, ordained him priest.

His removal of any reference to his ordination as deacon in South Africa is the climax of his consistent intention to obscure his years in South Africa from church view. Was this a life-long avoidance of the disgrace of his bishop, Edward TWELLS? (MWB)

Claims

1865-1872 FAMILY INFORMATION (2006) gathered from South African newspapers and from a Melbourne newspaper interview in 1922 has various claims. For instance -

WILLS claimed to have been ordained deacon 1865 in England, and then to have gone to South Africa first as the travelling chaplain to the bishop of Cape Town. - Not true. He was not ordained in England. In Jun 1866 he came to South Africa with the support of Robert GRAY metropolitan bishop of Cape Town and was at once ordained deacon by Edward TWELLS (1828-1898) the first bishop of the missionary diocese of Orange River Free State. GRAY had sent in TWELLS to sort out the problems with JW COLENSO, deposed from the see but remaining in it. (MWB;CPSA Archives, Wits University Library, Witwatersrand 2006). WILLS claimed to have preached in the cathedral church of Pietermaritzburg. - True. Mar 1867, his Ritualist bishop Edward TWELLS of Orange River Free State with the licence of Robert GRAY the Tractarian metropolitan bishop of Cape Town, had intruded him as 'curate' into the cathedral church of Maritzburg, cathedral for the diocese of Natal. The Liberal JW COLENSO the deposed (and even excommunicated) bishop of Natal went to court to have WILLS (and other challengers to his authority) removed. See The Life of John William Colenso DD Bishop of Natal, by the Revd Sir George W COX baronet, MA rector of Scraggingham, (W Ridgway, London 1888; WNL)

'In 1867 the Bishop of Natal [COLENSO] prayed the Supreme Court for an order interdicting the Revd JH Wills from officiating in any churches of the Colony set apart for the use of the Church of England and Ireland, until he had obtained the licence of the Bishop of the Diocese. The order was refused on the ground that the plaintiff had no status as Bishop...' - from the biography of Dean GREEN of Maritzburg (CPSA Archives, Wits University Library, 2006)

WILLS claimed that for three years and more at the request of the bishop of Bloemfontein and to explore possible places for church development, he went through the Transvaal goldfields and through to Matabeleland and visited Great Zimbabwe, and claimed to have been the first white man to have climbed the hills of Matopos - in what was to become colonial Southern Rhodesia (and later independent Zimbabwe) before his return to South Africa. - this is only related to the truth (MWB).

From about Oct 1869, WILLS went for maybe six months (not three years) to visit the goldfields and through to Victoria Falls and the Zambesi. (In Jul 1869 TWELLS had fled the country. See below.)

Was WILLS extending the period of his visit to the interior to distance himself further from TWELLS?

While he may well have visited these places, by no means was he the first white man to have climbed Matopos hills (MWB and Neil PIERCE).

WILLS claimed that he returned briefly to England in 1872 and did deputation for the SPG and lectured at the Royal Society on his discoveries in Southern Africa. - may be true (MWB).

Until mid-1872 WILLS was signing the baptismal register at S Alban Pretoria. The SPG history refers to the 2nd bishop, now 'of Bloemfontein' not 'of the Orange Free State' as performing clerical duty at Pretoria for three months in the absence of Mr WILLS in England (47)

In 1872 WILLS' return to England was certainly 'brief' for he and his wife were swiftly accepted by the commissary for the bishop of Christchurch, Prebendary Henry TUCKER at the SPG office in Westminster, and they quickly sailed on to New Zealand (70;MWB).

WILLS claimed that when secretary to Bishop COLENSO in the diocese of Natal he had been a close friend of Sir Henry Rider HAGGARD and been so helpful with his research for the novel King Solomon's Mines that an early edition of the book was dedicated to him in appreciation of his assistance. Untrue (MWB).

WILLS was hostile to Bishop COLENSO and an intruder into the cathedral of Natal diocese.

WILLS however was close, possibly even at some point secretary, to his own diocesan bishop Edward TWELLS, but when in Jul 1869 TWELLS fled the country with sodomy charges pending, WILLS expunged all reference to any connection with TWELLS.

WILLS' claims of African friendship with Rider HAGGARD are untenable, as HAGGARD came to South Africa in 1875, whereas WILLS had left South Africa in 1872 (MWB).

Positions

Jun 1866 Mr Joseph Harris WILLS left England (anglicanhistory.org/africa/za/crisp_bloem02.html)

31 Dec 1868 for the first half of 1869 the Revd J Harris WILLS was announced to be conducting the grammar school in Bloemfontein. (Friend of the Orange Free State and Bloemfontein Gazette, provided by family information)

1869 at Philippolis missionary diocese of the Orange River Free State. This statement is from his initial papers given in 1873 to Prebendary TUCKER in London and thus reported to the bishop of Christchurch in New Zealand but contradicts the contemporary evidence that in 1869 he was conducting a school in Bloemfontein, and travelling into the interior (Transvaal gold mines, Victoria Falls and the Zambesi River). Furthermore there is no record of any appointment to Philippolis. The diocesan history says WILLS had initially an itinerant appointment, visiting villages across a wide district. (CPSA Archives, Wits University Library Witwatersrand 2006; see Some Account of the Diocese of Bloemfontein, by Archdeacon CRISP, Oxford: James Parker 1895)

 02 Sep 1916-26 Feb 1928 canon residentiary and sub-dean cathedral diocese Bathurst
 1916-1928 examining chaplain bishop Bathurst (8)
 12 Oct 1927 nomination announced, to be the second assistant to the bishop of Melanesia, bishop for Northern Melanesia, ie the Mandated Territory of New Guinea, included in the diocese Melanesia; nominated by a committee of the Australian Board of Missions; the diocese to include Bougainville, islands to the north-west off the coast of Papua, and Rabaul; he would start work in the Gasmata district - he is noted as being 'exceptionally strong in health' (261)
 24 Jan 1928 His consecration in Australia needed to be delayed until AVERILL the primate of New Zealand was (with a change of the canon achieved at (Apr 1928) general synod) enabled to issue the necessary mandate for the consecration of WILTON in Australia (and not New Zealand) (261)
 n d MOLYNEUX bishop of Melanesia visited WILTON in Bathurst (261)
 12 Mar 1928 with Bishop FM MOLYNEUX, arrived for (19 Apr 1928-01 May 1928) general synod Auckland
 SOUTHERN CROSS: asked for support for the Melanesian appeal, acknowledging that the diocese needed £10 000 per annum operating costs - particularly for the aging MV SOUTHERN CROSS V (261)
 04 May 1928 departed Auckland with FM MOLYNEUX, the Revd LE CARTRIDGE, the Revd GF LEGGATT, Mr D Lloyd FRANCIS (later a priest) and others, after attending general synod of the New Zealand province
 30 Jun 1928 attended the diocesan synod at Siota Solomon islands (at which FM MOLYNEUX presided, and was unanimously nominated to be the successor to JM STEWARD also present) before proceeding to Sydney for consecration:
 Jun 1928 (assistant) bishop of Northern Melanesia, for the New Britain islands (then within diocese of Melanesia, now in the nation and church of Papua New Guinea); the isolated 500K stretch of coastline in the Gasmata district on the southwestern end of New Britain became his mission: 'disastrous' appointment
 ca Sep 1928 publicity tour of parts of Australia (261)
 28 Sep 1928 arrived Rabaul, with staff the Revd V SHERWIN (who arrived just before he did), the Revd LE CARTRIDGE (the first recruit from England for the new initiative), and Mr Stanley G TITLER carpenter (a theological student, later ordained Australia): he made visits to Gasmata (near here was to be the main centre for the see), Lindenhafen, Salamau, and stations were to be initiated at Kalerigi, Navalapua, SagSag, Arawe; he planned a visit to England for 1930 (261)

Jan 1929 while travelling around the diocese taken ill at Toma, 40k from Rabaul, and returned thither.
 Bishop MOLYNEUX declared it to be 'sunstroke' (261)
 Feb 1929 though much better was to voyage to Sydney to recuperate (261) - but did not go to Sydney then:
 18 Apr 1929 at Gasmata, on board the government schooner HERMES wrote of contact with new areas of
 New Britain and is about to visit SHERWIN - no mention of illness or of going to Sydney (261)
 01 Apr 1929 Southern Cross Log announced he was ill and may need to retire (261)
 01 Jul 1929 resignation accepted: he had broken down in health, been ordered to return to Australia, had set out, but felt better: and continued his work (of which he wrote in Apr 1929); the Auckland office of the Melanesian Mission had no information beyond that - he might be ill temporarily http://anglicanhistory.org/oceania/blain_mandated_territory.pdf
 Note: Bishop MOLYNEUX made reference to the appointment of WILTON in his annual report, indicating that WILTON intended to begin work among the natives in 1929 (Jul 1929 (261))
 09 Aug 1929 annual report of the Melanesian Mission Finance Board (in Auckland) regretted that WILTON
 'unable to continue' (261)
 Sep 1929 MOLYNEUX now bishop of Melanesia had accepted WILTON's resignation because of his state of health; his friend the Revd Leslie WALKER from Bathurst was due to join the staff at the end of 1929 (261) n d 1929 resigned following allegations of sexual misconduct with youths, but 'utterly broken down in health' with 'sunstroke near Rabaul' – no further comment, thanks, or good wishes are offered, and against him no charges were brought in a church or civil court (111;202;163;280)
 However: in the private file of Major ROBINSON general manager of the Melanesian Mission office (first in Auckland; 1933- in Sydney): reference to the 'caddish behaviour' of the Australian Board of Missions [ABM] towards WILTON: the reason given here for WILTON's 'forced resignation' was a series of sexually explicit letters written by 'ladies' to WILTON: when brought to the attention of the ABM these were deemed grounds to request his resignation. ABM subsequently subverted attempts to 'rehabilitate' WILTON - ROBINSON had not in fact seen the letters (Church of Melanesia archives, Honiara, Solomon Islands, information from T Brown Jan 2009)
 26 Sep 1930-1941- general licence diocese Sydney
