Notes
16 April 1899 photograph of bishop with the Stanley Steamer car he brought back from England, outside Bishops Grove, with chauffeur, his 1st wife in the back seat in high plumed hat, and bishop standing to the right of the picture in frock coat and stringed hat. That his nephew 'uncle Ted' was skinny and austere, and the bishop impatiently remarked 'Ted will have all these children!'; and that family got all the NEVILL money. That Bishop NEVILL had a set of a dozen silver table cutlery, all with P engraved on them, from the PENNY family, whence his money. Aunt Linda left her share to her family, and also the Nottingham lace veil, a PENNY heirloom worn by her aunt at her wedding in England to the bishop, then worn by family members since. (Family information 1998 to MWB from Nora Stevens great-niece by marriage) (1970 Personal: my grandmother Wilhelmina Heidemann ISLIP told me that her German grandmother Johanna HEIDEMANN a gold-miner's daughter taught music to the children of the bishop of Dunedin': if these 'children of the bishop of Dunedin' were in fact the NEVILL children adopted by the bishop of Dunedin, then the indistinct story might conceivably be true. Furthermore the NEVILL family background was Moravian; as my ISLIP family through the nineteenth century had included Moravian missionaries, and as my great-grandmother ISLIP resided in the Moravian religious community Ockbrook Derbyshire, such a link becomes a coherent possibility – at the most. It is clearly possible for him to have a sister Jemima who was available to be the mother of GH NOBBS as he claimed (MWB)

Positions

NOBBS own accounts of his background and earlier life are complex and unclear. The compiler of this biography refers the enquirer to his descendant’s book:

see George Hunn Nobbs 1799-1884 chaplain on Pitcairn and Norfolk Island, by Raymond Nobbs (1984:Norfolk island)

However, by his own account:

in school at his mother’s request

Note: 1814 Lord DUNDONALD dismissed from the Royal navy for fraud, served in rebel navies of Chile, Brazil, Greece. He was one source of inspiration for naval fiction including ‘Horatio Hornblower’

However more securely stated:

Aug 1827 passage on an American ship OCEAN for Valparaiso

May 1826 en route to Pitcairn, reached Calcutta [Kolkata]

reached Callao via Singapore, New York, Rio, and Valparaiso (69)

Jun 1859 arrived Thomas ROSSITER (born c1825 died Mar 1893) government storekeeper: NOBBS relinquished oversight of the school to ROSSITER previously schoolmaster Anglican Industrial School in Hertfordshire.
initially opposed establishment of a Melanesian Mission station on Norfolk island, however by:

Comment

ORANGE had a marked passive-aggressive personality streak. When A PYATT as dean introduced the familiar Eucharistic vestments ORANGE was very put out; at breakfast with the PYATTs between Sunday services, he would sigh and toy with his food, until after weeks of this PYATT told him that if he could not behave himself he need not come for breakfast anymore as the vestments were staying in use. ORANGE resigned into retirement. (pers comm from A PYATT 1970 to MWB)

1926 SEDGWICK the bishop of Waiapū reported to synod that ’in two settlements (Matapihi, Maungotapu) in the Bay of Plenty in the Tauranga District our church people have wholly gone over to Ratana ... no longer wanted the ministrations of the Church ... All along the East Coast, amongst the Ngatiporou and in the part of the Bay of Plenty ministered to by the Revd Canon PAHEWA, the Church people have been untouched by Ratana’s influence; and there is very little evidence of his influence in Rotorua and district ... None of our Māori clergy have joined the movement. A fair number of our licensed lay readers have done so, in most cases elderly men ... The lesson to be drawn from the Ratana and such-like movements is plain. The antidote is the teaching of the faith, the full Catholic faith. Without this our Māoris young and old are a prey to every “prophet” that arises’ Waiapū Church Gazette

Personal Other
ca 20 Nov 1955 on the sudden death of WW AVERILL the vicar of Merivale, Dss PARK took the family service. Her singing voice was loud and confident with a pronounced warble which we children found very funny; she went up and down the aisles of the nave, teaching us to repeat for the late vicar, ‘Rest eternal grant unto him o Lord, and let light perpetual shine upon him’.

Dec 1960 I served her in Beath’s record department, as always spruce in her deaconess uniform (dark blue) and short veil, firm swift action and speech

Her remarkable ministry and personality bring her inclusion here - despite her ordination later than 1931 my cut-off date. (MWB)

Positions

31 Oct 1841 much affected by two sermons at church New Windsor the Venerable Samuel Wilberforce (morning), George Augustus Selwyn (evening) new bishop of New Zealand – aroused a sense of calling to serve in the missions

[Historical Note on Norfolk Island and New Zealand:

(1788) Norfolk Island was settled from Sydney, later abandoned, later re-settled as a ‘place of secondary punishment’, subject to the government of NSW and (from 1836) the bishop of Australia.

(1840-1853) on cessation to NSW, transportation of convicts continued to Van Diemen’s Land (Tasmania)

(1840) Norfolk Island (remaining as a penal settlement) came under Tasmanian colonial jurisdiction and (1856) after the creation of the diocese of Tasmania under the bishop of Tasmania.

(1856) GA SELWYN tried to buy land on Norfolk island as the base for the incipient Melanesian mission. Sir William DENISON the governor of NSW and governor general of the Australian colonies (the latter office being titular only and ceasing in 1861) objected to SELWYN's proposal because he did not want Norfolk Island to be the centre of SELWYN's Melanesian mission — he referred to 'the influence of the savage Melanesians on Mr NOBBS’ carefully-guarded and child-like flock'.

(1862) first confirmation service of JC PATTESON on Norfolk island, with the consent of the bishop of Tasmania in whose diocese Norfolk island continued officially to remain.

(1866) under his successor Sir John YOUNG the Melanesian mission did purchase land on Norfolk island:

(1867) Norfolk island was the headquarters for the missionary diocese of Melanesia, and thus part of the Anglican province of New Zealand.

(1913) administration of Norfolk island transferred from the NSW state to the Australian federal government

(1919) after the headquarters of the diocese of Melanesia moved to the Solomons, the parish of Norfolk island continued to be staffed by chaplains appointed by the diocese of Melanesia.

(05 Aug 1938) Norfolk island was formally transferred to the diocese of Sydney, and thus the Anglican church of Australia. (269;111)

1924- PIGOTT as Liberal Catholic regional bishop for greater Britain and Ireland ordained priests and bishops including the following (04 Aug 1926) George Sydney ARUNDALE as a Liberal Catholic bishop for India. ARUNDALE (born 1878 died 1945) (1889) he was tutored at his father’s request by LEADBEATER; an associate of Mrs Annie BESANT (1867-1873 married to the Revd Frank BESANT an evangelical Anglican priest), an associate of Maria MONCETTI, private tutor to KRISHNAMURTI, (1930) with his wife lecturing in New Zealand on psychological, education, religious subjects (1934) resigned official region of bishop for India and instead became president of the Theosophical Society (vice Mrs BESANT), died 1945.

((1917) John Ross THOMSON born c1873 Scotland died 23 Oct 1938 age 65 Epsom Auckland (1901) in England joined Theosophical Society, and (1918-1925) became the general secretary of the New Zealand section of the society (1917) by James Ingall WEDGWOOD was ordained a priest in the Liberal Catholic, and c1924 was consecrated a bishop in Sydney to become the suffragan bishop for New Zealand; he left £2 000 to the H P B Lodge of New Zealand; the income to be received by William CRAWFORD and his wife until their decease when all to the Lodge; THOMSON was presiding bishop of the Liberal Catholic Church and the Protector of the Order of the Round Table, and a prominent Co-Mason );

01 May 1944 PIGOTT and his general synod deposed Charles H HAMPTON (13 Sep 1931 consecrated by PIGOTT and WEDGWOOD as regional bishop) as the USA regional bishop for the Liberal Catholic Church; presenting reason, that HAMPTON had declared theosophical beliefs now optional in the Liberal Catholic Church, a declaration which was unacceptable to PIGOTT who saw them as essential. This expulsion split them into the Liberal Catholic Church International (LCCI) of North America with HAMPTON at its head for a time (with a cathedral church in Hollywood California USA), and also a continuing LCC (Liberal Catholic Church) group. PIGOTT appointed John T EKLUND (02 Jul 1939 consecrated by HAMPTON) as regional bishop pro tempore for the USA, thus producing a third splinter group, with compulsory theosophical beliefs (internet;391)

Further Notes on the complex background of the Liberal Catholic Churches

28 Apr 1908 ARNOLD HARRIS MATHEW a disgraced Roman Catholic priest was consecrated a bishop with Old Catholic orders by Gerardus GUL Old Catholic archbishop of Utrecht to be the regional Old Catholic bishop for Great Britain and Ireland; 1910 on expulsion from this legitimate Old Catholic church the illegitimate MATHEW instigated break-away groups: he proffered what others wanted, namely ‘orders within the apostolic line of succession’.

23 Dec 1919 his death notice states ‘archbishop of the Old Catholics in England’ The Times

28 Oct 1914 FREDERICK SAMUEL WILLOUGHBY MA (1862-1928) was consecrated by MATHEW under his newly-chosen title ‘archbishop of London’ to be his auxiliary ‘bishop of St Pancras’, WILLOUGHBY (married (1896) Louisa Emma TELFER daughter of the Revd Archibald TELFER chaplain Almshouse Worcester, they had two daughters Mary Veronica and Rachel Elaine, and son Athelstan Archibald) a disgraced Anglican priest previously (1899-1906) warden S Chad’s Hostel (theological college) and vicar Hooton Pagnell (near Goldthorpe), was not Theosophist (391)
19 May 1915 Willoughby bishop of St Pancras London after stronger accusations of homosexual misconduct was by Mathew degraded from Liberal Catholic holy orders; Willoughby continued to ordain priests and bishops, died an RC.

1915 James Ingall Wedgwood (1883-1951) grand secretary of the Order of Universal CoMasonry, visited New Zealand and Australia lecturing for the Theosophical Society on the teachings of Madame Helena Petrovna Blavatsky and Krishnamurti. As a lay Anglican Wedgwood had been attached to All Saints East Clevendon (where he joined the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament), to S Alban Nottingham, to All Saints York (with Fr Patrick Shaw); a founder of the cabalist body known as 'The Temple of the Rosy Cross' (Rosicrucian), a leading Co-Mason, a convinced Theosophist;

   (29 Jun 1889) the ECU (English Church Union) congratulated the dean and chapter of S Paul’s upon the erection of a reredos ‘so well calculated to bring before the minds of those who worshipped within the walls of that church the great evangelical doctrines of the incarnation and the atonement’;
   (20 Dec 1889) a chastened letter from the protestant Church Association, they had resolved to appeal to the House of Lords against the decision of the Court of Appeal which had ruled in favour of the S Paul’s reredos (411)
Nov 1965 the reredos had long been replaced but the image of Our Lady was saved;

1996-1997 My assistant diocesan secretary in the diocese Dogura PNG was ‘Lonsdale’; he told me his name came from his family’s longtime Anglican tradition in New Britain, in the Bismarck archipelago; I was able to tell him that in all likelihood an early missionary Lonsdale PRITT had baptised his ancestor with his Christian name, for he was a missionary when the Bismarck archipelago was part of the original diocese of Melanesia, province of New Zealand. With courtesy he indicated that he had not the slightest interest but knew that they were Anglicans ‘from way back’. (MWB)

1883 he had not paid his account with Shoolbred & Co, and for this and other convictions for obtaining goods by fraud: he had been imprisoned for two periods of 18 months – this reference (made at the court hearings in 1895) appears to be to convictions subsequent on

17 Aug 1887 a ten-roomed house at New Brighton Christchurch owned by John DILLOWAY and occupied by the Revd William RADCLIFFE was burned down (Evening Post) 1887 left Christchurch without collecting copies of letters of orders and testimonial accusations of fraudulent bankruptcy and debts in Calcutta and Christchurch, of aron New Brighton [he burned down the parsonage house; house insured for £500, his Indian relics and furniture for £240 which sum he was paid by insurance company; declared bankrupt and disappeared from his creditors] Bp HARPER noted: ‘a consummate scoundrel, unprincipled’ (70)

He was lodging Hampshire Terrace Portsmouth, allowed £2 to telegraph his friends [Illustrated Police News] - Fr DOLLING of S Agatha was one of the last great ‘slum hero’ figures of the AngloCatholic revival; the church itself fell derelict and restored to use at the end of the twentieth century by one of the splinter groups which in Catholic protest had left the church of England (MWB)

Question: who was the bishop’s commissary that recommended this man to be accepted for service in diocese Waiapū? Or, did he just show up in New Zealand and get a licence in the diocese of Waiapū? Was the ailing bishop, William WILLIAMS not competent to manage the diocese? [MWB]

born Dec 1820 Warsaw Poland, age 26 ordained deacon and priest by Dr MOUNTAIN bishop of Quebec, active with the Colonial and Continental Church Society (CCCS, Evangelical patronage society) who appointed him principal (of the new anti-Ritualist) Huron College Canada;
(21 Mar 1883) the bishop of Ripon Robert BICKERSTETH (of an Evangelical family) announced formal royal assent to the appointment of HELLMUTH as bishop suffragan of Hull — but this announcement was illegal as the see did not exist, and the error was corrected by HELLMUTH’s subsequent licensing as assistant-bishop to the Bishop of Ripon the Evangelical BICKERSTETH
(25 Sep 1883) first ordination for Ripon by HELLMUTH DD DCL lately bishop of Huron recently arrived England to enter appointment as assistant bishop in the diocese of Ripon; residing Harrogate

d eSEDGWICK was purportedly initiated as a member of the occultist Smaragdum Thalasses temple in Havelock North; this 'Golden Dawn' temple was set up by Dr Robert William FELKIN who headed up a successor body to the Golden Dawn know as the Stella Matutina (latin, Morning Star); FELKIN was a Chief of the London Amoun temple and intiated others into the hermetic tradition. FELKIN’s version was not strictly theosophical (see Richard YODER article in Church Times 24 Dec 2018, and pers comm (15 Jan 2019) from Rick YODER from his research particularly using the work of Anthony FULLER)

Further Comment: (05 Jan 1927) R W FELKIN died 28 Dec 1926 in Havelock North Hawke Bay New Zealand: an ambitious explorer in Africa, who was trained by the CMS especially for medical work and aged 26 he went up the Nile. After the death of Mary his first wife (early 1903 in London) he made a spiritual retreat with the Community of the Resurrection in Mirfield West Riding Yorkshire and did consider a vocation to the religious life as a lay brother. This connection with CR was continued (1910) when Fr J W FitzGERALD and Fr Timothy REES CR were with the Mission of Help to New Zealand. With his second wife he visited New Zealand (1913), returned to England then in poor health (1916) took up residence in Havelock North. (obituary Evening Star)

Historical Note on Norfolk Island and New Zealand:
(1788) Norfolk Island was settled from Sydney, later abandoned, later re-settled as a ‘place of secondary punishment’, subject to the government of NSW and
(from 1836) the bishop of Australia.
(1840) when transportation to NSW ceased, it continued to Van Diemen's Land [Tasmania] until 1853.
(1840) Norfolk Island (remaining as a penal settlement) came under Tasmanian colonial jurisdiction and (1842) after the creation of the diocese of Tasmania under the bishop of Tasmania.
(1856) GA SELWYN tried to buy land on Norfolk island as the base for the incipient Melanesian mission. Sir William DENISON the governor of NSW and governor-general of the Australian colonies (the latter office being titular only and ceasing in 1861) objected to SELWYN's proposal because he did not want Norfolk Island to be the centre of SELWYN's Melanesian mission – he referred to 'the influence of the savage Melanesians on Mr NOBBS' carefully-guarded and child-like flock'.
(1866) under his successor Sir John YOUNG the Melanesian mission did purchase land on Norfolk island:
(1867) Norfolk island was the headquarters for the missionary diocese of Melanesia, and thus part of the Anglican province of New Zealand.
(1913) administration of Norfolk island transferred from the NSW state to the Australian federal government
(1919) after the headquarters of the diocese of Melanesia moved to the Solomons, the parish of Norfolk island continued to be staffed by chaplains appointed by the diocese of Melanesia.
(05 Aug 1938) Norfolk island was formally transferred to the diocese of Sydney, and thus the Anglican church of Australia. (269;111)
  29 Mar 1855 departed England DUKE OF PORTLAND for New Zealand, having collected £10 000 from friends personal and church for the work in New Zealand; with Sarah his wife, the Revd JC PATTESON, the Revd R CARTER (411)
The Daily Southern Cross noted that the ship was 'engaged to convey the Right Revd the Lord Bishop of New Zealand and suite to Auckland'
  27 Sep 1858 by letters patent now metropolitan bishop of New Zealand (with HARPER, HOBHOUSE, ABRAHAM now episcopal visit the Melanesian mission

  02 Jul 1868 to sail for New Zealand.
  20 May 1869 wrote to his successor as metropolitan the new primate HARPER, that his own resignation as metropolitan and as bishop of New Zealand had been registered in the office of faculties of the archbishop of Canterbury

  1877 1st prelate of the Order of SS Michael and George, 'in recognition of long and great services rendered to the Church in the colonies' (212;219;144;287)
Other Notes
His brother William SELWYN was a member of the Ecclesiological Society (previously Cambridge Camden Society); George was an episcopal patron but before accepting that appointment, not a member. (312) 1851 Mrs Charlotte GODLEY describes him. 'A quite first-rate man, and so untiring and earnest in his calling, that you look at him almost with wonder and always with pleasure; he has such a very fine head, and regular features, and when he has lost only a few more hairs at the back of his head will be exactly like the pictures of S Carlo BORROMEO…. No one is quite perfect, and with grief I must own that one of the Bishop's eyes is not quite so lively as the other; it is scarcely a marchus way in assuring Mrs JACKSON that she would find realities very different from these charming dreams [of her husband's fantasy plans for this designated see of Lyttelton/Christchurch], and Mr JACKSON was almost angered at last at the contemptuous way in which the Bishop received his little affected jokes and notions about the people and ways of going on here.' (43)

He does not appear on British army lists but claimed to be an officer in the British army with a remarkable career which he was happy to write about in letters to The Times. For instance, he claimed to be (1864) brigadier-general in Burma, awarded order of the Star of Burma, commissary of transport; (1868, 1877) in Egypt, (1877) generalissimo of the army of King John of Abyssinia [Yohannes IV, 1837-1889; a strong promoter of the Orthodox church and against RC and Muslim people]; he appears to have visited Pernambuco, Bahia, Rio de Janeiro (Brazil); however he was probably connected with Lancashire cotton firm WH Hornyby & Co, and visited Burma in search of concessions, lost money; finally inmate of Enfield workhouse infirmary, constant in his fabulous tales where he claimed to be the father of the Princess Clovis Bonaparte daughter-in-law of Prince Jerome Bonaparte; author Recollections of Burma, Life of Arabi Pasha.

Other
AngloPapalit (of the Latin rite) – when staying with Fr STURT on my arrival in England (Nov 1965) I offered to join him for evensong in Holy Cross; he explained it was not possible as he was using the Latin breviary; yet in the 1970s while with me in Bishopdale, he was using the English offices in the Book of Common Prayer; by then I was using the latin office; thus both in 1965 and in 1977 the conflict of languages meant that we did not pray the office together

Other
1893 Bishop JR SELWYN noted: ‘this man utterly broke away after years of faithful service. The Bishop, Mr. Palmer and his uncle George SARAWIA did all they could to save him, but in vain. But God’s grace has not failed him, and the earnest prayers of the friends of the mission are asked for him, that the good shepherd may indeed bring this lost sheep, quite home to his fold’
Jul 1893 ‘Maros [TAMATA], the lapsed Deacon, after some wild proceedings resembling those of a maniac, seems to have come to his right mind, and has written a letter to Mr. PALMER, expressing deep penitence for his past conduct.’ (261)
25 Oct 1894 Bishop WILSON noted that MAROS jumped overboard, claiming Florida boys were trying to kill him, but the bishop thought him mentally disturbed.
1895 Bishop WILSON: ‘At Mota there had been serious trouble. Maros, the Deacon, courted a young engaged girl, and persuaded her to send back her real lover’s gifts, and accept his in their place. All the people were angry about it, and then it came out that he had sinned with her. They were furious and made an armed demonstration to drive him out of Mota. He has not gone yet, but I believe he will shortly. ‘The worst of it is that G. Sarawia has been treating him, as though he had been readmitted to the Diaconate, instead of only to prayers and the Holy Communion.’ Southern Cross Log the Fielden Taylor Hostel in Taranaki Street Wellington was his memorial from 1940 until it was sold in 1995. Were his name still on that hostel, later generations would have their attention drawn to this man as societal changes now expect re-examination of sexually-peccant clergy. I find it significant that the Church authorities set up a supervisory board. Despite his court case, a large crowd (7 000) turned out for his funeral ten years later. (Julia Stuart Jul 2019) (33)

  Jan 1922 obituary Southern Cross Log
His descendant Fr Anderson SAEOA tells the family story: because of the large number of guns around in the Solomons as men returned from work as indentured labour in Queensland (and Fiji?), Charles TURU’s grandfather ABUALA a custom priest was shot out of a nut tree and killed. His family had no guns for retaliation and they sent ABUALA’s grand son Charles TURU with the next recruiters who came by, with instructions that he return with a gun. He was too young to work as indentured labour in the Fiji plantations and was made a domestic servant instead. In that position he was converted to the Christian faith, and brought back not a gun but Christianity to his family. He was not well received by his relatives who were not yet Christian and he founded his church at Fiu at a distance from them. He also brought the kava ceremony that sometimes is enacted in the custom house. (pers comm Fr Anderson Saefoa, Aug 2015)

05 Jul 1825 Joseph Twigger was charged at the King's Bench Westminster by Miss Elizabeth Cole for an alleged breach of promise of marriage. Elizabeth Cole was from a wealthy family in Leicester, whose father had died in 1817, her mother in 1819, and the guardian to whom she had been committed, Mr Newbolt brother to Colonel Hulse, died soon after that. Since 24 Jun 1823 she had been boarding in the home of Mrs PRING, who lived three houses away from Mrs PEERS (Pears) and her second husband, Captain PEERS. She had soon met at the home of his mother in Coleshill, Joseph Twigger. He was on vacation from Oxford where he was reading for holy orders (under pressure from his mother rather than from his own desire). Elizabeth Cole found Joseph to be a 'young man of fascinating manners'; she knew that he as the eldest son would inherit an income of about £300-400 a year. (His mother’s farm of 85 acres was leased at £150 a year.) She believed his attentions to be honourable, and that he intended marriage. His love letters did not declare intention of marriage (but do evidence his betting on his great enthusiasm, boxing) and were considered by the chief justice to be 'rhapsodical nonsense'. The Revd John Parker an associate of Twigger when he was at Coleshill gave evidence that TWIGGER had not stated any intention of marrying Elizabeth Cole. A month before she gave birth on 10 Sep 1824, Mrs PRING had thrown her out of her house to avoid disgrace to herself and had been harboured by Mrs TWIGGER. Joseph TWIGGER had disappeared when this news reached him. Elizabeth Cole had sent the police to arrest him so that he might affiliate the child. They found him now a married man living at Kingston-upon-Hull East Riding Yorkshire, for on 10 Dec 1824 at St Leonards Shoreditch London he had married a widow Catherine Lawton. On his arrest Joseph TWIGGER had accepted the bastardy bond for the affiliation of the child. However during the trial another local young man Charles Dickins was accused of also having a sexual relationship with Elizabeth Cole, establishing the argument that she was a woman of loose morals. His mother stood firmly with her son Joseph Twigger. The defendant was 'non-suited', which means that the plaintiff had failed in her attempt to prove breach of promise. (411)
21 Dec 1832 the Revd Joseph TWIGGER was called as a prosecution witness in the trial of the 'Nuneaton rioters'. This case was about national franchise reform, buying votes, local politics, and violent behaviour. He ran away to avoid the street rioters, and when hiding behind a curtain in his room, TWIGGER heard them calling out that they would get the ‘parson of Bulkington’, himself. (411)

04 Sep 1843 the Revd Joseph TWIGGER of Kensall Green London contributed £5 to the National Society for the Promoting of the Education of the Poor (411)

1855 see the Christchurch coroner’s report; an habitué of the White Hart hotel, late at night on heading home fell into the River Avon and drowned. A cabbie Stephen BROOKER found his body.

1891 On the death of Charlotte TWIGGER the widow of his late cousin John TWIGGER was his heir, his estate worth £16,000 was bequeathed to the Old Men’s Home in Ashburton, and the Anglican church-sponsored Female Refuge (for women having illegitimate babies) and Orphanage Christchurch

Note on the position of the bishopric of Polynesia
16 Aug 1921 On the resignation of Bishop TC TWITCHELL, the status of the bishopric was considered: whether to attach it now to the province of New Zealand or to the church of Australia. The proposals to have under the bishop of Melanesia (resident in the Solomon islands) three suffragan bishops, one of whom would be the suffragan bishop of Tonga and Polynesia, were mooted in the New Zealand Board of Missions and the Australian Board of Missions, as well as with JM STEWARD the bishop of Melanesia and the English Melanesian Committee
06 Feb 1925 at Dunedin New Zealand general synod of the province of New Zealand ‘associated’ the diocese of Polynesia with the church of the Province of New Zealand as a missionary diocese like Melanesia (261; minutes of general synod; New Zealand Church News, 69)

Other
‘friend and former curate to Arthur WINNINGTON-INGRAM’ (1897-1901) bishop of Stepney, (1901-1939) bishop of London (202) – which is a curious claim as WINNINGTON-INGRAM was never parish priest where TWITCHELL was curate, and was no longer bishop of Stepney when TWITCHELL was (1903-1908) at All Hallows East India Docks. As bishop of London (1901-1939) he had nominal responsibility for such isolated Anglican ministries as that in Fiji. His cooperation ensured the formation of the new see based in Fiji.
Again, Charles WHONSBN-ASTON states TWITCHELL was related to Richard Twitchell MATHEWS, and that these kinsmen fell out severely. Doubtless they fell out but a family connection is not found. (MWB 2002,2009)

1894 Bishop JR SELWYN noted ‘WADROKAL was one of the earliest of Bishop PATTESON’s scholars. When his own Island of Nengone was given up to the London Mission he elected to follow him. He was ordained after his death, and worked with zeal, though not always with discretion, at Savo, Ysabel, and Santa Cruz. For the latter group he volunteered, beseeching most earnestly that he might be the first to stay on the Islands where his ‘father’ Bishop PATTESON had been killed. Latterly his health broke down, and he retired on a small pension to his own home. Though in some ways he was unsatisfactory, yet his courage and faith were very notable.’ (261)
2012 diocese of Ysabel renamed the catechist training centre the ‘Mano Wadrokal school of theology and ministry’ to recognise his pioneering work in Isabel c1955 Bishop Warren ordered the removal of tabernacle from the high altar, Christchurch S Michael; on its installation on the north wall of the adjacent Pilgrims' chapel, a brass plate was set in the high altar reredos in the vacant place where the tabernacle was once secured, 'The tabernacle was removed by the order of the Lord Bishop of this diocese, Pray for the peace of Jerusalem'. This plate was removed by order of that angry bishop, and C Gault publicly apologised.

Note on tabernacle

1963 the week after the retirement of C Gault as parish priest, Christchurch S Michael, Warren ordered the churchwardens to remove the tabernacle from the church itself and to replace it with an aumbry; the tabernacle was accepted by JC Vockler bishop in Polynesia for the Anglican cathedral in Fiji (pers comm. Isla Hunter, previous headmistress Hukarere Māori girls' college, Napier). (2012 it was not seen to be in the cathedral in Suva pers com PO Williams)

In 1867 the Bishop of Natal [COLENSO] prayed the Supreme Court for an order interdicting the Revd JH WILLS from officiating into the cathedral church of Maritzburg, cathedral for the diocese of Natal. The Liberal JW COLENSO the deposed (and even excommunicated) bishop of Natal, with the support of Robert GRAY the Tractarian metropolitan bishop of Cape Town, had intruded him as ‘curate’ into the cathedral church of Maritzburg, cathedral for the diocese of Natal. The Liberal JW COLENSO the deposed (and even excommunicated) bishop of Natal went to court to have WILLS (and other challengers to his authority) removed. churches of the Colony set apart for the use of the Church of England and Ireland, until he had obtained the licence of the Bishop of the Diocese. The order was refused on the ground that the plaintiff had no status as Bishop...' - from the biography of Dean GREEN of Maritzburg (CPSA Archives, Wits University Library, 2006)

WILLS claimed that for three years and more at the request of the bishop of Bloemfontein and to explore possible places for church development, he went through the Transvaal goldfields and through to Matabeleland and visited Great Zimbabwe, and claimed to have been the first white man to have climbed the hills of Matopos - in what was to become colonial Southern Rhodesia (and later independent Zimbabwe) before his return to South Africa. - this is only related to the truth (MWB).

From about Oct 1869, WILLS went for maybe six months (not three years) to visit the goldfields and through to Victoria Falls and the Zambezi. (In Jul 1869 his bishop TWELLS had fled the country to avoid arrest. See below.)

Was WILLS extending the period of his visit to the interior to distance himself further from TWELLS?

While he may well have visited these places, by no means was he the first white man to have climbed Matopos hills (MWB and Neil PIERCE, who did this themselves and easily as have many).

WILLS claimed that he returned briefly to England in 1872 and did deputation for the SPG and lectured at the Royal Society on his discoveries in Southern Africa - may be true (MWB).

Until mid-1872 WILLS was signing the baptismal register at S Alban Pretoria. The SPG history refers to the 2nd bishop, now 'of Bloemfontein' not 'of the Orange Free State' as performing clerical duty at Pretoria for three months in the absence of Mr WILLS in England (47)

In 1872 WILLS' return to England was certainly 'brief' for he and his wife were swiftly accepted by the commissary for the bishop of Christchurch, Prebendary Henry TUCKER at the SPG office in Westminster, and they quickly sailed on to New Zealand (70;MWB).

WILLS claimed that when secretary to Bishop COLENSO in the diocese of Natal he had been a close friend of Sir Henry Rider HAGGARD and been so helpful with his research for the novel King Solomon's Mines that an early edition of the book was dedicated to him in appreciation of his assistance. (Untrue (MWB).)

WILLS was hostile to Bishop COLENSO and was himself an intruder into the cathedral of Natal diocese. WILLS however was close, possibly even at some point secretary, to his own diocesan bishop Edward TWELLS, but when in Jul 1869 TWELLS fled the country with somody charges pending, WILLS expunged all reference to any connection with TWELLS.

WILLS' claims of African friendship with Rider HAGGARD are untenable, as HAGGARD came to South Africa after the disgrace of his bishop. (MWB)

Positions

31 Dec 1868 for the first half of 1869 the Revd J Harris WILLS was announced to be conducting the grammar school in Bloemfontein. (Friend of the Orange Free State and Bloemfontein Gazette, provided by family information)

1869 at Philippolis missionary diocese of the Orange River Free State. This statement is from his initial papers given in 1873 to Prebendary TUCKER in London and thus reported to the bishop of Christchurch in New Zealand but contradicts the contemporary evidence that in 1869 he was conducting a school in Bloemfontein, and travelling into the interior (Transvaal gold mines, Victoria Falls and the Zambezi River). Furthermore there is no record of any appointment to Philippolis. The diocesan history says WILLS had initially an itinerant appointment, visiting villages across a wide district. (CPSA Archives, Wits University Library Witwatersrand 2006; see Some Account of the Diocese of Bloemfontein, by Archdeacon CRISP, Oxford: James Parker 1895)

Oct 1869 with two gentlemen gone (in poor health) for six months trip into the interior, to the goldfields, Victoria Falls, the Zambezi 1870-mid1872 Pretoria *(SPG funded) diocese South Africa (47) – He may have been in ‘poor health’, but he would certainly be in distress after the disgrace of his bishop. 11 Jun 1928 bishop (in cathedral S Andrew Sydney) by Sydney (WRIGHT), Newcastle (from 01 May 1928: George Merrick LONG, who was the preacher, previously bishop of Bathurst, died 09 Jul 1930 London, attending Lambeth conference of bishops), Goulburn (RADFORD), Riverina (HALSE), Bathurst (CROTTY); and Gilbert WHITE (previously of Carpentaria, and of Willochra), Rupert MOUNSEY CR [Community of the Resurrection, Mirfield] (previously briefly Labuan & Sarawak), D’ARCY-IRVINE (co-adjutor bishop of Sydney; also present was the Revd Conrad MOUNTFORT from the diocese of Melanesia (later dean of Honiara) - he was consecrated outside the province of New Zealand with a mandatum [an authority] from the archbishop of New Zealand and three bishops for the consecration in Sydney; this extra-Provincial consecration was strategic as the Mission hoped to arouse interest and finance in the Australia church for the new bishopric by having his consecration there rather than in the ecclesiastical province of New Zealand – it’s a sensitive matter (261;8)

Positions
02 Sep 1896 layreader Coogee diocese Sydney

13 Jul 1905-01 Jan 1907 rector Mulgoa with Greendale and Luddenham

02 Sep 1916-26 Feb 1928 canon residential and sub-dean cathedral diocese Bathurst
1916-1928 examining chaplain bishop Bathurst (8)
12 Oct 1927 nomination announced, to be the second assistant to the bishop of Melanesia, bishop for Northern Melanesia, ie the Mandated Territory of New Guinea, included in the diocese Melanesia; nominated by a committee of the Australian Board of Missions; the diocese to include Bougainville, islands to the north-west off the coast of Papua, and Rabaul; he would start work in the Gasmata district - he is noted as being ‘exceptionally strong in health’ (261)
24 Jan 1928 His consecration in Australia needed to be delayed until AVERILL the primate of New Zealand was (with a change of the canon achieved at (Apr 1928) general synod) enabled to issue the necessary mandate for the consecration of WILTON in Australia (and not New Zealand) (261)

Nov 1927 the Bathurst diocesan council (president Bishop LONG) decided to continue WILTON’s normal stipend and pension contributions for him while he was overseas; he thus continued to be a member of the diocese of Bathurst n d MOLYNEUX bishop of Melanesia visited WILTON in Bathurst (261)
12 Mar 1928 with Bishop FM MOLYNEUX, arrived for (19 Apr 1928-01 May 1928) general synod Auckland SOUTHERN CROSS: asked for support for the Melanesian appeal, acknowledging that the diocese needed £10 000 per annum operating costs - particularly for the aging MV SOUTHERN CROSS V (261)
04 May 1928 departed Auckland with FM MOLYNEUX, the Revd LE CARTRIDGE, the Revd GF LEGGATT, Mr D Lloyd FRANCIS (later a priest) and others, after attending general synod of the New Zealand province
30 Jun 1928 attended the diocesan synod at Siota Solomon islands (at which FM MOLYNEUX presiding was unanimously nominated to be the successor to JM STEWARD retiring bishop also present) before proceeding to Sydney for consecration: Jun 1928 (assistant) bishop of Northern Melanesia, for the New Britain islands (then within diocese of Melanesia, now in the nation and church of Papua New Guinea); the isolated 500K stretch of coastline in the Gasmata district on the southwestern end of New Britain became his mission: ‘disastrous’ appointment
Aug- Sep 1928 publicity tour of parts of Australia (261) including 15 Aug 1928 women’s meeting in S Gabriel Ainslie Canberra
28 Sep 1928 from Sydney MARSINA, arrived Rabaul, with staff the Revd V SHERWIN (who arrived just before he did), the Revd LE CARTRIDGE (the first recruit from England for the new initiative), and Mr Stanley G TITLER carpenter (a theological student, later ordained Australia): he made visits to Gasmata (near here was to be the main centre for the see), Lindenhafen, Salamau, and stations to be initiated at Kalerigi, Navalapua, SagSag, Arawe; he planned a visit to England for 1930 (261)
Jan 1929 while travelling around the diocese taken ill at Toma, 40k from Rabaul, and returned thither. Bishop MOLYNEUX declared illness to be ‘sunstroke’ (261)
Feb 1929 though much better was to voyage to Sydney to recuperate (261) - but did not go to Sydney at once: 01 Apr 1929 Southern Cross Log announced he was ill and may need to retire (261)
18 Apr 1929 at Gasmata, on board the government schooner HERMES wrote of contact with new areas of New Britain and is about to visit V SHERWIN - no mention of illness nor of going to Sydney (261)
19 May 1929 after but six months in the diocese, arrived Sydney MORINDA on mission business – and probably stays in Australia without returning to New Guinea
01 Jul 1929 resignation accepted: he had broken down in health, been ordered to return to Australia, had set out, but felt better: and continued his work (of which he wrote in Apr 1929); the Auckland office of the Melanesian Mission had no information beyond that - he might be ill temporarily

Note: Bishop MOLYNEUX made reference to the appointment of WILTON in his annual report, indicating that WILTON intended to begin work among the natives in 1929 (Jul 1929 (261))
13 Jul 1929 press report Sydney that he had resigned after a ‘paralytic stroke’ in the islands
09 Aug 1929 annual report of the Melanesian Mission Finance Board (in Auckland) regretted that WILTON ‘unable to continue’ (261)
Sep 1929 MOLYNEUX now bishop of Melanesia had accepted WILTON’s resignation because of his state of health; his friend the Revd Leslie WALKER from Bathurst was due to join the staff at the end of 1929 (261)
nd 1929 resigned following allegations of sexual misconduct with youths, but ‘utterly broken down in health’ with ‘sunstroke near Rabaul’ – no further comment, neither thanks nor good wishes are offered, and against him no charges were brought in church or civil court (111;202;163;280)
However: in the private file of Major ROBINSON general manager of the Melanesian Mission office (first in Auckland; 1933- in Sydney): reference to the ‘caddish behaviour’ of the Australian Board of Missions [ABM] towards WILTON: the reason given here for WILTON’s ‘forced resignation’ was a series of sexually explicit letters written by ‘ladies’ to WILTON: when brought to the attention of the ABM these were deemed grounds to request his resignation. ABM subsequently subverted attempts to ‘rehabilitate’ WILTON - ROBINSON had not in fact seen the letters (Church of Melanesia archives, Honiara, Solomon Islands, information from T Brown Jan 2009)
26 Sep 1930-1941- general licence diocese Sydney

Nov 1917 major row with RP WILSON

1918 four months in Reef islands

15 Oct 1918-16 Oct 1918 diocesan conference meeting at Maravovo Guadalcanar: required his consultation with J STEWARD in the north and H DRUMMOND in the south; expressed dissatisfaction with the bishop’s administration and he at once resigned; (202) 31 Dec 1918 vacated see of Melanesia ‘a terrible failure’ (280); RP WILSON, senior missionary late of Bunana (Mbungana) Island Solomon islands elected administrator for oversight of the work

Jan 1919 WOOD arrived in Sydney and went to stay with the archbishop of Melbourne (261)

Southern Cross Log A BM review announcement: ‘The Bishop feels unequal to the immense difficulties of the work, and of the special problems which have gathered around the work of the Melanesian mission. He has endeared himself to us by his deep spiritual qualities. The Bishop is remaining at Mararovo College, Solomon islands [under JM STEWARD first theological college established there], and the Revd Paley WILSON is acting administrator.’ (261)

30 Apr 1919-12 May 1919 Acta of 21st general synod of the province of New Zealand: bishop of Auckland (AVERILL) as chair of the select committee proposed that the diocesan staff had adopted the only course open to them to obtain an adjustment of their legitimate grievances against their bishop; and advised the staff of this sympathy and invited proposals for the future conduct of the Mission; the select committee on the affairs of the Melanesian Mission reported (09 May 1919) that they had considered the statement of the Bishop of Melanesia submitted to the Archbishop of Canterbury, had heard the administrator of the diocese of Melanesia, and unanimously agreed that the staff had adopted the only course open to them to obtain an adjustment of their legitimate grievances; they had considered the suggestions of the English Committee, the chairman of the Australian Board of Missions, and the Administrator of the diocese of Melanesia, and suggest that the staff of the Melanesian Mission be informed that the Church in New Zealand was prepared to consider with sympathy such proposals as they might make as to the future conduct of the Mission and requested formulation of their proposals to be submitted to a Commission of General synod to be set up

Southern Cross Log editorial comment: often in poor health, difficulty in keeping the work going, had not seen his way to make his headquarters in the islands; duties called him away from the ordinary work in the islands, and from lack of encouragement the island work suffered. [He was personally and particularly distressed at the tragic unnecessary deaths of missionaries LONG, SAGE and others.] The Maravovo conference carried a unanimous vote of dissatisfaction at the bishop’s non-residence in the islands and his inability to adapt himself to the needs of the Mission.
