My father remembers him affectionately because as a teenager. “Mr SELL” gave him and other boys the responsibility during WW2 of ringing the bell and acting as sides-persons, counting the collection, opening the church. He recalls the “Procession of Witness” led by DERRY’s Military Band distributing posies around the parish each year on Mothering Sunday at S Stephen Shirley. He held the youth Bible class in the vicarage lounge and totally ignored Norman BLAIN (MWB's uncle & a close friend of my uncle Graham BRUÈRE) going in behind the settee and letting the Holland blind shoot up. 25 May 1854 ‘The Bishop of New Zealand on the Melanesian Mission’ The Times
29 Jun 1854 preached College of S Augustine Canterbury [SAC] England

Historical Note on Norfolk Island and New Zealand:

(1788) Norfolk Island was settled from Sydney, later abandoned, later re-settled as a ‘place of secondary punishment’, subject to the government of NSW and from 1836 the bishop of Australia.

(1840) when transportation to NSW ceased, it continued to Van Diemen’s Land (Tasmania) until 1853.

(1840) Norfolk Island (remaining as a penal settlement) came under Tasmanian colonial jurisdiction and (1842) after the creation of the diocese of Tasmania under the bishop of Tasmania.

(1856) GA SELWYN tried to buy land on Norfolk Island as the base for the incipient Melanesian mission. Sir William DENISON the governor of NSW and governor general of the Australian colonies (the latter office being titular only and ceasing in 1861) objected to SELWYN’s proposal because he did not want Norfolk Island to be the centre of SELWYN’s Melanesian mission – he referred to ‘the influence of the savage Melanesians on Mr NOBBS’ carefully-guarded and child-like flock.

(1866) under his successor Sir John YOUNG the Melanesian mission did purchase land on Norfolk Island:

(1867) Norfolk island was the headquarters for the missionary diocese of Melanesia, and thus part of the Anglican province of New Zealand.

(1913) administration of Norfolk Island transferred from the NSW state to the Australian federal government (1919) after the headquarters of the diocese of Melanesia moved to the Solomons, the parish of Norfolk Island continued to be staffed by chaplains appointed by the diocese of Melanesia.

(05 Aug 1938) Norfolk Island was formally transferred to the diocese of Sydney, and thus the Anglican church of Australia. (269;111)

29 Mar 1855 departed England DUKE OF PORTLAND for New Zealand, having collected £10 000 from friends personal and church for the work in New Zealand; with Sarah his wife, the Revd JC PATTESON, the Revd R CARTER (411)

The Daily Southern Cross noted that the ship was ‘engaged to convey the Right Revd the Lord Bishop of New Zealand and suite to Auckland’

27 Sep 1858 by letters patent now metropolitan bishop of New Zealand (with HARPER, HOBHOUSE, ABRAHAM now episcopal assistants to him rather than to the bishop of Sydney who had been to each their metropolitan)

1861 resigned charge of Melanesian mission to JC PATTESON missionary bishop for Melanesia;

after his 11th visit he did not again visit the Melanesian mission

19 Apr 1862 in Auckland, with JC PATTESON, Sir William MARTIN, the Revd Samuel BLACKBURN (principal College of S John) and William ATKIN of the Tamaki, signed agreement for setting up the Melanesian Mission Trust Board; witnesses Edwin F NORRIS ‘clerk to the Bishop of New Zealand, Auckland’, Edward H HEYWOOD ‘clerk, North Shore Auckland’, and Pirimona TE KARARI ‘clerk, Native Deacon, Auckland’; MARTIN, BLACKBURN, ATKIN as trustees

1867 – 1868 trustee College of S John Evangelist Auckland (68)

01 Dec 1867 accepted see and translation to Lichfield (2;47)

Dec 1867 adjourned session of 1867 Lambeth Conference of bishops appointed him ‘corresponding secretary of the bishops of the Anglican Communion’

04 Jan 1868 confirmed at Bow in the see of Lichfield

09 Jan 1868 (vice John LONSDALE) enthroned 91st bishop of Lichfield

17 Jun 1868 organised 1st diocesan clergy conference, against opposition of Lord HARRWAYB [Dudley RYDER 2nd earl of HARRWAYB]

and some clergy; to mollify HARRWAYB he named it not a synod but a conference

02 Jul 1868 to sail for New Zealand

20 May 1869 wrote to his successor as metropolitan the new primate HARPER, that his own resignation as metropolitan and as bishop of New Zealand had been registered in the office of faculties of the archbishop of Canterbury

1871 arrived New York USA on JAVA

1877 1st prelate of the Order of SS Michael and George, ‘in recognition of long and great services rendered to the Church in the colonies’ (212;219;144;287)

Other Notes

His brother William SELWYN was a member of the Ecclesiological Society (previously Cambridge Camden Society); George was an episcopal patron but before accepting that appointment, not a member. (312)

1851 Mrs Charlotte GODLEY describes him. ‘A quite first-rate man, and so unting and earnest in his calling, that you look at him almost with wonder and always with pleasure; he has such a very fine head, and regular features, and when he has lost only a few more hairs at the back of his head will be exactly like the pictures of S Carlo BORROMEO.... No one is quite perfect, and with grief I must observe that the perfect benignity of his expression; and it is the greater pity, because they are such very good eyes.’ After watching him with the Revd Thomas JACKSON, she noted: ‘his disposition is to take a certain kind of pride in “roughing it” and “doing without” things, so that he took great pleasure in assuring Mrs JACKSON that she would find realities very different from these charming dreams [of her husband’s]’ (43)

Note

22 Aug 1845 Lisburn Ireland, ‘the Revd TJ SMYTH’ was at the forefront of a meeting known as the ‘Great Protestant Demonstration’, politically focussed on the reforming administration of Sir Robert PEEL, attacking him for his perceived support for Roman Catholics in Ireland and for his betrayal of the Protestant cause and privileges, and religiously rallying the Orangeist supporters of the late William of Orange elector of the Netherlands (died 1702). Other surnames of relevance to families in the Blain Biographical Directory include the Revd J HOBSON, and Mr R DOLLING Deputy Lieutenant and Justice of the Peace. (see report in Irish Times)

NOTE ON ROBERT ADEANE BARLOW HER FATHER

He does not appear on British army lists but claimed to be an officer in the British army with a remarkable career which he was happy to write about in letters to The Times. For instance, he claimed to be (1864) brigadier-general in Burma, awarded order of the Star of Burma, commissary of transport; (1868,1877) in Egypt, (1877) generalissimo of the army of King John of Abyssinia [Yohannes IV, 1837-1889; a strong promoter of the Orthodox church and against RC and Muslim people]; he appears to have visited Pernambuco, Bahia, Rio de Janeiro (Brazil); however he was probably connected with Lancashire cotton firm WH Hornby & Co, and visited Burma in search of concessions, lost money; finally inmate of Enfield workhouse infirmary, constant in his fabulous tales where he claimed to be the father of the Princess Clovis BONAPARTE daughter-in-law of Prince Jerome BONAPARTE; author Recollections of Burma, Life of Arabi Pasha,

*S Anselms was the brief result of Bishop CHERRINGTON’s attempts to found a diocesan seminary. Students lived in the bishop’s house and he was their principal tutor. Candidates who were not able to meet selection standards in other New Zealand dioceses were accepted by CHERRINGTON who ordained them after little training. ‘Very queer people’ (information Allan PYATT pers comm 1971)
[In CHERRINGTON’s defence, Auckland diocese carved the Waikato off in 1926 without any endowments and he spent his first years drumming up cash in England and took candidates from the Brotherhood of S Paul Little Barfield. He also felt the drain of men called up for military chaplaincy in WW2. RAB]
Through Ian O’NEILL a novice at Mirfield for years and a family leader at S Barnabas Roseneath, Edward Williams STARTUP presented Roseneath with a pair of brass glass processional lanterns for use outside. [MWB]

Other
AngloPapalist (of the Latin rite) – when staying with Fr STURT on my arrival in England (Nov 1965) I offered to join him for evensong in Holy Cross; he explained it was not possible as he was using the Latin breviary; yet in the 1970s while with me in Bishopdale, he was using the English offices in the Book of Common Prayer; by then I was using the Latin office; thus both in 1965 and in 1977 the conflict of languages meant that we did not pray the office together (MWB) member SSC (Societas Sanctae Crucis), celibate roll member Sodality of the Precious Blood [which used only the Latin breviary and did not marry], of the Catholic League

TAMATA, MAROS [MAROSTAMATA, MAROSTOMATA, MAROOS]
born before 1849 Motalava [Motlav] buried at Vava, after which locals took care of his wife and two children nephew to George SARAWIA, friend of PALMER (412;202)

Education
1863 mission school, ‘like a son to John PALMER’ (412)

Positions
09 Nov 1884 deacon Melanesia (Frances Awdry, In the Isles of the Sea: The Story of Fifty Years in Melanesia, London: Bemrose & Son, Ltd, and Derby, 1902) http://Anglicanhistory.org/oceania/awdry1902/

1878-1880 stationed Vava in the island of Loh, Torres group ill to Mota Torres island (412;398) 1879 stationed residing missionary Torres islands but removed in critical condition

teacher Lat

Easter 1883 Vava
1888 married pagan local woman and left mission (398)

1889, 1894 repentance noted by A BRITTAIN and encored by Bishop JR SELWYN in England (261)

Jun 1897- Jul 1897 with support of Lealul [wife?] meets with John PALMER on a visit to the Banks Islands: ‘utterly broken down, speaks of repentance but blames everyone else, yet shows signs of a shift forward’ (415)

but FOX (412) has the following information which does not reconcile with other information:

1878 began small school on Lakona
1878-1885 taught excellently, Banks group
1884 ordained and regarded as one of ablest best Melanesian clergy

1888 complete failure: people drove him from Lakona and he returned to Mota

d came to grief again, on Mota lived quietly on Mota and died there, not re-instated (412)

Other
1893 Bishop JR SELWYN noted: ‘this man utterly broke away after years of faithful service. The Bishop, Mr. Palmer and his uncle George SARAWIA did all they could to save him, but in vain. But God’s grace has not failed him, and the earnest prayers of the friends of the mission are asked for him, that the good shepherd may indeed bring this lost sheep, quite home to his fold’

Jul 1893 ‘Maros [TAMATA], the lapsed Deacon, after some wild proceedings resembling those of a maniac, seems to have come to his right mind, and has written a letter to Mr. PALMER, expressing deep penitence for his past conduct.’ (261)

25 Oct 1894 Bishop WILSON noted that MAROS jumped overboard, claiming Florida boys were trying to kill him, but the bishop thought him mentally disturbed.

1895 Bishop WILSON: ‘At Mota there had been serious trouble. Maros, the Deacon, courted a young, engaged girl, and persuaded her to send back her real lover’s gifts, and accept his in their place. All the people were angry about it, and then it came out that he had sinned with her. They were furious and made an armed demonstration to drive him out of Mota. He has not gone yet, but I believe he will shortly. ’The worst of it is that G. Sarawia has been treating him, as though he had been readmitted to the Diaconate, instead of only to prayers and the Holy Communion.’ Southern Cross Log

1933 with daughters organised dance for S Luke building fund
Comment: i took her a widow regularly to evensong at Christchurch S Michael & All Angels during the earlier 1960s; she crossed herself at ‘O God make speed to save us’ and again at ‘Take not Thy Holy Spirit from us’, which in this next century I find of interest, for she was a loyal person in all ways and was replicating the ceremonial customs of All Saints Small Heath her parish church in the late nineteenth century. She was adamantly opposed to bringing the altar forward for mass, arguing that she would be in favour ‘if it brought one more person to church’ which struck me as unknowable unless the altar were moved so we might find out MWB the Fielden Taylor Hostel in Taranaki Street Wellington was his memorial from 1940 until it was sold in 1995. Were his name still on that hostel, later generations would have their attention drawn to this man as societal changes now expect re-examination of sexually-peccant clergy. I find it significant that the Church authorities set up a supervisory board. Despite his court case, a large crowd (7 000) turned out for his funeral ten years later. (Julia Stuart Jul 2019) (33)

Other
1884 he stated that he had read in Greek the four gospels, Acts, the Epistles of S John, portion of Revelation, the ‘1st book of Caesar’ at school, some of the works of WESTCOTT, Evan DANIEL, Bishop Harold BROWNE [bishop of Winchester vice S WILBERFORCE] and Dean FARRAR, PLUMMER etc etc;
The bishop of Exeter Frederick TEMPLE (1869-1885 bishop of Exeter; (1885-1896) of London, (1896-1902) of Canterbury) writes that he ‘is penniless and lives on what he can earn. He has been foolish enough to marry without any assured income. And I have no doubt that it is very important to him to get such an income without delay. He has supported his widowed mother for some years, and that no doubt has been a heavy burden to carry. His wife and his mother are not ladies nor persons, I understand, of education. But the wife is said to be a person well fitted for missionary life.’ (180)
02 Aug 1884 the Revd RH CODRINGTON for SPG wrote to BENSON archbishop of Canterbury commending him for ordination 15 Sep 1884 Arthur MILLS [formerly MP, a member of the Canterbury Association] knew Norfolk Island and commended THORMAN to Lambeth for ordination for there specifically. (Dec 1880 MILLS had attended the consecration of the PATTESON memorial chapel S Barnabas author, Some account of Stoke-by-Nayland Suffolk Canterbury Association 27 Mar 1848 member;

06 Feb 1851 management committee, member Ecclesiastical committee Land purchase:
CM Torlesse bought 700 acres in the Mandeville district, Rangiora Bush;
several members of his family including his son Charles Obin TORLESSE a surveyor with Captain Thomas of the Canterbury Association bought land and farmed around Rangiora.

Notes on NZ connections:
A long-term friend to Canterbury settlement and its hopes to found a truer freer Church of England and a kindly feudal society, Charles Martin TORLESSE was among those proposed as bishop for Lyttelton. He attended meetings regularly as a member of the Ecclesiastical committee of the Canterbury Association.
To the colony, he sent his son Charles Obin TORLESSE, employed (1848) as a surveyor mapping in Canterbury; he worked in Nelson province before farming in North Canterbury. And Henry, later ordained priest by Bishop HARPER, who had a brilliant brief ministry with a strong social commitment. His daughters Priscilla and Frances came to Canterbury, where Frances was a church social worker (warmly appreciated by Bishop Harper), and subsequently a founder deaconess of the women’s religious order which later became the Anglican religious order Community of the Sacred Name (CSN). Charles Martin TORLESSE urged local honest yeomanry of Suffolk to migrate as well—among the few to accept the suggestion was Charles MERTON the village boot-maker, whose sons became important in Canterbury education, music making, and the church; Thomas MERTON the twentieth century Cistercian spiritual teacher was a descendant. The Torlesse range and river in North Canterbury, took his family name; Stoke near Nelson took the name of the village where he was so long the vicar; Sir Charles Ricketts ROWLEY baronet of Tending Hall presented (1864) a bell for Stoke, Nelson. S Mary the Virgin church, at Stoke-by-Nayland has a memorial stained-glass window for Charles TORLESSE, as well as several windows, memorial to the nineteenth century ROWLEY family. ROWLEYS were patrons of the living.

Jan 1922 obituary Southern Cross Log
His descendant Fr Anderson SAEOA tells the family story: because of the large number of guns around in the Solomons as men returned from work as indentured labour in Queensland (and Fiji?), Charles TURU’s grandfather ABUALA a custom priest was shot out of a nut tree and killed. His family had no guns for retaliation, and they sent ABUALA’s grandson Charles TURU with the next recruiters who came by, with instructions that he return with a gun. He was too young to work as indentured labour in the Fiji plantations and was made a domestic servant instead. In that position he was converted to the Christian faith and brought back not a gun but Christianity to his family. He was not well received by his relatives, who were not yet Christian, and he founded his church at Fiu at a distance from them. He also brought the kava ceremony that sometimes is enacted in the custom house. (pers comm Fr Anderson Saefoa, Aug 2015)

Aug 1921 resigned his ‘heart-breaking’ diocese (202)

Note on the position of the bishopric of Polynesia
16 Aug 1921 On the resignation of Bishop TC TWITCHELL, the status of the bishopric was considered: whether to attach it now to the province of New Zealand or to the church of Australia. The proposals to have under the bishop of Melanesia (resident in the Solomon islands) three suffragan bishops, of whom would be the suffragan bishop of Tonga and Polynesia, were mooted in the New Zealand Board of Missions and the Australian Board of Missions, as well as with JM STEWARD the bishop of Melanesia and the English Melanesian Committee
06 Feb 1925 at Dunedin New Zealand general synod of the province of New Zealand ‘associated’ the diocese of Polynesia with the church of the Province of New Zealand as a missionary diocese like Melanesia (261; minutes of general synod; New Zealand Church News, 69)

1941 residing lightham Sevenoaks Kent (8)

Other
‘friend and former curate to Arthur WINNINGTON-INGRAM’ (1897-1901) bishop of Stepney, (1901-1939) bishop of London (202) – which is a curious claim as WINNINGTON-INGRAM was never parish priest where TWITCHELL was curate, and was no longer bishop of Stepney when TWITCHELL was (1903-1908) at All Hallows East India Docks. As bishop of London (1901-1939) he had nominal responsibility for such isolated Anglican ministries as that in Fiji. His cooperation ensured the formation of the new see based in Fiji. Again, Charles WHONSEN-ASTON states TWITCHELL was related to Richard Twitchell MATHEWS, and that these kinsmen fell out severely. Doubtless they fell out but a family connection is not found. [he was a great source of humour – when I was curate in New Plymouth, he visited his friend from Suva days Archdeacon Michael BENT. It was my turn to preside at morning eucharist – when I came to the peace, I greeted them with “friends” as we were struggling with the sexist and archaic term “brethren.” Michael retorted “I’d sooner be your brother than your friend.” I replied that it was quite scriptural, as Jesus had addressed the disciples as friends in John’s Gospel. Meanwhile at the back of the chapel John-Charles raised his hands in the air “Saints, saints.” From then on, the peace at St Mary’s began with “Saints, we are the body of Christ!” RAB]

1887 with lay reader Actaeon Edward C FORREST in charge of school Santa Cruz (202)

Other
1894 Bishop JR SELWYN noted ‘WADROKAL was one of the earliest of Bishop PATTESON's scholars. When his own Island of Nengone was given up to the London Mission[ary Society] he elected to follow him. He was ordained after his death, and worked with zeal, though not always with discretion, at Savo, Yasbel, and Santa Cruz. For the latter group he volunteered, beseeching most earnestly that he might be the first to stay on the Islands where his ‘father’ Bishop PATTESON had been killed. Latterly his health broke down, and he retired on a small pension to his own home. Though in some ways he was unsatisfactory, yet his courage and faith were very notable.’ (261)
2012 diocese of Ysabel renamed their catechist training centre the ‘Mano Wadrokal school of theology and ministry’ to recognise his pioneering work in Isabel (pers comm Dr Terry BROWN)

Note on tabernacle

c1955 Bishop WARREN ordered the removal of tabernacle from the high altar Christchurch S Michael; on its installation on the north wall of the adjacent Pilgrims’ chapel, a brass plate was set in the high altar reredos in the vacant place where the tabernacle was once secured, ‘The tabernacle was removed by the order of the Lord Bishop of this diocese, Pray for the peace of Jerusalem’. This plate was removed by order of that angry bishop, and C GAULT publicly apologised.

1963 the week after the retirement of C GAULT as parish priest Christchurch S Michael, WARREN ordered the churchwardens to remove the tabernacle from the church itself and to replace it with an aumbry; the tabernacle was accepted by JC VOCKLER bishop in Polynesia for the cathedral Suva (1970 pers comm. Isla Hunter, previous headmistress Hukarere Māori girls’ college Napier). (2012 it was not seen to be in the cathedral in Suva pers com PO Williams)

residing 20 Kingston Place Waipawa
Other
from 1960 until his death he still dressed in black clerical attire whenever in public - quite visible in Waipawa his legal battle against the bishop and four vestrymen claiming they blocked his further employment in 1962 & 10 Jan 1967 NZ Truth quite a tragic figure and not entitled to much church pension due to short term of service controversy probably arose over his catholic convictions and the parish’s fairly long evangelical history, although other priests of a catholic persuasion did serve in the parish

obituary 22 Oct 1942 Nepean Times (Penrith)
NOTE: in 1922 Revd Gwylim Elwyn WILLIAMS was charged with forging his own death certificate (14 Mar 1922 page 6 Evening Star) he left for Canada in 1918 allegedly with another woman to join the Canadian air force. Apparently, his father forced him into the marriage. He sent a death certificate and personal belongings as the Revd E PICKERING to fool his wife into thinking he was dead. It backfired when she applied for his death insurance and the Revd E PICKERING who supposedly sent the note with the certificate was proven not to exist. He pleaded guilty to charges and received 9 months imprisonment with hard labour in Regina Prison (08 Feb 1922 Pall Mall Gazette) Again he obtained a curacy as Revd Gwyllyr WILLIAMS at S Mark Dalton, then suddenly he sailed for a mission in South America. When the vicar of S Matthew Canonbury Road North Auckland England fell ill he was engaged to perform pastoral duties. And engaged to another! When he received complaints the Bishop of Stepney investigated WILLIAMS's credentials from the Bishop of Minnesota to find they were forgeries. Then he vanished. Note: (1870) diocese Orange River Free State renamed diocese Bloemfontein
(CPSA Archives, Wits University Library, 2006)
21 Sep 1873 priest Christchurch (at S Michael & All Angels Christchurch) (3;4)
Note on ordination as deacon:
Neither place, nor year, nor bishop for his ordination as deacon is actually given by WILLS. This reticence is unexpected in a man who from other accounts enjoyed extended self-promotion. A possible motive for this silence is unravelled below.
1865 Family information (from a 1922 newspaper interview with WILLS in Melbourne) has him ordained in England in 1865. This is not true.
Jun 1866 The history of the diocese of Bloemfontein says Joseph Harris WILLS left England for the Orange Free State to join the first bishop for the missionary diocese of Orange River Free State. Bishop Edward TWELLS ordained him deacon after arrival in South Africa. See Some Account of the Diocese of Bloemfontein by Archdeacon CRISP (Oxford: James Parker 1895)
Jul 1869 Charges of sodomy were prepared against Bishop TWELLS, who under a pseudonym fled South Africa for Britain. TWELLS resigned the see 02 Aug 1869, died 04 May 1898 Clifton Bristol

Embrassment might have inclined WILLS to avoid later reference to his ordaining bishop. (For background information, see N SOUTHEY
‘Uncovering Homosexuality in Colonial Southern South Africa: the case of Bishop TWELLS’ in South African Historical Journal No.36, May 1997: see also the SPG history by PASCOE, which obscures identity of TWELLS, referring to him as the bishop of the Orange River, a missionary of the Society, and to his resignation (47))
1870-ca Jun 1872 Church registers have WILLS baptising in S Alban Pretoria. His ministry as a deacon was clearly acceptable to the successor to TWELLS, Allan Becher WEBB, (from 1870) 2nd bishop of the diocese of Bloemfontein, previously diocese of the Orange River Free State.
1881 has his very first appearance in Crockford: ‘J H WILLS, formerly incumbent of Green Ponds diocese Tasmania, incumbent of Forth and Leven.’ - but has no information on his ordinations, nor of his years in South Africa, nor of his brief ministry in the diocese of Christchurch New Zealand. Without alteration the identical entry repeats annually to 1885, even though he had left Forth & Leven after a scandal, in 1881;
1889 edition of Crockford lacks contemporary information, ‘formerly incumbent of Green Ponds’;
1890-1915 editions of Crockford omit his entry altogether. (8)
1916-1923 editions of Crockford show him restored to the status of licensed priest in the diocese of Tasmania – he had been out of church ministry since 1881. Crockford now has ‘Joseph Harris WILLS, of Whitemark Flinders Islands Tasmania Australia, deacon and priest 1873 Christchurch. Formerly incumbent of Green Ponds 1876-1878; Forth and Leven 1879-1882. 1915- vicar Furneaux islands diocese Tasmania.’ (8)
Thus in his last years (from the evidence of his entry in Crockford) WILLS claimed to have been ordained both deacon and priest in 1873 by HARPER the bishop of Christchurch. This is certainly incorrect, for HARPER, on accepting his ordination as deacon in South Africa, ordained him priest. HARPER was conscientious and his registrar would have checked the ordination papers of WILLS before proceeding to the priesting.
His removal of any reference to his ordination as deacon in South Africa is the climax of his consistent intention to obscure his years in South Africa from church view. Was this a life-long avoidance of the disgrace of his bishop, Edward TWELLS? (MWB)
Claims
1865-1872 FAMILY INFORMATION (2006) gathered from South African newspapers and from a Melbourne newspaper interview in 1922 has various claims. For instance -
WILLS claimed to have been ordained deacon 1865 in England, and then to have gone to South Africa first as the travelling chaplain to the bishop of Cape Town. - Not true. He was not ordained in England. In Jun 1866 he came to South Africa with the support of Robert Gray metropolitan bishop of Cape Town and was at once ordained deacon by Edward TWELLS (born 1828 died 1898) the first bishop of the missionary diocese of Orange River Free State. Gray had sent in TWELLS to sort out the problems with JW COLENSO, deposed from the see but remaining in it. (MWB; CPSA Archives, Wits University Library, Witwatersrand 2006).
WILLS claimed to have preached in the cathedral church of Pietermaritzburg. - True. Mar 1867, his Ritualist bishop Edward TWELLS of Orange River Free State with the licence of Robert Gray the Tractarian metropolitan bishop of Cape Town, had intruded him as ‘curate’ into the cathedral church of Maritzburg, cathedral for the diocese of Natal. The Liberal JW COLENSO the deposed (and even excommunicated) bishop of Natal went to court to have WILLS (and other challengers to his authority) removed. See The Life of John William Colenso DD Bishop of Natal, by the Revd Sir George W COX baronet, MA rector of Scravingham, (W Ridgway, London 1888; WNL)
’In 1867 the Bishop of Natal [COLENSO] prayed the Supreme Court for an order interdicting the Revd JD Wills from officiating in any churches of the Colony set apart for the use of the Church of England and Ireland, until he had obtained the licence of the Bishop of the Diocese. The order was refused on the ground that the plaintiff had no status as Bishop...’ - from the biography of Dean GREEN of Maritzburg (CPSA Archives, Wits University Library, 2006)
WILLS claimed that for three years and more at the request of the bishop of Bloemfontein and to explore possible places for church development, he went through the Transvaal goldfields and through to Matabeleland and visited Great Zimbabwe, and claimed to have been the first white man to have climbed the hills of Matopos - in what was to become colonial Southern Rhodesia (and later independent Zimbabwe) before his return to South Africa. - this is only related to the truth (MWB).
From about Oct 1869, WILLS went for maybe six months (not three years) to visit the goldfields and through to Victoria Falls and the Zambezi. In Jul 1869 his bishop TWELLS had fled the country to avoid arrest. See below.

Was WILLS extending the period of his visit to the interior to distance himself further from TWELLS? While he may well have visited these places, by no means was he the first white man to have climbed Matopos hills (MWB and Neil PIERCE, who did this themselves and easily as have so many).

WILLS claimed that he returned briefly to England in 1872 and did deputation for the SPG and lectured at the Royal Society on his discoveries in Southern Africa - may be true (MWB).

Until mid-1872 WILLS was signing the baptismal register at S Alban Pretoria. The SPG history refers to the 2nd bishop, now ‘of Bloemfontein’ not ‘of the Orange Free State’ as performing clerical duty at Pretoria for three months in the absence of Mr WILLS in England (47)

In 1872 WILLS’ return to England was certainly ‘brief’ for he and his wife were swiftly accepted by the commissary for the bishop of Christchurch, Prebendary Henry TUCKER at the SPG office in Westminster, and they quickly sailed on to New Zealand (70;MWB).

WILLS claimed that when secretary to Bishop COLENSO in the diocese of Natal he had been a close friend of Sir Henry Rider HAGGARD and been so helpful with his research for the novel King Solomon’s Mines that an early edition of the book was dedicated to him in appreciation of his assistance. Untrue (MWB).

WILLS was hostile to Bishop COLENSO and was himself an intruder into the cathedral of Natal diocese.

WILLS however was close, possibly even at some point secretary, to his own diocesan bishop Edward TWELLS, but when in Jul 1869 TWELLS fled the country with sodomy charges pending, WILLS expunged all reference to any connection with TWELLS.

WILLS’ claims of African friendship with Rider HAGGARD are untenable, as HAGGARD came to South Africa first in 1875, whereas WILLS had left South Africa in 1872 (MWB).

31 Dec 1868 for the first half of 1869 the Revd J Harris WILLS was announced to be conducting the grammar school in Bloemfontein. (Friend of the Orange Free State and Bloemfontein Gazette, provided by family information)

1869 at Philippolis missionary diocese of the Orange River Free State. This statement is from his initial papers given in 1873 to Prebendary TUCKER in London and thus reported to the bishop of Christchurch in New Zealand but contradicts the contemporary evidence that in 1869 he was conducting a school in Bloemfontein, and travelling into the interior (Transvaal gold mines, Victoria Falls and the Zambezi River).

Furthermore, there is no record of any appointment to Philippolis. The diocesan history says WILLS had initially an itinerant appointment, visiting villages across a wide district. 11 Jun 1928 bishop (in cathedral S Andrew Sydney) by Sydney (WRIGHT), Newcastle (from 01 May 1928: George Merrick LONG, who was the preacher, previously bishop of Bathurst, died 09 Jul 1930 London, attending Lambeth conference of bishops), Goulburn (RADFORD), Riverina (HALSE), Bathurst (CROTTY); and Gilbert WHITE (previously of Carpentaria, and of Willochra), Rupert MOUNSEY CR [Community of the Resurrection, Mirfield] (previously briefly Labuan & Sarawak), D’ARCY-IRVINE (co-adjutor bishop of Sydney; also present was the Revd Conrad MOUNTFORT from the diocese of Melanesia (later dean of Honiara) - he was consecrated outside the province of New Zealand with a mandatum [an authority] from the archbishop of New Zealand and three bishops for the consecration in Sydney; this extra-Provincial consecration was strategic as the Mission hoped to arouse interest and finance in the Australia church for the new bishopric by having his consecration there rather than in the ecclesiastical province of New Zealand – it’s a sensitive matter (261;8)

Positions
02 Sep 1896 lay reader Coogee diocese Sydney
01 Jan 1902-13 Jul 1905 curate S John Camden
13 Jul 1905-01 Jan 1907 rector Mulgoa with Greendale and Luddenham

02 Sep 1916-26 Feb 1928 canon residency and sub-dean cathedral diocese Bathurst
1916-1928 examining chaplain bishop Bathurst (8)
12 Oct 1927 nomination announced, to be the second assistant to the bishop of Melanesia, bishop for Northern Melanesia, i.e. the Mandated Territory of New Guinea, included in the diocese Melanesia; nominated by a committee of the Australian Board of Missions; the diocese to include Bougainville, islands to the north-west off the coast of Papua, and Rabaul; he would start work in the Gasmata district - he is noted as being 'exceptionally strong in health' (261)
24 Jan 1928 His consecration in Australia needed to be delayed until AVERILL the primate of New Zealand was (with a change of the canon achieved at (Apr 1928) general synod) enabled to issue the necessary mandate for the consecration of WILTON in Australia (and not New Zealand) (261)

Nov 1927 the Bathurst diocesan council (president Bishop LONG) decided to continue WILTON’s normal stipend and pension contributions for him while he was overseas; he thus continued to be a member of the diocese of Bathurst

n d MOLYNEUX bishop of Melanesia visited WILTON in Bathurst (261)

12 Mar 1928 with Bishop FM MOLYNEUX, arrived for (19 Apr 1928-01 May 1928) general synod Auckland SOUTHERN CROSS: asked for support for the Melanesian appeal, acknowledging that the diocese needed £10 000 per annum operating costs - particularly for the aging MV SOUTHERN CROSS V (261)

04 May 1928 departed Auckland with FM MOLYNEUX, the Revd LE CARTRIDGE, the Revd GF LEGGATT, Mr D Lloyd FRANCIS (later a priest) and others, after attending general synod of the New Zealand province

30 Jun 1928 attended the diocesan synod at Siota Solomon islands (at which FM MOLYNEUX presiding was unanimously nominated to be the successor to JM STEWARD retiring bishop also present) before proceeding to Sydney for consecration:

Jun 1928 (assistant) bishop of Northern Melanesia, for the New Britain islands (then within diocese of Melanesia, now in the nation and church of Papua New Guinea); the isolated 500K stretch of coastline in the Gasmata district on the southwestern end of New Britain became his mission: ‘disastrous’ appointment

Aug-Sep 1928 publicity tour of parts of Australia (261) including

15 Aug 1928 women’s meeting in S Gabriel Ainslie Canberra

28 Sep 1928 from Sydney MARSINA, arrived Rabaul, with staff the Revd V SHERWIN (who arrived just before he did), the Revd LE CARTRIDGE (the first recruit from England for the new initiative), and Mr Stanley G TITLER carpenter (a theological student, later ordained Australia): he made visits to Gasmata (near here was to be the main centre for the see), Lindenhaven, Salamau, and stations were to be initiated at Kalerigi, Navalapua, SagSag, Arawe; he planned a visit to England for 1930 (261)

Jan 1929 while travelling around the diocese taken ill at Toma, 40k from Rabaul, and returned thither. Bishop MOLYNEUX declared illness to be ‘sunstroke’ (261)

Feb 1929 though much better was to voyage to Sydney to recuperate (261) - but did not go to Sydney at once:

01 Apr 1929 Southern Cross Log announced he was ill and may need to retire (261)

18 Apr 1929 at Gasmata, on board the government schooner HERMES wrote of contact with new areas of New Britain and is about to visit V SHERWIN - no mention of illness nor of going to Sydney (261)

19 May 1929 after but six months in the diocese, arrived Sydney MORINDA on mission business – and probably stays in Australia without returning to New Guinea

01 Jul 1929 resignation accepted: he had broken down in health, been ordered to return to Australia, had set out, but felt better: and continued his work (of which he wrote in Apr 1929); the Auckland office of the Melanesian Mission had no information beyond that - he might be ill temporarily

Note: Bishop MOLYNEUX made reference to the appointment of WILTON in his annual report, indicating that WILTON intended to begin work among the natives in 1929 (Jul 1929 (261))

13 Jul 1929 press report Sydney that he had resigned after a ‘paralytic stroke’ in the islands

09 Aug 1929 annual report of the Melanesian Mission Finance Board (in Auckland) regretted that WILTON ’unable to continue’ (261)

Sep 1929 MOLYNEUX now bishop of Melanesia had accepted WILTON’s resignation because of his state of health; his friend the Revd Leslie WALKER from Bathurst was due to join the staff at the end of 1929 (261)

n d 1929 resigned following allegations of sexual misconduct with youths, but ‘utterly broken down in health’ with ‘sunstroke near Rabaul’ – no further comment, neither thanks nor good wishes are offered, and against him no charges were brought in church or civil court (111;202;163;280)

However: in the private file of Major ROBINSON general manager of the Melanesian Mission office (first in Auckland; 1933- in Sydney); reference to the ‘caddish behaviour’ of the Australian Board of Missions [ABM] towards WILTON: the reason given here for WILTON’s ‘forced resignation’ was a series of sexually explicit letters written by ‘ladies’ to WILTON: when brought to the attention of the ABM these were deemed grounds to request his resignation. ABM subsequently subverted attempts to ‘rehabilitate’ WILTON - ROBINSON had not in fact seen the letters (Church of Melanesia archives, Honiara, Solomon Islands, information from T Brown Jan 2009)

08 Aug 1912 (vice Cecil WILSON) installed Norfolk Island S Barnabas, as 4th bishop of Melanesia, Anglican church of New Zealand decided students at Bungana be taught in not English but Mota, and sent on not to the Solomons but to Norfolk Island for further schooling and then changed his mind: the training school should be moved to (1912 at Maravovo, later moved to Siota) the Solomons and language Mota dropped in educational institutions (412)
16 Jan 1913-28 Jan 1913 attended 19th general synod, Nelson; this synod formally decided that the phrase ‘member of the Mission’ should be rephrased to mean ‘priest of the [Melanesian] Mission; this was relevant for the electoral process in selecting any new bishop as the ‘members of the Mission’ had voting rights
06 Mar 1913 1st visit to the Māori: at opening of new church Manutuke Tauranga Bay of Plenty; accompanied by Archdeacon WILLIAMS, the Revd F CHATTERTON, and Miss LEE and Miss DAVIS missionaries to Māori, and unnamed Māori clergy, students from Te Rau theological college (Gisborne), with welcome address in Māori from the Revd R T KŌHERE [KOHERE] of Te Araroa

15 Oct 1918-16 Oct 1918 diocesan conference meeting at Maravovo Guadalcanar: required his consultation with J STEWARD in the north and H DRUMMOND in the south; expressed dissatisfaction with the bishop’s administration and he at once resigned; (202)
31 Dec 1918 vacated see of Melanesthesia ‘a terrible failure’ (280); RP WILSON, senior missionary late of Bunana [Mbungana] Island Solomon islands elected administrator for oversight of the work
Jan 1919 WOOD arrived in Sydney and went to stay with the archbishop of Melbourne (261)
Southern Cross Log ABM review announcement: ‘The Bishop feels unequal to the immense difficulties of the work, and of the special problems which have gathered around the work of the Melanesian mission. He has endeared himself to us by his deep spiritual qualities. The Bishop is remaining at Maravovo College, Solomon islands [under JM STEWARD first theological college established there], and the Revd Paley WILSON is acting administrator.’ (261)
30 Apr 1919-12 May 1919 Acta of 21st general synod of the province of New Zealand: bishop of Auckland (AVERILL) as chair of the select committee proposed that the diocesan staff had adopted the only course open to them to obtain an adjustment of their legitimate grievances against their bishop; and advised the staff of this sympathy and invited proposals for the future conduct of the Mission; the select committee on the affairs of the Melanesian Mission reported (09 May 1919) that they had considered the statement of the Bishop of Melanesia submitted to the Archbishop of Canterbury, had heard the administrator of the diocese of Melanesia, and unanimously agreed that the staff had adopted the only course open to them to obtain an adjustment of their legitimate grievances; they had considered the suggestions of the English Committee, the chairman of the Australian Board of Missions, and the Administrator of the diocese of Melanesia, and suggest that the staff of the Melanesian Mission be informed that the Church in New Zealand was prepared to consider with sympathy such proposals as they might make as to the future conduct of the Mission and requested formulation of their proposals to be submitted to a Commission of General synod to be set up
Southern Cross Log editorial comment: often in poor health, difficulty in keeping the work going, had not seen his way to make his headquarters in the islands; duties carried him away from the ordinary work in the islands, and from lack of encouragement the island work suffered. [He was personally and particularly distressed at the tragic unnecessary deaths of missionaries LONG, SAGE and others.] The Maravovo conference carried a unanimous vote of dissatisfaction at the bishop’s non-residence in the islands and his inability to adapt himself to the needs of the Mission.

Other
On the strength of his pamphlet on church colonization, James Cecil Wynter was the first priest proposed for the projected bishopric of Lyttelton.
However, the objection of his wife Mary (died 1852) to colonial life ruled him out.
In 1849 George Frederick Boyle, 6th earl of Glasgow, founded the College of the Holy Spirit on the island of Great Cumbrae in the Firth of Clyde. The college, opened in 1851, consisted of five canons and seven choristers, who enjoyed Gothic revival buildings designed by the Tractarian architect William Butterfield in full conformity with the principles of the Ecclesiological Society. James Cecil Wynter was one of these canons; but no information is to hand of the nature of his involvement with this Tractarian semi-monastic initiative. George’s cousin and successor, David Boyle, the 7th earl of Glasgow was (1892-1897) governor of New Zealand.
James Wynter’s brother the Revd Philip Wynter was from the old-style High church tradition and grew hostile to the development of the Tractarian enthusiasms and challenges to the older tradition. Thus Philip Wynter, caught in his political role as a vice-chancellor of Oxford University, was a leader in the heavy attack (1843) by the University of Oxford on the Catholic revival leader, Dr EB Pusey. Yet Philip Wynter, still a Higbchurch loyalist, edited (in 1863) the works of Joseph Hall, a complicated man with a warm devotion to Our Lady, was bishop (1641-1656) of Norwich. His career and actions provide a useful example of how the Oxford Movement had split apart the previous less defined patterns of Highchurch loyalty. The prosecution by leading academics of Oxford of the respected Pusey illustrates the nature of the sharp divisions which the Oxford Movement and the subsequent AngloCatholic revival had meant for the looser loyalties of the old Highchurch tradition. These splits among the Wynters continued and deepened—Philip’s son Colonel AL Wynter became a Roman Catholic in 1881; and the colonel’s son Guy Wynter became the organist at the Birmingham Oratory, of which the famous Cardinal JH Newman was the founder member. Newman as the vicar of S Mary the Virgin, the parish church of Oxford, was the first inspiration and leader of the Oxford Movement; and his going over to the church of Rome had upset the confidence of his followers. Some followed on into the church of Rome, others stayed back, rebuilt theirloyalties to the church of England and put their Newmanite days behind them. Others again copied the faith and practice of the Roman Catholic church, hoping in this way (by replicating the strengths of the church of Rome), those hankering for the church of Rome would now find the same strengths within their own church of England.
