Notes
John Albert Fenton was from a junior line of landed-gentry family and is not found in Burke; he claimed that many of his old Yorkshire family rest under Sheffield parish church SS Peter & Paul [the subsequent diocese of Sheffield made this (1914) the cathedral]
His brother FRANCIS HENRY FENTON was a leading supporter of the incipient Anglican community in Dunedin and thus its priest JA FENTON;
he was principal collector of subscriptions for ‘Otago Episcopal Church, school, and parsonage fund’ (Lyttelton Times) – full details of items sought for the church (linen, bell, organ), and names of donors and the amount subscribed provided, a long list and first on the list is the Bishop of Guiana [William Piercy AUSTIN], all people willing to support the laity and the priest FENTON in Otago (The Times)

Education
Apr 1904 by the bishop of Nelson admitted as a deaconess of the Church in cathedral Nelson (27 Apr 1904 Colonist Nelson)

Note: (1890-1914) the Sisters of Bethany were made deaconess by the bishop of Christchurch; Marian FILLEUL is the only example I have found of a deaconess made by another bishop; in the 1920s the bishop of Waiapū did initiate training and ordination of deaconesses for individual ministries in that diocese. Auckland diocese did not ordain but rather professed sisters for the Home of the Good Shepherd.

Note on the franchise and women in New Zealand society and in the New Zealand Anglican church
From 1893 women had the vote as New Zealand citizens; however the Anglican church continued to restrict voting rights in parish matters to men. WMW
(11 Feb 1898) Anglican general synod meeting at Christchurch: Sir John HALL introduced a bill to grant the parochial franchise to women; the motion was lost.

18 Jan 1879 reported that ‘has forsaken his pulpit and gone over to that of the Episcopalians... itinerant system of Wesleyan Methodist distasteful and inconvenient to him ... a lame excuse .. [but his opinions on evolution have] ‘made it too hot for him ... evolution and orthodoxy are hostile to each other, they have no affinities. ... he is on the same sheet of ice on which the Revd Joe BARKER [1806-1875 English preacher and controversialist] glided by imperceptible stages to rank infidelity ... neither an eloquent nor an attractive pulpit orator. His success lies in the novelty of his views and his great powers of analogy... worthless as an evangelist ... The laboratory and pulpit of [the Revd Joseph, Unitarian Rationalist] PRIESTLEY would square better with his philosophy than the Anglican Church ... the beginning of the end. Hoped that Bishop Nevill will withhold the imposition of hands ’ (5;23 Jan 1879 Queenbeyan Age NSW)

28 Nov 1866 reports of arguments over worship S John Soldiers’ Hill Ballarat where the priest was seen to be introducing Puseyite innovations (The Ballarat Star)

22 Feb 1869-30 Jun 1870 minister parochial district Holy Trinity Northcote and Preston

16 May 1870 report: is leaving S John Soldiers-Hill Ballarat Victoria to take charge English Church in Fiji (The Argus)

15 Nov 1870 with support PERRY bishop Melbourne and licence signed by PATTESON bishop of Melanesia: alighted from the steamer AUCKLAND in Levuka Fiji islands, previously there a teacher and thus connected to the bishop of Melanesia through the latter’s visits to Melanesians in Fiji

Note: 1874 Fiji ceded to Britain; this annexation in effect raised the status of the Anglican church (202)

20 Jul 1872 ‘a new bishopric is to be established for the Fiji group. The Revd William FLOYD minister of Northcote in the diocese of Melbourne is to be the first Bishop’ (The Gundagai Times & Tumut Adelongs and Murrumbidgee district advertiser)
19 Jul 1875 permission to perform office of chaplain to British residents in Fiji Islands (under licence from the Bishop of London who from long had had nominal jurisdiction for the Anglican church in areas without a bishop) (111)

FLOYD founded the Anglican church in Fiji, and the Melanesian mission in Fiji, and the Indian Coolie mission (see Cyclopedia of Fiji 1907)

1875-1885 chaplain Fiji islands extra-diocesan under the pastoral responsibility of the bishop of London

Sep 1875 visiting Ballarat, brought with him a young Melanesian native formerly one of Bishop PATTESON’s boys, a native of the

Banks Group (The Argus)

14 Dec 1875 FLOYD has received the licence of the bishop of London under the order in council King CHARLES I, pending the assignment of the islands to some bishop able personally to visit (The Argus Melbourne)

27 Oct 1876 in Auckland New Zealand seeking funds for the mission

10 Oct 1884 interview with BENSON abp of Canterbury in England, urging formation of a bishopric for Fiji, Tonga (aka Friendly islands), Samoa (Navigators Group), and Rotuman isand (280)

1885- SPG-funded missionary at Levuka Fiji, with stipend £250 from SPG (as also JF JONES)

31 May 1885 in Dublin Ireland, wrote to BENSON abp of Canterbury

12 Jul 1886 NEVILL wrote again to Canterbury: that the New Zealand bishops had accepted superintendence of work in Fiji, Friendly (Tonga) and Navigator islands, with NEVILL as ‘correspondent’ for the church in these islands; he now sought help from SPG grants to support missionaries there – he was precipitate and his intervention resented (as often) by the New Zealand bench of bishops

Sep 1886 at the request of the bench of bishops in New Zealand, SUTER bishop of Nelson visited; he reported that FLOYD and JF JONES held a licence from the bishop of London, that the Crown colony of Fiji had a just claim on SPG as well as the Church more generally to have a bishopric, for the Wesleyans too would accept such leadership

16 Jul 1889 from Fiji wrote to SPG: progress of his Polynesian school (280)

usually the diocese is stated by the Fijian source as the diocese of ‘London’; in some years’ records FLOYD puts ‘diocese of Fiji’ or crosses out ‘diocese of and heads only ‘Fiji’; see micro-ms-coll-17-119 ATL

1895 (for instance) £250 for stipend from SPG, as also for JF JONES (180)

16 Feb 1925 before the magistrate, two charges of having indecently assaulted two boys, aged 10 and 7 respectively. Accused ... pleaded guilty and was admitted to the Supreme Court for sentence (Evening Post). The accused did not attempt to harm the boys, and indicated that he had been committing offences for some time past.

21 Mar 1925 after the offence committed in the Woodhouse Gardens when he gave two boys lollies, ‘He was admitted to five years’ probation, a condition being that he entered a mental hospital as a ‘voluntary’ patient and remained until discharged by the superintendent. Medical opinion was that he was not of unsound mind so as to be committed. The Judge [Mr Justice SIM] expressed the opinion that he was on the ‘border-line’. So is any other man who is so sexually filthy as to do what this ‘Reverend’ gent did; but if any other man is not insane enough to be committed to an asylum, in such circumstances, he is sent to gaol ...’ New Zealand Truth

NOTE ON TABERNACLES
Early 1950s at the request of Fr GAULT a new reredos and tester designed by architect Don DONNITHORNE were installed behind the high altar with a new tabernacle set on the gradine in the centre of the reredos between the six candlesticks. AK WARREN as bishop of Christchurch ordered the removal of the tabernacle and the parish priest mounted it on the north wall of the Pilgrims’ chapel, and had set in the vacant place where the tabernacle once stood on the high altar a large red Chi Rho [ancient symbol of Christ] with a brass plate which stated, ‘This tabernacle was removed by the order of the Lord Bishop of this diocese, Pray for the peace of Jerusalem’. On observing them when at the altar for a Confirmation, the bishop of Christchurch ordered the removal of the Chi Rho and the brass-plate, and C GAULT publicly apologised for his actions.
1963 on retirement of C GAULT as parish priest Christchurch S Michael, WARREN ordered the removal of the tabernacle from the church; it was accepted by JC VOCKLER bishop in Polynesia for the cathedral in Fiji [2000 not found in use there]
2012 A later successor the Revd PO WILLIAMS just before retirement set a tabernacle again on the high altar.
For a more serious but similar conflict, see the entry for ALLERTON, ARTHUR RUSSELL. Episcopal hostility to tabernacles continued.
About 1976 a tabernacle (purchased in London through the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament, and donated by (the Revd) Des BRITTEN (SSC) then churchwarden) was installed on the south wall of the sanctuary of S Barnabas Roseneath Wellington; the bishop of Wellington EK NORMAN allowed the tabernacle to remain (1978) only on condition that I did not have it set in the familiar central place upon the altar.
1981 The British High Commissioner Sir Richard STRATTON expressed to the bishop of Wellington his great surprise at this restriction, for he had never worshipped in London at a church which did not have the tabernacle on the high altar. However NORMAN was now able to claim (not without a hint of whimsy) that this installation on a side wall was in accord with the liturgical guidelines issued after the Second Vatican Council. (MWB)

Personal comment

Bishop GERARD told me that some years previous he had taken the service for the regional Boys Scouts, and he considered it had been soundly Catholic in word and action ('I am a Catholic'), but the leader of the Goldthorpe scouts came afterwards to ask him when were they having mass. ‘He assured me “That were a nice service but we were expecting we would have mass”. ’ In the 1950s the liturgy at Goldthorpe was only and fully Roman rite and as the Book of Common Prayer rite was very different, the scouts were puzzled by this ‘Holy Communion Service’. GERARD was clearly delighted to be able to tell me of this encounter and his courteous apology to the Goldthorpe boy scouts for their disappointment at not having a proper mass. (1967 pers. comm MWB)

Personal comment

Bishop GERARD told me that some years previous he had taken the service for the regional Boys Scouts, and he considered it had been soundly Catholic in word and action ('I am a Catholic'), but the leader of the Goldthorpe scouts came afterwards to ask him when were they having mass. ‘He assured me “That were a nice service but we were expecting we would have mass”’. In the 1950s the liturgy at Goldthorpe was only and fully Roman rite and as the Book of Common Prayer rite was very different, the scouts were puzzled by this 'Holy Communion Service'. GERARD was clearly delighted to be able to tell me of this encounter and his courteous apology to the Goldthorpe boy scouts for their disappointment at not having a proper mass. Oct 1889 appointment challenged – the primate HARPER had not formally submitted his resignation:
24 Apr 1890 elected primate (vice HARPER resigned) special session of 11th general synod in Wellington, when also election of Churchill JULIUS as 2nd bishop of Christchurch confirmed

[the ballot for the primacy: 3 bishops, 11 clergy, 10 laity; Nelson, 1 bishop, 4 clergy, 8 laity; Waipū 1 laity; Primate HADFIELD noted he had been elected primate in Dunedin in 1889 [ie before HARPER had resigned] ]
09 Oct 1893 retired as primate of province of New Zealand (89:50) – COWIE of Auckland the next primate, NEVILL continued to be the senior bishop but never the primate; SUTER too was never primate despite his expectation (MWB)

May 1850 Mrs Charlotte GODLEY described him. ‘He is one of the most delicate interesting people I ever met, and just like Mrs DYKE in man’s clothes, only a little fatter, and consumptive-looking, for which tendency he was sent out here twelve years ago. He can talk Māori as well as he can English, and I should think knows more of New Zealand than almost anyone else.’ (p34, (43))

Note
31 Jul 1856 royal letters patent issued: HARPER as bishop of Christchurch was stated to be subject to the see of Canterbury and to the bishop of Sydney as his metropolitan

25 May 1857 in a court case, Regina vs Provost and Fellows of Eton College and the Revd John Alexander CLARKE [HARPER’s successor as vicar of Stratfield Mortimer, appointed by Eton patron of the living], the Lord Chief Justice CAMPBELL ruled that a bishop appointed for a colonial see had no connexion in law with the church of England - her Majesty's patent was ‘not worth the parchment upon which it is written’; therefore, the appointment of CLARKE to the living of Stratfield Mortimer by Eton as patron of the living was legal, inasmuch as HARPER was not a bishop in the Church of England the right of appointment to the living (vacated by HARPER on his elevation to the episcopate) had not passed to the Crown (see note 5, p296 Shaping a Colonial Church (2006:Christchurch)

1858 letters patent were modified: the bishop of Christchurch now subject as bishop-suffragan to the bishop of New Zealand as metropolitan [no longer was Sydney his metropolitan] while still under the jurisdiction of the see of Canterbury

Apr 1934 general synod deemed diocese Christchurch to have been constituted 31 Jul 1856 (69)

(13 Jun 1888 obituary for Emily W HARPER (39))

29 Dec 1893 biographical sketch The Press; ‘his sweetness of disposition, his catholicity of feeling, and deep sympathy with all forms of distress wherever he met it, made himself beloved by all sections of the community … This feeling was not confined to the members of his own Church but was universal… true type of a gentleman in the fullest sense of the word, kindly and courteous to all… Not was dearer to the heart of the late Bishop than the beautiful Cathedral service…

31 Dec 1893 ‘owing to the large number of persons wishing to see the body’ removed to the Cathedral’ … ‘to lie in state there during the afternoon’… ‘Several thousand people visited the Cathedral during the afternoon’

02 Jan 1894 funeral ceremony report The Press – pallbearers Sir John HALL, the Honourable CC BOWEN, Messrs A COX, BW MOUNTFORT, HP MURRAY-AYNSLEY, WH HARGREAVES (and RJS HARMAN); Bishops JULIUS and NEVILL, H WELLS organist of S Michael & All Angels presided, voluntaries an air by DVORAK and ‘O rest in the Lord’ [MENDELSOHN]; and HANDEL’s Dead march from SAUL; Archdeacon LINGARD chair of the Christchurch cemetery board was in charge at the cemetery but thus not available at the cathedral; detachment of Canterbury Engineers under Lieutenant McGee controlled crowds in the cathedral grounds, detachment of the Christ’s College rifles under Colour-Sergeant Smith kept a space around the grave clear; a very long list of church and community leaders is provided in The Press report, and it noted among clergy of other churches that the RC vicar-general, two Presbyterians, two Wesleyan Methodists, and the Revd A CHODOWSKI Hewbrew represented their people; Bishop JULIUS officiated for the graveside service, assisted by Archdeacon CHOLMONELEY, the choir sang ‘I heard a voice from heaven’ [possibly that by John GOSS?] and hymn 401 ‘Now the labourer’s task is o’er’; the final tribute was from Mr William ROSE farmer of Wakanui [nr Ashburton?] who came to New Zealand on the same ship as Bishop HARPER, a large proportion of those present filed past the grave to take a last look at the remains of the much loved and venerated Bishop. Several of the Kaiapoi Natives called at Bishop’s Court on hearing of their beloved Bishop’s death and were also present at the funeral’… ‘On a sloping pedestal draped with purple lay the coffin containing the mortal remains of Christchurch’s first Bishop, attired in his Episcopalian robes, with the arms folded as if for sleep … four lighted tapers placed in the different corners … coffin of polished kauri, the lid being raised to the shape of a cross, … brass plate … Below was engraved a Bishop’s Mitre. In Black Beech and Honeydew, Dame Ngaio MARSH writes of him, remarkably handsome with the profile of a classic hero, voice deep and harsh, his manner abrupt and conversation rather like that of the Duke of Wellington as recorded by Mr Phillip Guedella though without the expletives; reminded her also of Mr Rochester, he habitually walked on the Cashmere Hills on Saturdays and called for tea with Ngaio’s mother; he was also hotly pursued by members of a Ladies’ Guild; (p70) anecdote about his taking the family joint to deliver to those in need in [probably, MWB] Ellesmere parish during a time of agricultural depression

Jun 1957 James Leo SCHUSTER, bishop of St Johns Kaffraria: ‘Only one thing has marred the happiness of this month and that was the sad news of the death of Father HAZELWOOD at Mount Frere. He was one of those who laid the foundations of the ‘goodly heritage’. And now he has passed to his rest. The great crowds that attended his funeral - I believe there were something like 2,000 people there - are a sufficient indication of the affection in which he was held. If any other memorial to him is needed, there is his parish of M Mount Frere. It is recognised as one of the best-run parishes in the Diocese. The sympathy of us all goes to Mrs Hazelwood in her loss.....’ (information from Tracey Stobie 2005)

Note
member of SSC (Societas Sanctae Crucis, Society of the Holy Cross, Catholic priests’ religious society) member ECU (English Church Union, the leading Catholic activist group protecting Catholic interests)

Members of the English committee asked by the bishops of New Zealand to organise the mission in England were Bp H H MONTGOMERY chair, Canon George BODY, Canon E A STUART, Canon CUTKEN, Canon WALPOLE, the Revd A W ROBINSON and the Revd Harold ANSON as honorary secretary. The archbishop of York and the bishop of Labuan had been on the committee but on accepting their present positions had to retire. Twelve clergy had been selected to proceed to New Zealand: Canon E A STUART Canterbury, Canon Charles Llewelyn IVENS Halifax, Prebendary H V STUART Stoke-on-Trent, the Revd J C FITZGERALD [CR] Mirfield, the Revd A B G LILLINGTON Hull, the Revd T REES [CR], the Revd A D TUPPER-CAREY Lowestoft, the Revd Cyril HEPHER Newcastle-on-Tyne, the Revd G de CARTERET Burton-on-Trent, the Revd J G STOCKLEY Burton-on-Trent, the Revd C T HORAN Holbrook Hall Derby, the Revd H R W FARRER Bridport. (29 Apr 1910 The Press)
E Derin Evans came too, and TUPPER-CAREY did come but went back early (it appears) as he was taking up a new appointment.

A paper with extreme lowchurch opinions: The English Churchman referring to the coming visit of Ritualist priests says: 'There will be a big invasion of New Zealand by Ritualistic priests early in September ... Two Ritualistic priests from England are in New Zealand organising the mission. There are Canon KENNEDY who when in his own parish church wears vestments of a mass priest; and the Canon POLLOCK of Rochester who is a member of the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament, and of the English Church Union. Amongst the twelve Mission preachers we find the names of only four Evangelicals. As to the others, Canon [Charles Llewelyn] IVENS is a clergyman whose church was reported to the Royal Commission on Ecclesiastical Disorders for Ritualist practices. He is also a member of the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament, and of the English Church Union. The Revd J C FITZGERALD is a member of both the last named societies and he is also one of the Mirfield Monks. The Revd A D TUPPER-CAREY in his own parish church wears the vestments of a mass priest. The Revd Cyril HEPHER is a member of the Secret Society of the Holy Cross which issued The Priest in Absolution. He is also a member of the Romanizing English Church Union.... I hope no Protestant incumbents in New Zealand will invite any of these Ritualistic clergymen to preach in their churches'. The writer was Walter WALSH a notorious anti-Catholic propagandist (06 May 1910 West Coast Times)
NELIGAN bishop of Auckland was critical of this article. Churchill JULIUS bishop of Christchurch offered to take a lead himself as a missioner in Christchurch diocese.

Comment
He valued the power of silent prayer when he experienced that with the Quakers hosted for a time at the Anglican church in Havelock North (21 Oct 2016 Church Times) in detailing the success of the mission, said the general prosperity and the absence of conventionality seemed to stimulate interest in divine things (11 Feb 1911 The Press)

became violently insane on board, held in custody until his death
He appears from JS GUNDRY's diary to have been consumptive, but also severely depressed and with paranoid delusions; he was a college friend of James Edward FitzGERALD
'went to New Zealand to take charge of the settlement at Canterbury' - an interesting but erroneous claim, apparently provided by his family in England (2;43) (MWB)
1851 Mrs Charlotte GODLEY noted the 'sad state of the poor clergyman... who went out of his mind a few weeks after he came on board [the STEADFAST]... now lodges with the doctor and is harmless, but wishes to kill himself... I hear he is consumptive, and has a bad cough... looks very ill... was at Cambridge with Mr FitzGERALD... He was quite harmless, but rather destructive, would throw candles or books in the fire and at times he would talk sensibly for an hour together.' (43)
1851 JS GUNDRY the surgeon on STEADFAST on arrival in Lyttelton reported that he was sending HODGKINSON's possessions to JE FitzGERALD (of the Canterbury Association and later Superintendent of the province of Canterbury)

Note on the Mission to Help to New Zealand

Members of the English committee asked by the bishops of New Zealand to organise the mission in England were Bp H H MONTGOMERY chair, Canon George BODY, Canon E A STUART, Canon CUTKEN, Canon WALPOLE, the Revd A W ROBINSON and the Revd Harold ANSON as honorary secretary. The archbishop of York and the bishop of Labuan had been on the committee but on accepting their present positions had to retire. Twelve clergy had been selected to proceed to New Zealand: Canon E A STUART Canterbury, Canon Charles Llewelyn IVENS Halifax, Prebendary H V STUART Stoke-on-Trent, the Revd J C FITZGERALD [CR] Mirfield, the Revd A B G LILLINGSTON Hull, the Revd T REES [CR], the Revd A D TUPPER-CAREY Lowestoft, the Revd Cyril HEPHER Newcastle-on-Tyne, the Revd G de CARTERET Burton-on-Trent, the Revd J J STOCKLEY Burton-on-Trent, the Revd C T HORAN Holbrook Hall Derby, the Revd H R W FARRER Bridport. (29 Apr 1910 The Press)
E Derin EVANS came too, and TUPPER-CAREY did come but went back early (it appears) as he was taking up a new appointment.

A paper with extreme lowchurch opinions: The English Churchman referring to the coming visit of Ritualist priests says: ‘There will be a big invasion of New Zealand by Ritualistic priests early in September … Two Ritualistic priests from England are in New Zealand organising the mission. There are Canon KENNEDY who when in his own parish church wears vestments of a mass priest; and the Canon POLLOCK of Rochester who is a member of the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament, and of the English Church Union. Amongst the twelve Mission preachers we find the names of only four Evangelicals. As to the others, Canon [Charles Llewelyn] IVENS is a clergyman whose church was reported to the Royal Commission on Ecclesiastical Disorders for Ritualist practices. He is also a member of the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament, and of the English Church Union. The Revd J C FITZGERALD is a member of both the last named societies and he is also one of the Mirfield Monks. The Revd A D TUPPER-CAREY in his own parish church wears the vestments of a mass priest. The Revd Cyril HEPHER is a member of the Secret Society of the Holy Cross which issued The Priest in Absolution. He is also a member of the Romanizing English Church Union… I hope no Protestant incumbents in New Zealand will invite any of these Ritualistic clergymen to preach in their churches’. The writer was Walter WALSH a notorious anti-Catholic propagandist (06 May 1910 West Coast Times)
NELIGAN bishop of Auckland was critical of this article. Churchill JULIUS bishop of Christchurch offered to take a lead himself as a missioner in Christchurch diocese.

1852 published One Star differing from another star in glory: being a discourse on occasion of the funeral of the Duke of Wellington, preached at the parish church of S Mary Stoke Newington on Sunday November 20th 1852
1851 Mrs Charlotte GODLEY describes him. ‘... a little fussy upstanding man, whose very bow and style of greeting, tone, manner, words, all have on them the very stamp of humbug ... and forbid the idea of considering him what I have been used to call a gentleman. An outside of easygoing good-nature, not for an instant concealing a most careful watch over his own interest; and selfishness, even about armchairs, and the things he likes to eat; and complete want of reverence in his use of sacred words and expressions... Always self-seeking and inaccurate... his great cleverness and excellence as a land-sale commissioner and the remarkable eloquence of his sermons. His manners are most unpleasant...’ She liked Mrs JACKSON better, ‘in some ways very good... and beautiful hands and arms; so that she looks and moves like a lady in spite of herself.’ She with chagrin noted that Bishop SELWYN ‘could not, and did not, conceal his contempt and even dislike’ of T JACKSON. 1879 sought appointment as bishop of Jamaica
1879 sought appointment as assistant bishop for Lichfield (vice GA SELWYN deceased, William Dalrymple MACLAGAN bishop of Lichfield)

1882-12 Jun 1888 (through his association with the Anglo-Continental Society?) JENNER offered his services as ‘évêque provisore’ (in his own opinion, appointed to this office by Archibald Campbell TAIT archbishop of Canterbury), associated with Fr Hyacinthe LOYSON, of Église Catholique Gallicane in Paris, whither he made episcopal visits – he informed Edward White BENSON (1883 vice TAIT archbishop of Canterbury) of his resignation of this office, to which BENSON responded that he knew nothing of the matter: TAIT’s letter was produced, in which he was seen to have given no opinion on the Gallican movement and Père Hyacinthe LOYSON

22 Feb 1884 wrote to Edward White BENSON archbishop of Canterbury, sought appointment as pro tempore bishop of Natal South Africa (Micro-MS-Coll-20-2762 in ATL)

16 Nov (?1884 or ?1886) ordained to the priesthood ‘Monsieur GALLY, a deacon ordained by Bishop [Eduard] HERZOG’ of the Old Catholic Church of Switzerland

(280;70;24;5;9;37;159)

Note on ‘Gallican Catholic Church’ Hyacinthe (né Charles) LOYSON (1827-1912) was an RC religious with (in sequence) the Sulpicians, the Dominicans, and the Discalced Carmelites before (1869) excommunication for heresy; he founded (1878) the Gallican Catholic church based in Paris. He was associated with a variety of episcopi vagantes, particularly Joseph René VILATTE (for another connection, see the Revd PERCY WISE CLARKSON). Bishop JENNER appears to have aimed at regularising the ‘Gallican Catholic church’ by linking it to the more stable Old Catholic church, apparently achieved in 1893. See the papers of FA WHITE treasurer of the French committee of the Anglo-Continental Society for his correspondence (1878-1903) with LOYSON in Paris (Lambeth Palace library).

noted for availability to people, he would always visit the people, he boarded with when studying at Victoria, whenever in Wellington
[He was my ordaining bishop and I was among the last he ordained priests before he retired, he gave the blessing from Hebrews 13:20-21 as if it were his own, he liked to be present for our “potty training” (post ordination training). Two things stick in my mind – his stressing care with parish finances (a trustee in his Whangarei parish stood trial for misappropriation of church funds - see 21 Mar 1953 Press) and don’t listen to people who run others down – they will probably do the same to you! I feel privileged for being ordained by him. RAB]

Jan 1913 introduced by WC SADLIER bishop of Nelson to OTL CROSSLEY bishop of Auckland, and then commended to AW AVERILL bishop of Waiapū for ordination
Note: The SPG correspondence suggests that as an ordinand KELHAM was passed on by the bishop of Nelson SADLIER to the bishop of Auckland CROSSLEY and that KELHAM at that point was given assurances that he would be (as he hoped) made deacon by the bishop of Auckland CROSSLEY.
However CROSSLEY resigned very suddenly; the bishop of Waiapū AVERILL then stepped in for the planned Auckland diocesan ordinations, which had necessarily been suspended on the resignation of the bishop of Auckland CROSSLEY. In consequence at these ordinations KELHAM was made a deacon by the bishop of Waiapū AVERILL (taking the place of the resigned Bishop CROSSLEY) acting as the commissary of the primat (NEVILL bishop of Dunedin) and with the authority of the primat of the New Zealand church, NEVILL bishop of Dunedin. However subsequently AVERILL the same man who as the bishop of Waiapū had ordained KELHAM deacon, on his translation from Waiapū to the see of Auckland - in which see he succeeded the resigned CROSSLEY – now declined to ordain KELHAM to the priesthood and clearly regretted his earlier action when as bishop of Waiapū (acting as commissary for the primat NEVILL bishop of Dunedin) he had made KELHAM a deacon.
In sum: KELHAM was ordained deacon because of CROSSLEY’s commitment to this ordination; when the decision whether to ordain him priest was in the power of CROSSLEY’s successor, AVERILL the next bishop of Auckland declined to ordain KELHAM priest and he had to go overseas for that.
Thus we are provided with an interesting example of the complex constitutional procedures of the New Zealand Anglican church, particularly around episcopal responsibility for ordinations. (MWB;see SPG files)

[Note on the status of the bishopric of Polynesia
(16 Aug 1921) on the resignation of TC TWITCHELL 1st bishop in Polynesia, the status of the bishopric was considered by the New Zealand general synod and others: whether to attach the bishopric now to the province of New Zealand or to the church of Australia. Proposals to have under the bishop of Melanesia (in the Solomon islands) three suffragan bishops, one of whom would be the suffragan bishop of Tonga and Polynesia (based in Fiji) were mooted in the New Zealand Board of Missions and the Australian Board of Missions, as well as with STEWARD the bishop of Melanesia and the English Melanesian Committee (see New Zealand Church News, 69) until:
(Feb 1925) the New Zealand general synod added the missionary see of Polynesia to the missionary diocese of Melanesia as the two missionary dioceses formally now ‘associated’ with the Church of the Province of New Zealand]
