Dear Parishioners of St Mary's,—

Most if not all of us have made a good beginning in this holy season of Lent. This good beginning must be safeguarded by using the Holy Spirit's gracious gift of perseverance. We shall not feel able to strive to persevere, however, except as we keep before us the real and happy purpose of the Catholic observance of Lent.

There are three words that should be emblazoned in our memory as an aid to our spiritual vision, — wilderness, fasting and temptation. The memory of these three words will help to lead us to the feet of Jesus where we may learn to follow Him in our Lenten observance, keeping in mind that Lent is the actual commemoration of Jesus' forty days fast in the wilderness where he resisted victoriously the temptation of the devil.

Lent calls us to go into the wilderness, that is, to go apart from the world. For all of us this should be a happy journey since the distractions of the world, with their accompanying engagements, normally take too much of our attention and time, so much in fact that we frequently say quite honestly that we have little or no time for God. Oh, let us delight to go into the wilderness where we may have a new opportunity for calm reflection that will issue into closer and more loving union with God.

Lent calls upon us to fast after the example of our blessed Lord. Fasting will be excellent discipline for our overly pampered bodies and it will serve too as an expression of our sorrow for sin. Every sin we commit springs from self-love, self-importance, but we never feel very happy when we are fasting. The joy of it all is that fasting enriches so very greatly our spiritual life. As the proper Preface for Lent has it, God by our bodily fasting "curbs our sinfulness, raises our minds from things of earth, renews our strength and rewards us with manifold blessings". Shall we not rejoice in the call to fast?
Lent calls us to resist temptation. Having gone apart from the world which is one source of temptation and having subordinated through fasting our body which is another source of temptation, we are more ready to resist the devil who so strongly tempts us to ignore God and His Holy Will and even to rebel against His loving purpose for us. Too often we shrink from or fear temptation when we should rejoice to meet it and to resist it and so to prove ourselves happy followers of Christ who resisted temptation in the wilderness during His long fast. May we always remember that temptation resisted saves us from sin. And when we are tempted to grumble against the possibility of temptation, let us turn our grumbling into gratitude since temptation provides exercise for our will and an unexercised will would become flabby and useless.

May the Holy Spirit help us to persevere so that when Good Friday comes we may feel at home as we keep our watch before the Cross of Calvary.

Affectionately yours

Joyful Spiritual Progress
Through Suffering

Does it seem strange to associate joy with suffering? However under the surface of great pain lies a heart of joy. Our blessed Lord has assured us “your sorrow shall be turned into joy” and with right such assurance comes from Him who “for the joy that was set before Him endured the Cross, despising its shame.” Of course the joy of which Jesus speaks is not temporal happiness but abiding spiritual joy, set way out beyond the direction or the misfortunes or the attacks of this world. And the Church, His Mystical Body, is a House of Joy and not a Chamber of Horrors and her joyfulness makes her able to support that which breaks many people, namely, the Crucifix.

All alike must accept anxieties and sorrow and pain but the lover of God has the power of turning them into joy. Indeed, this is the function of the Incarnate Lord and this function He ever carries out through His Church. When sorrow and suffering come to us presumably as our enemies, then as children of the Church let us ask them to sit down with us by the fire, so to speak, and make friends of them. Our Most Holy Redeemer counted them as friends. Let one of the expressions of the spiritual life, namely, “get rid of sorrow” be changed into “turn sorrow into joy.” This change can and will come about when the soul after years of refusal accepts what it has refused. This acceptance is a glorious spiritual adventure which if entered into will enable us hardly to know what it is to feel sorrow or suffering save that for others and for our own sins.

But we must love. The saints suffered everything with joy because they loved. Listen to St Paul, “I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ’s sake; for when I am weak, then am I strong”; and again, “most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities that the power of Christ may rest upon me”. You see when we suffer with anger and irritation and weariness it is because we do not love. If we loved God we should take pleasure, as did St Paul, in crosses and so be able to suffer for the love of Him who lovingly suffered for us. To the lover of Jesus suffering is never feared. As the Cure d’Ars once said “On the Way of the Cross only the first step is painful. Our greatest cross is the fear of crosses”.

It is love and love alone that dispells fear. No one would deny that the Cross of Christ has given peace to human souls. After all human miseries come primarily from not loving that Cross. To love it brings the lover into union with Christ and his crosses in union with the Cross of Christ become the very gate of heaven.

One of the early Fathers of the Church wrote these words “He that hath not suffered, what doth he know?” How true it is that some people never arrive at any sort of knowledge about life until they have had a great sorrow. They have heretofore been bound up in a narrow self and their selfishness just had to be washed away by suffering. Indeed, nobility of character accompanies the suffering of those who love. Like Jesus, we who are His followers shall be fed with suffering and disgrace and poverty, but those if rightly used will give us a nobility higher than any earthly nobility. To be sure, it will not be a nobility of illustrious blood or earthly domains or heroic courage, but rather a nobility of being a co-heir with Christ of the heavenly kingdom. It will be a nobility that will entitle us to the right to say “Our Father” since we have become brothers of Jesus through suffering and martyrs through intimacy with him.
It is well to remind ourselves when we are tempted to shrink from suffering that on the Cross Jesus has made reparation for the losses brought about by the sins of the whole world. These losses can be summed up in the one loss of the perfect union of the created sons of men with their heavenly Father brought about through their sins. The break in this union was repaired by Jesus when He satisfied perfectly that heavenly Father's justice by offering as a sacrifice a perfect human life on the Cross, — a life which because it was linked to His divine life provided infinite merits which could endlessly be applied to the souls of sinners. Now when we suffer in union with Christ we share in His loving reparation and gain merits for ourselves and for others and so enter into great spiritual joy.

It is not necessary for us to seek our opportunities for suffering but suffering will be a source of joy if when it comes we accept it and use it to ennoble our ignoble human nature. Then suffering will bring us back to God. So often we lose our way in the maze of the world's attractions and it takes suffering to bring us back to the true purpose of life which is union with God through the sacrifice of self. Back to God we shall go if as we suffer we begin to say and mean "Not my will but thine be done" and after the example of Job we exclaim "Though he slay me yet will I trust in Him." Fenelon reminds us "Suffering is only hesitation to accept the Cross." Thomas à Kempis encourages us thus, "If thou carry the cross willingly, it will carry thee and bring thee to that place where there will be an end of suffering."

Sometimes a popular hymn helps to get us straight in our thinking and so I bid you think deeply on the following familiar verses:

"Art thou weary, art thou languid
   Art thou sore distrest?
'Come to Me', saith One, 'and coming,
   Be at rest!'
Hath He marks to lead me to Him
   If He be my Guide?
'In His Feet and Hands and Wound-prints,
   And His Side.'
Is there Diadem, as Monarch
   That His Brow adorns?
'Yea, a Crown, in very surety,
   But of thorns!'
If I find Him, if I follow,
   What his guerdon here?

'Many a sorrow, many a labor,
   Many a tear.'
"Finding, following, keeping, struggling,
   Is He sure to bless?
'Angels, Martyrs, Prophets, Virgins,
   Answer, 'Yes'!"

BLESSéd ART THOU AMONG WOMEN

Yes, from out of all creation
Woman full of grace thou art
Thou the purest sinless maiden
In God's plan thou art a part
The deep beauty of thine eyes
Is of holy Mother's love
The smiling softness of thy lips
Soothes all of heaven above
The ebon tresses of thine hair
Fall lightly 'round His face
As, suckling at thy dearest breast
In God's plan thou hast a place
Of all womankind the fairest
For no fairer form e'er breathed
Beauty of heart and soul, now rest
God Incarnate's gentle head
Beauteous lady of our Lord
While we gather at His feet
We know He hears each chaste word
For us Holy Mother speak

WHAT ABOUT GOD (6)

Jesus said, "God is spirit." Now here is a quality of God that we ought to be able to understand something about, because we are, in part, spirits ourselves. But there is always the distinction: we are spirits only in part; God is pure spirit.

In very ancient times when men began to cast about for a name for the mysterious, living, active power of the supernatural, long before they had the concept of one all powerful God, with one accord they hit upon the word that meant in the first place "wind" or "breath". (Usually it's the same word.) This is true of Hebrew, Greek and Latin (ruach, pneuma, spiritus) as well as others. The ancients didn't think of air as a gaseous substance, or of wind as simply the movement of this substance; and they didn't know any thing about the function of the lungs in extracting oxygen from the air. No, to them wind meant simply a great force whether destructive or benevolent; and breath they identified with the life-force itself. For when a man no longer has breath, he no longer has life.

So these words all refer, not to the natural phenomena as we think of them today; but to the supernatural principle or force that is life itself. Indeed, even in our own language we speak of the "breath of life". Therefore, the word, spirit, at the time English borrowed it from Latin had become a philosophical and theological word and not just a physical one. If you will look at the fourth verse of Psalm 104, you will see an example of the double meaning. In the Prayer Book it says, "He maketh his angels winds." In the King James' Bible it says, "He maketh his angels spirits." In the sixty years between the two translations, either more had been learned about languages, or the Bible translators were more careful, for their version is obviously right. In the original the same word can mean either one depending on how it is used.

And so when we, echoing our Lord, say that God is a spirit, we imply several important truths about Him. First of all we mean that He is incorporeal, that He does not have a material, physical body as we do. Therefore we cannot see Him or perceive Him with any of our physical senses all of which are designed to react to material stimulation.

We discovered last time that God is perfectly simple, and this too makes it clear that He does not have a physical body because a body is a complex thing as we well know. Only a Pure Spirit can be perfectly simple.

And there is another quality (which we have mentioned in passing without naming) that ties in with spirituality. That is God's immensity. Now immense doesn't just mean enormously big, which is the way we usually use that word. It means something that cannot be measured at all. It is an expression of God's infinity when we try to think of Him in relation to space; He is beyond all such relations. He can't be measured or limited in either time or space.

Immensity means further that God's presence penetrates all space and substance that there is and goes beyond them. And it means that He is not measured, circumscribed or divided by them, and that He is certainly not identified with them. Teachers have for centuries used a circle as a symbol of infinity because if you think only of the line that is a circle's circumference, that line has no beginning or ending. But even a circle has a fatal weakness as a symbol of infinity because the circumference really does limit the area within it. The great Franciscan philosopher and theologian, St Bonaventure, pointed this out one day and went on to say that God is like a circle "whose center is everywhere, His circumference nowhere." That's bad geometry and quite impossible for us to picture in our finite minds, but it's good theology.

This all leads back to the fact that it is only a Pure Spirit that can be simple and immense. A body is not only complex but it has a center which is in just one place, not everywhere; and it has a circumference which is definitely somewhere, and not nowhere. With which handsome double negative I will stop since the circumference of this month's space in Ave is right here. But there is more to be said about the fact that God is a Spirit.

PARISH NOTES

ALL are invited to "Parish Night" in St Joseph's Hall on Thursday evening, March the third at eight. A thrilling sound film "Our Catholic Heritage" will be shown, together with some very interesting and beautiful slides. The film depicting the Catholic revival both in England and in the United States has been photographed against the background of the Solemn Mass of the International Catholic Congress held last summer in Chicago. The slides will stir to enthusiasm all who love the Catholic Faith and Practice. Don't miss this evening or you will spend the rest of the year reproaching yourself for being such a fool. Come and bring your friends. Already some of our parochial guilds have intimated that they will attend 'en masse'.

ST MARY'S GUILD, a splendid group of women who meet every Wednesday, craves attentive interest. These women care for the vestments worn at St Mary's and they also make simple sets of Mass vestments, some for St Mary's but the majority for poor Catholic Mission Stations where there are no funds for vestments. More appeals from such Stations could be answered if the Guild had an increased treasury and therefore St Mary's Guild now appeals to you to support its financial needs by becoming Associate Members at two dollars a year or Contributing Members at five dollars a year. Send your membership now to the Treasurer of St Mary's Guild, Mrs. Charles Edgar, 535 East 14th Street, New York 9, N. Y. And men should not blush to support the women in this devoted work.

If by chance you should think that St Mary's Guild is not deserving of your patronage, just keep in mind that during the 1954 season one hundred forty-two articles and vestments have been made, including fourteen Low Mass sets, to say nothing of albs, cottes, purificators, amices, stoles, frontals, etc., etc.

* We shall welcome to St Mary's on Sunday evening, March the twentieth at eight, our beloved Suffragan Bishop, The Right Reverend Charles Francis Boynton, who will administer the Sacrament of Holy Confirmation and preach. Pray for a rich outpouring of the Holy Spirit on those who are to be confirmed and welcome them into the St Mary's family of communicants by your presence.

* We would remind you that all pledges for the Builders for Christ Campaign are payable before May the first. It is not too late to send in new gifts. St Mary's has been asked for over four thousand dollars of which only fifteen hundred dollars seem to be in sight.

* At High Mass on the Third Sunday in Lent, March the thirteenth, we are privileged to have as the preacher the Reverend Darwin Kirby, Jr., Rector of St George's Church, Schenectady. It is very gracious in Father Kirby to come to us in so busy a season. We promise him a hearty welcome.

* The Annual Lent Retreat for Men and Women is being held this year on Saturday, March the twelfth, with Father Dentan, Professor of Old Testament Literature at the General Theological Seminary, as Conductor. The Retreat Mass will be celebrated at eight with Meditations at 10:15, 11:30 and 2:30, breakfast being served after the Mass and luncheon at 12:45. The Retreat closes at three with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Those who plan to attend must notify the Sister-in-Charge-of-the-Retreat, 133 West 46th Street, New York 36 (Plaza 7-6464), before March the ninth.

* The Catholic Mouse says he knows very well what prayer is.
It has a sweet and wonderful smell
At St Mary's.
The smell goes up and swirls around,
And there is a low and thundery sound;
Voices and bird notes are in the air,
And lights and men move everywhere,
Then silence, and a bell.
He folds his paws and his whiskers quiver,
He wishes it would last forever,
— High Mass at St Mary's.

—A. D. S.

Note: For your further but secret information, the full name of the Catholic Mouse is "Ani-mus naturaliter Catholicus." His mother was "Ani-Ma naturaliter Christiana," but she got caught in a Protestant trap. Ani-mus is receiving instructions from Our Lady during the long watches of the night in St Mary's.
