Dear Parishioners of St Mary's,—

It is always a joy to face a new season of activity and devotion for our parish guilds. As you well know, St Mary's does not sponsor any more guilds than seem to be essential for the work and spiritual life of the parish because we believe services and sacraments to be of supreme importance over meetings and organizations. However, there is work to be done,—the necessary work of the church and the work of prayer. Both must be strongly connected else we become busybodies or strike pious poses! You are invited to join one or more of our guilds as you have time and energy. God calls you to a holy work in His name.

Every woman in the parish is potentially a member of the Woman's Auxiliary, but as many women as can should be active members of this organization. It works for the Church's Missions throughout the world. Then St Mary's Guild, which exists for the repair and reclaiming of our St Mary's vestments and the making of new Mass vestments not only for St Mary's but for struggling Catholic missions which cannot afford vestments, needs your help if you can ply the needle with a modicum of success. The Guild of St Mary of the Cross will welcome you to help in charitable work within and without the parish and the Guild of Help calls on your help for sponsoring the important work of the Youth Consultation Service of the Diocese of New York. Young people should take a happy part in the support of St Stephen's Guild which, among other things, exists to offer warm friendship to many who live a rather isolated existence in this vast city. The Order of St Vincent is responsible for manning our sanctuaries with acolytes who will joyfully and devotedly serve at our altars.

Then there are the Devotional Guilds. The Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament stresses devotion to Jesus in the Most Holy Sacrament of the Altar and the guarding of the Blessed Sacrament against any neglect or irreverence. The Guild of All Souls performs the spiritual act of mercy, namely, praying for the dead. The Guild of the Living Rosary of our Lady and St Dominic fosters the devotion of the Rosary. These Devotional Guilds meet on one Friday evening of each month. If you would join one of these, consult with the priest chaplain of the Guild of your choice.

Then again many parishioners are associates of Religious Orders, happy in keeping to a definite Rule of Life and gladly supporting some Religious Order by their prayers and works.

What is your part in the worthwhile activity and the sincere devotional life of our guilds? Or will you leave it to the "other fellow"? May this parish buzz with holy activity, — all in the setting of Catholic Worship and Discipline. (Each of our Guilds has a monthly Corporate Communion.)

Affectionately yours

BEFORE THE TABERNACLE

Introductory

AFTER the Mass is over, what then? Well, it is one of the glories of the Catholic Religion that the members of the Mystical Body of Christ have their Lord always with them in His Sacramental Presence in the Tabernacle. Indeed a parish church or chapel of a church institution seems like a deserted place if Jesus is not present on the altar in the Tabernacle. It is beyond the human comprehension to understand why the Blessed Sacrament is not reserved in every place where the faithful meet for the worship of Almighty God. After all, the altar with its Tabernacle is that about which the church or chapel is erected. Without these any auditorium suffices. The altar, you see, is the place where Jesus comes at each Mass in His real, objective and sacramental presence and the Tabernacle is the place where Jesus remains perpetually in His real, objective and sacramental presence. How natural then that the faithful, love to be before the altar at Mass better than any other place and before the Tabernacle after Mass as often as it is possible to be there.

Now Jesus Christ has at His disposal all the worship and the only worship really worthy of God. Indeed, our worship will be Christian worship only, as we offer to the heavenly Father Him who is what the Father looks for, — Jesus Christ Himself, perfect God and perfect Man. Through the Incarnation Jesus Christ has been given to us not to keep as our property but to give back to the Father who has loaned His divine Son to us that in our poverty we might offer in Him infinite homage. Such homage alone can satisfy the infinite Father. Thus it happens that Jesus is not sacramentally present at Mass and does not perpetuate that Presence as He dwells in the Tabernacle solely or even chiefly to give Himself to us but rather to offer Himself to the Father and at the same time to give us the privilege of giving Him to that Father to whom He offers Himself. It is therefore a truisum when we say that the practice of religion for a Christian is the habit of offering Jesus to the Father. We must not be so possessive as to keep Jesus to ourselves as if we had a monopoly on Him. After all, every moment of the day the divine Son is offering Himself to the Father for the redemption of the world in many a Mass and after these Masses in many a Tabernacle.

We proclaim Jesus as our "only Mediator and Advocate" but we need to keep in mind that He is our active Mediator and Advocate. When Mass is over He yields to the Father infinite praise by day and by night in the Tabernacle and thus makes Mass endless for all Christians privileged to enjoy the Reserved Sacrament. Yes, Jesus in the Tabernacle is active not passive, alive not dead. Have we fallen into sin? Then let us offer Jesus to the Father in reparation. Has grace been given us? Then let us offer Jesus to the Father as our only worthy thanks. Have we been suffering pain? Then let us realize that at the very moment we kneel before the Tabernacle Jesus is offered as the Victim of many altars of sacrifice and unite any sacrifice we are called upon to make with His Sacrifice. Oh may we join our halting Christian activity to His perfect activity as in deep humility we kneel before the Tabernacle!

COMMENCEMENT AT ST ANDREW'S THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

The following article written by a member of the St Andrew's faculty and printed in the Diocesan Chronicle will interest those of us who are supporting by our offerings and by our prayers the work of the training of native priests at St Andrew's Seminary, Manila, The Philippines of which our parish missionary, Father Mandell, is the Dean:

THE prospect of graduation exercises is sometimes regarded as an occasion of dullness, unnecessary pomp, and inevitable heat (unless, of course, one of our own family is among those who receive a diploma!), but to the family and friends of an institution, commencement is always an exciting experience. The seniors have done it! They have passed the last examination, handed in the final term paper, and indeed “successfully completed the requirements of this institution.” As the students march slowly to their places, followed by the faculty in full academic regalia, we think of the many hours of hard work put in by them all — of the labors of the faculty to introduce knowledge, of the labors of the students to acquire it. Great is the joy of the church people present at a seminary graduation in knowing that the training just completed will be used to plant God’s Church where it has not been before, as well as to cultivate it where it now is.

“It is significant that a seminary graduation is held in the church, not in an auditorium, for the seminary is a place not only of academic training but also of spiritual training. During the five years of their seminary life, the members of the graduating class have begun each day at six on their knees at Morning Prayer, which is followed by a celebration of Holy Eucharist. Just before classes begin at nine, a short period is set aside for meditation. Noon each day finds them in the chapel for a few minutes of intercession. Five in the afternoon finds them there again for Evensong, and at nine in the evening comes the last office of the day, Compline. In addition to attendance at these services and their classes, the seminarians have kept the dormitory, classrooms, common room, chapel and kitchen clean, have spent an afternoon each week beautifying the grounds of the institution, and have also kept the white cassocks which they wear for chapel services and pastoral work gleaming.

“The six men who graduated from St Andrew’s Seminary on April 11, 1955 were Mr David Bacayan, Mr Mario Dewey, Mr Anthony Sagalla, and Mr Felicito Songgadan of the Philippine Episcopal Church and Mr Justo Andrew and Mr Eustaguio Coronado of the Philippine Independent Church. The faculty and friends of the Seminary who live in Manila were very pleased to welcome the many parents, wives, and other relatives of these men who were able to make the long, dusty two-day trip from the provinces to witness the graduation. Five of the graduates are from various places on the island of Luzon, and one is from Upi, Cotabato.

“The commencement address to the seniors was given by the Reverend Alfred L. Griffiths, Headmaster of Brent School in Baguio City. Fr Griffiths emphasized the importance of pastoral work and of intercession in the ministry of a priest. Following the address, the Reverend Albert Masferre presented an Alumni Scholarship award to Mr Mario Dewey for the most outstanding academic record in his class. Diplomas were awarded by the Dean of the Seminary, the Very Reverend Wayland S. Mandell.

“The blessing at the end of the one-hour service was given by the Right Reverend Norman S. Binsted. Then, for the last time, the graduating class together with the other members of the student body sang a festival setting of the Te Deum Laudamus. This commencement was the first occasion on which many of the visitors had heard the new organ, a two-manual and pedal Estey reed organ. It is an instrument really suitable for use in the worship of Almighty God and it is certainly a great improvement over the old melodeon which now serves the singing master in the classroom.

“After the final, especially appropriate petition of the Te Deum, (O Lord, in Thee have I trusted, Let me never be confounded) the faculty and students filed out of the chapel to enjoy the congratulations of the two hundred or so guests. All visitors were invited to dinner afterward in the students’ refectory and common room.

“As at all commencements, the only sadness is parting with the young people of the senior class but we would not really wish them to stay longer. It is good that they are soon to be about their Father’s business.”

* DAVID

David was a shepherd;
When his slingshot went ping,
Goliath’s friends and neighbors
All began to sing
Goodbye, Goliath.

David was a poet
Who could sweetly play and sing;
He brought light to the darkness
Of the poor mad king;
Alas for Saul.

David was a warrior
And he was a mighty king;
And when his people saw him,
They joyously would sing
Hail, King David.

David was the ancestor
Of Christ, our Lord and King;
Before whose blessed Mother
St Gabriel knelt to sing
Ave, Mary.

WHAT ABOUT GOD? (10)

LAST year in our discussion of what God is like, that is of His characteristics as shown in the life of our Lord and in the Scriptures, we covered the first group of attributes considering what He is in Himself and made a beginning on the second group which shows what God is like by considering the character of His activity. Here we began with His almightiness or omnipotence and discussed the nature and extent of God's power. Having dealt with the power of God in general, we have now to consider the power of His intellect and so this time we will discuss the divine Will and the divine Knowledge.

Someone has said that will follows intellect, and this is true because will is a function of intelligence. It is the mind exercising its power to choose. More particularly, it is the mind in its search for good. Now a finite mind may be ignorant, or mistaken; or it may be misled. So that while an intelligent mind always chooses what seems to it to be good, it can be mistaken and its choice may not turn out to be good after it is accomplished. But with the infinite mind of God, such mistakes are not possible. His choice always falls on the highest good because there are no limitations to His knowledge. It is infinite like all of His attributes.

God knows all things that can be the objects of knowledge and His knowledge has no limits or conditions. It is immediate and pure and complete. We have already seen that because of His Simplicity, He neither learns nor forgets anything. He is not dependent on physical senses with all their weaknesses, distortions and mistakes to learn what He knows. He doesn't learn one thing after another, and He doesn't become able to understand this because He already knows that. His knowledge of all things is direct, absolute and eternal. It is true, of course, that many of the things He knows are finite creatures that come into being and cease to exist, but His knowledge of them does not. It is always in the possession of His mind. None of the conditions of time and space in this world affect the infinity of the Knowledge of God.

Furthermore, the infinity of God's knowledge means that He knows all possible conditions and relations of His creatures and so He knows all things that would or could possibly happen under all possible circumstances.

Like all the other attributes Knowledge is not something that God has, but is something that He is. We cannot imagine God sitting down and laboriously studying a book to find out what it says; nor can we imagine Him toiling over a dish of bacteria culture with microscope and dyes and slides to find out if this particular animal is the cause of cancer or smallpox or some other dread disease. He knows. And His knowledge is His very being which cannot change or disappear.

And so His Will is determined by this perfection of Knowledge. And this is the principal way in which we use the phrase "The Divine Will"—His power to determine His own acts and purposes and their effects. We also use the phrase in another sense when we have found out through His revelation in the Bible or through our Lord's life and teaching what He has already determined. And so we say, "It is the will of God that man should not steal; or, that he should love his neighbor as himself; or that the earth should turn on its own axis once every twenty-four hours."

Some of these examples show up the fact that God's will is not always accomplished; for instance, some men do steal. How can this be if God's will is infinite and eternal? Just remember that we found out a while back that God has the power to limit His own power. He did so when He created men with individual wills of their own. Men's wills not being backed up with perfect knowledge will disagree with each other and sometimes disagree with God's will, too. God allows this to individuals so that they may be free and therefore capable of love. But remember, also, that God's will is eternal. Time means nothing to Him and He will wait for the time when His purpose will be accomplished and our wills through our own choice will be in perfect agreement with His Will.

PARISH NOTES

THE Feast of the Dedication falls on Sunday, October the second, when every member of the parish family will thank God at Mass for the privilege of worshipping in the beautiful Church of St Mary the Virgin. This year it will be our truly great pleasure to have with us for this happy Festival the Right Reverend Oliver L. Loring, Bishop of Maine, who will preside and preach at the High Mass. Then in the evening we are hoping that, after Benediction, we can persuade the Bishop to give his delightful talk in St Joseph's Hall on "The Church's Work in Maine," illustrated with beautiful slides.

The day following the Feast of the Dedication we are holding our annual Parish Dinner Party at which Bishop Loring will be the principal speaker. All members of St Mary's will have received their invitation to the Parish Dinner and we are looking forward enthusiastically to a delightful evening.

THE Church School reopens at the nine o'clock Mass on Sunday, October the second. It is of the utmost importance that every boy and girl of St Mary's attends the nine o'clock Mass each Sunday and remains for class instruction following the Mass, else how can our young people learn to love and serve our blessed Lord? Parents and godparents are called upon to fulfill their solemn duty in bringing up their boys and girls in the faith and practice of the Church Catholic.

A MOST beautiful chalice set with exquisite family jewels has been presented to St Mary's. The chalice with its paten was designed and executed by Mr Louis F. Glasier, skilled ecclesiastical craftsman. It is a most appreciated addition to the Sacred Vessels used at our Masses and it is given by a devoted communicant of St Mary's, Miss Florence Dickerson, in loving and tender memory of her father and mother, Charles and Clara Dickerson. May they rest in peace!

THE Day Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary meets in St Joseph's Hall on Friday morning, October the twenty-first at ten-thirty-five when Mrs James Musgrave of St Philip's Church, Manhattan, will give a report on the General Convention. A corporate Communion at the nine-thirty Mass in the Lady Chapel precedes the meeting. The Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary meets in St Joseph's Hall on Tuesday evening, October the eighteenth, at seven-fifteen. A Dutch Treat dinner at six at Child's, Broadway and Forty-sixth Street, precedes the meeting. All business and professional women of the parish are most cordially invited to attend both the dinner and the meeting. A Corporate Communion will have been held at the nine o'clock Mass on Sunday, October the second.

THE CATHOLIC MOUSE
SUMMER VISITOR

Last summer I saw a little boy
Come through the open door.
His bare feet pattered about with joy
Over the cool stone floor.
He wandered up and down the aisle,
Looked into every pew,
Greeted each shrine with a wide smile
And blew at a candle or two.
On the lowest chancel step he sat
And laughed up at the light.

I ran around and across his feet;
He chuckled with delight.
All through the hot summer day
He roamed his Father's house,
Or sat down on the floor to play
With me, his loving mouse.
At night when shadows are very deep
And the door is locked outside,
His Mother found him fast asleep
Before the Crucified.
