

A Directory of members of the First AngloCatholic Priests Convention Oxford 19, 20, 21, 22 July 1921

compiled by Christine Hickton and Michael Blain second edition 2022

This 1st AngloCatholic Priests convention was a direct outcome of the 1st Anglo-Catholic Congress in London the previous year. The roll of members (published 09 July 1921) lists 1 142. Members (all male) came mostly from the dioceses of England, a few from Scotland and from North America. A disproportionately large number came from the Welsh dioceses – we suggest this is because the new theological college of S Michael & All Angels (at Aberdare and then at Llandaff) inspired generations of clergy to be more AngloCatholic.

(We noted a similar influence of Ely theological college among the clergy who attended the first AngloCatholic Congress in 1920. See our directory at http://anglicanhistory.org/england/congresses/blain_hickton2015.pdf)

The sessions of the Convention were in the Oxford town hall, chaired by B J KIDD. The speakers were M ATLAY (vicar S Matthew Westminster), A H BAVERSTOCK (rector Hinton Martell), B I BELL (of S Stephen's college Annandale New York), Fr H P BULL SSJE (Superior general of the Society of S John the Evangelist, Cowley), V S Stuckey COLES (diocesan chaplain Oxford), A E CORNIBEER (vicar S John Newcastle-on-Tyne), H DRAKE (rector Ufford Suffolk), P H ELIOT (bishop of Buckingham), Henry William GIBSON (rector Inveraray Scotland; where the patron the 10th duke of Argyll was organist at All Saints church), C S GILLETT (chaplain Liddon House London), G HEATON (vicar Buckley Chester), T A LACEY (canon-residentiary of Worcester), R L LANGFORD-JAMES (rector Thruxton Hampshire), Edward LEACH (vicar S Peter Handsworth), C Newell LONG (warden Birmingham diocesan house Coleshill), H F B MACKAY (vicar All Saints Margaret Street London), E A MORGAN (S Andrew Willesden Green), T MURRAY (diocesan missionary Lichfield), R T NEWCOMBE (priest-in-charge S Michael Hull), Arnold PINCHARD (secretary of the English Church Union), E R RUCK-KEENE (rector Copford Essex), Frederic STANFORD (rector S Peter Regina Saskatchewan Canada), J J G STOCKLEY (Wolverhampton), Hugh Selwyn TAGGART (vicar S Matthew Douglas Isle of Man), Francis L UNDERHILL (S Alban Birmingham), the Revd Fr Philip Napier WAGGETT SSJE, G Napier WHITTINGHAM (vicar S Silas Martyr Kentish town London NW), H WILLIAMS (Teddington).

Francis UNDERHILL and Charles Scott GILLETT edited the full texts of these papers for the Report of the 1st Anglo-Catholic Priests's Convention on the general subject: Priestly Efficiency, Oxford July 1921. This was published by the Society of SS Peter & Paul in an eighteenth century French style, with the fine title page engraved by William Michael Roberts QUICK (born 1838 died 28 January 1927 London).

Useful background reading is provided in Anglican Ritualism in Victorian Britain 1830-1910, by Nigel YATES (Oxford University Press 1999), particularly the final chapters.

Project Canterbury (<http://anglicanhistory.org/>) regularly adds new documents to their website, of which a proportion are relevant to the people and themes of the AngloCatholic Convention.

Comment

over 60 years member of the English Church Union, an AngloCatholic advocacy group:

(12 May 1859) founded as the Church of England Protection Society,
(May 1860) became the English Church Union
(1933) and as its energy slackened, merged with the AngloCatholic Congress to become the Church Union

06 Oct 1926 on prayer-book revision: deputation received by the Archbishop of Canterbury [Randall DAVIDSON] representing more than 1 300 AngloCatholic clergy 'generally in favour of the Prayer-book Measure and the Deposited Book'; their resolutions, 1st pledging themselves as Catholic to give loyal acceptance to the Deposited Book as put forward by the Upper and Lower Houses of Convocation and passed by the three Houses of the Church Assembly, when it becomes the law of the Church; 2nd asking the diocesan bishops to deal synodically as far as possible with any difficulties and problems arising from the Deposited Book. The deputation members 'were pressing that the Bishops should develop their synods as consultative bodies because they considered that this would best facilitate the restoration of discipline'. Cosmo Gordon LANG archbishop of York who 'hoped to have been able to receive the deputation jointly with the Archbishop of Canterbury' [DAVIDSON] was prevented from being present; [LANG took no practical steps to resolve issues around the prayer-book once he became archbishop of Canterbury in 1928]

03 Aug 1934 obituary The Times

Comment

1920-1922 executive chairman of the 1920 AngloCatholic Congress, who stood down after his marriage

29 Jun 1920 Tuesday preacher at crowded mass S Matthew Westminster, chairman at the Albert hall later

02 Jul 1920 Friday evening, a service for close of Congress in S Matthew's Westminster, and in Southwark cathedral.

Jul 1921 1st AngloCatholic Priests' convention at Oxford, on the general subject: priestly efficiency. ATLAY was chair of the executive committee; B J KIDD the warden of Keble was chair of the Oxford committee; the Right Revd E D SHAW DD archdeacon of Oxford presided at the daily Convention eucharist; 1 199 priests were present all wearing a small ticket; H M BURGE the bishop of Oxford preached the opening sermon, the worship highlight was the 'pontifical high mass of the Holy Ghost' at S Barnabas Oxford, sung by Vibert JACKSON the 'assistant bishop of British Honduras'; the sessions of the Convention were all in the Oxford town hall. Francis UNDERHILL and Charles Scott GILLETT were editors of the Report of the 1st AngloCatholic priests' Convention on the General Subject: Priestly Efficiency, Oxford July 1929, published by the Society of SS Peter & Paul in an eighteenth century French style with beautiful title page and many attractive colophons. I see that W M R QUICK had engraved the title page. [William Michael Roberts QUICK born 1838 died 28 Jan 1927 London]

ATLAY's background connections would make smooth his appointment to a desirable residentiary canonry at Gloucester.

The published report gives this list of speakers at the meetings: the Revd M ATLAY, the Revd AH BAVERSTOCK, the Revd B I BELL of S Stephen's college Annandale New York USA, Fr H P BULL Superior general SSJE Cowley, the Revd VS Stuckey COLES diocesan chaplain Oxford; the Revd A E CORNIBEER vicar S John Newcastle-on-Tyne; the Revd H DRAKE rector Ufford Suffolk; the Right Revd P H ELIOT bishop of Buckingham, the Revd Henry William GIBSON rector Inveraray Argyll; the Revd Charles Scott GILLETT chaplain Liddon House; the Revd G HEATON vicar Buckley Chester; Dr the Revd B J KIDD Warden of Keble, chairman of Convention; the Revd TA LACEY canon-residentiary Worcester; Revd Dr R L LANGFORD-JAMES rector Thruxton Hampshire; the Revd Edward LEACH vicar S PETER Handsworth; the Revd C Newell LONG warden Birmingham diocesan house Coleshill; Prebendary HFB MACKAY vicar All Saints; the Revd E A MORGAN vicar S Andrew Willesden Green NW; the Revd T MURRAY diocesan missionary Lichfield ; the Revd R T NEWCOMBE priest-in-charge S Michael Hull; the Revd Arnold PINCHARD secretary of the English Church Union; the Revd E R RUCK-KEENE rector Copford Essex; the Revd Frederic STANFORD rector S Peter Regina Saskatchewan Canada; the Revd J J G STOCKLEY rector Wolverhampton; the Revd H S TAGGART vicar S Matthew Douglas Isle of Man; Canon Francis L UNDERHILL vicar S Alban Birmingham; Dr the Revd Father PN WAGGETT SSJE; the Revd G Napier WHITTINGHAM vicar S Silas Martyr Kentish town NW; the Revd H Williams vicar Teddington.

This 1st AngloCatholic priests' convention was a direct outcome of that 1st AngloCatholic Congress; Hubert Murray BURGE [born 09 Aug 1862 died 11 Jun 1925] bishop of Oxford was the president, the warden of Keble college Oxford B J KIDD chairman, the Revd H A WILSON secretary, Major-General Guy CARLETON JONES (of the Canadian army medical corps) treasurer.

For the full texts of the papers see the Report of the 1st AngloCatholic priests's convention on the general subject: Priestly Efficiency, Oxford July 1921, published by the Society of SS Peter & Paul, 32 George Street Hanover Square London W, MCMXXI [SSPP was earlier at 7 Barlow Mews Bruton Street Bond Street W1]

His funeral at Gloucester was not a high mass of requiem. Maybe S Matthew Westminster did provide appropriate ceremonies but The Times does not mention any other requiem mass. ATLAY's father-in-law Lord MERRIVALE at least got a low mass of requiem at S Alban Holborn. However ATLAY was a member of the Guild of All Souls and on his day of death is remembered in perpetuity at the chantry chapel of the Guild at the shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham (MWB)

(1860-) vice his father long-term vicar S Mary Prestbury nr Cheltenham co Gloucestershire

(-1877-) member SSC in district Cheltenham S Wulstan chapter

(28 Jun 1879) by Royal warrant assumed surname BAGHOT De La BERE; through his mother (he explained) he represented ancient families BAGHOT of Prestbury and De La BERE of Southam; all the family changed their surname as well

Catholic controversialist:

(1873-1884) constant prolonged memorable prosecution initiated by a Protestant association through a local inhabitant not a communicant church member; he changed his name but not his principles in spite of admonition by the Court of Arches and imprisonment for contempt; he apparently was deprived in a formal manner of the living but continued to officiate with the same illegality of ritual until Apr 1884, making it 11 years before he finally ceased to 'offend' the Court judgement; the bishop of Gloucester [Charles ELLICOTT] explained that BAGHOT-De La BERE (though deprived of the living) had been temporarily engaged by the churchwardens to carry on the services as usual; however on his father's death he was enabled to become patron of the benefice from which he had been ejected, so that the succession of a like-minded vicar was assured on his final leaving (411) – F GURNEY from S James the Less Plymouth succeeded, appointed by BAGHOT De La BERE

(10 Sep 1900) A correspondent in The Times noted, 'The only remedy open to a Protestant layman who sees his parish church service gradually transformed into High Mass is an appeal to the Courts'

(Apr 1884-) on accepting his ejection from his living Prestbury, curate S Paul Brighton co Sussex

Comment

Priests in presbyteries could be expected to be both firmly celibate and zealously Papalist; All Hallows Copperfield Street was the most Catholic of churches in the diocese of Southwark.

In working on this Directory I have looked for RC converts; though conscious that I may have missed more, I have found few. (Their conversions are noted passim.)

Although the differences between RC and AC in these days could be slight and for Anglo-Papalists negligible, some Anglo-Papalists got disheartened when the rest of the Church of England did not follow their lead. As a result Anglo-Papalists unhappy in the pluralistic Anglican Church were more inclined to join the RC church trusting it was not pluralistic.

Comment

1927 published three volumes of his sermons on the Black Letter Saints

Note: in the Book of Common Prayer (and other missals and sanctorales) the names of the feastdays of Our Lord and of major saints like Our Lady, S John the Baptist and the Apostles were printed in red – thus the term ‘red-letter day’ a special day; black-letter saints (for instance S Francis of Assisi, S Philip NERI, S Vincent De PAUL, S Margaret Mary ALACOQUE) were considered secondary and thus headed in normal black-type, ‘black-letter’ saints (MWB)

Comment

BAVERSTOCK's parents are among the few in this directory of AngloCatholic priests who themselves were 'advanced Catholics', at S Alban Holborn

A very high proportion of the priests in this directory were brought up in vicarages, but did not replicate their parents' religious style.

They pushed beyond that parental formation, perhaps (in part) a generational protest against familial authority? (MWB) member SSC <http://anglicanhistory.org/ssc/embry/> and (1921) elected as Master of SSC <http://www.societassanctaecrucis.org/> member Guild of All Souls (chantry society)

1931 a founder Guardian of the shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham

BAVERSTOCK did work with children's homes, spoke (Jul 1921) AngloCatholic priests' Convention on the teaching of children; wrote A Picture Book of the Holy Sacrifice for the Children of the Church published by the Society of SS Peter & Paul;

Note: The Society of SS Peter & Paul published large engravings worked by Martin TRAVERS illustrating the ceremonies of the mass; these and similar material of the Congress era were quietly valued for decades around the Anglican world; thus in the 1950s in Otane a small rural parish in Hawkes Bay New Zealand, the parish priest Canon Rupert Thomas HALL kept in the sacristy the handbook from the centenary high mass of the Oxford Movement at the White City Stadium, and pinned to the walls these posters, an inspiration to his server (the Revd Sir) Desmond Britten SSC - HALL had left England before the 1st AngloCatholic Congress but had been a curate in an important northern AngloCatholic parish (for HALL see http://anglicanhistory.org/nz/blain_directory/) (MWB)

Comment

*BELTON was always an Anglican priest, but in stating in the 1911 census returns that he was a 'Catholic Priest' he was expressing his conviction that Anglican priests are Catholic and that for him this emphasis of being a Catholic is more valuable than the fact of being an Anglican; only in the census returns 1901 and 1911 did I find that term 'Catholic Priest' used with this meaning (MWB)

Comment

1886-1903 his correspondence and papers relating to the Pope's Bull on Anglican orders (held by the Representative Church Body Library Dublin)

1896 author The Pope's Bull on Anglican Orders

The topic of the validity of Anglican orders (bishop, priest, deacon) was particularly important to AngloCatholics; they were disappointed that backstairs machinations between Cardinal Merry Del VAL in the Vatican and the English RC leadership had obliged the pope to declare Anglican orders to be null and void. BENSON was one of many who in print objected and explained why the pope's bull was mistaken by its unhistorical and ill-informed judgement.

Comment

Until the later twentieth century many 'livings' (stipended clerical parish appointments) were in the gift of private patrons rather than the bishop of that diocese. Maybe a local landowner or a university college or a family owned the 'advowson' or 'patronage', ie the legal right to choose the priest they wished appointed to the position. The patron then nominated their choice to the bishop of the diocese who (all being legal) licensed the priest to the living. As the bishop normally was obliged to accept and license the nominated priest, the powers of such a private patron could be significant if the patron were keenly supportive (for instance) of the Catholic movement. Comment

30 May 1956 obituary The Times (411)

*Bishop GILBERT of Chichester has a reputation for being anti-Ritualist and rightly so; his own churchmanship was more in the old Highchurch and Tractarian tradition; he was convinced that the Catholic tradition of the Anglican church should not be contaminated by the infusion of practices from the contemporary RC church; thus he was a persecutor of the Revd John Mason NEALE who was certainly a loyal Anglican but also an advanced Ritualist. He also worked against PURCHAS in Brighton.

GILBERT's double connection to the BOWLES family is important, and doubtless their penchant for conversion to the RC church would intensify his dislike of Ritualistic AngloCatholics.

For more on the BOWLES family and in particular the siblings of John Samuel BOWLES and their AngloCatholic loyalties and then (for some of them) their convert's loyalty to the RC church, see BOWLES, THOMAS in the Blain Biographical Directory (of Clergy in the South Pacific)

Comment

The sentence by the General Court Martial suggests his life went seriously off track. His low profile keeps him nearly invisible subsequently and certainly he had no further licensed work as a priest. He was a welfare officer at the death of his mother (MWB).

C GAULT a Magdalen college missionary at S Mary the Virgin Somers Town when MORSE-BOYCOTT was curate spoke dismissively of him, as one who exploited the poor rather than committed to them, arriving by chauffeur-driven Rolls-Royce car to visit the parish. His personal background does not show money despite his pretentious style; despite the stinting regime under which their singing boys suffered, he and his wife were wealthy at death. member Guild of All Souls (chantry society)

Celibate priests in this directory often spent quietly serviceable later years as convent chaplains living in small quarters attached to the convent with their duties being daily mass and spiritual direction.

A married couple would not (usually) be able to do that and only gradually the Church made provision to assist such clergy couples in retirement.

This married couple found a place in diocesan flats for retired priests. Despite such long lives (and despite his marriage), BOYD left an unusually wealthy estate. (MWB)

Note on Birmingham Controversy

1918 S Gregory Small Heath was one of the so-called 'rebel' AngloCatholic churches of Birmingham; BROWN was instituted as curate-in-charge (not as full parish priest for it was attached to the parish S Aidan Small Heath where BROWN was formally the assistant curate; Bishop Walter FRERE was a member of the patronage trustees) when the bishop of Birmingham was Henry WAKEFIELD.

In 1924 his successor as bishop of Birmingham was an anti-Catholic E W BARNES. He soon told BROWN that he was 'under threat of legal proceedings after a fruitless endeavour to induce him to conform to [BARNES'] request to obey the law of the Church.' Inter alia BARNES required that there be no Benediction, Exposition, Devotions, Procession of the Host with the Blessed Sacrament at S Gabriel's; he wrote that these religious ceremonies are 'meaningless', expressing 'absurd' beliefs. So as BROWN would not desist, BARNES 'forbids' the employment of any curate at S Gabriel even though the need was there. (see 25 Nov 1930, The Times)

24 Nov 1930 The bishop of Birmingham (BARNES) had refused to license any curate to the parish until his instructions to cease alleged

'illegal practices' were obeyed. BROWN wanted 'Father [L E H] PIKE of [curate S Peter] Coventry' to come to help them; he granted that he did not see how the bishop could do otherwise than say 'No' but they wanted to place the onus on the bishop as much as possible for he had denied the parish help ever since the bishop had come to the diocese.

BROWN wrote that the bishop's reply to him was 'a slap in the face', for the bishop was 'entirely ignorant of all the work that is being done in [S Gabriel's] or any other AngloCatholic church, which he [had] never visited or made any effort to understand'.

On his authorising BROWN 'to do a certain work' [not clear what that was] the bishop objected to the Reservation of the [Blessed] Sacrament, but now BROWN pointed out that in their request for the licensing of Fr PIKE they needed assistance for that 'certain work' and not for Reserving the Sacrament (411)

25 Nov 1930 the bishop of Birmingham threatened to appeal to the archbishop of Canterbury to rebuke BROWN publicly and order him to leave; BARNES had certainly understood that BROWN was a 'very strong AngloCatholic' (411)

27 Nov 1930 BROWN wrote to BARNES his bishop reminding him that on the departure of the Revd A E MAUND to Oxford (curate for four years) BARNES had received an urgent appeal made to him by the Church Council yet had declined to license an assistant for the parish. BROWN stated he would make 'no alterations in the worship and conduct of the work at S Gregory's from what was in use with the approval of your predecessor' [H WAKEFIELD] and (as he closes his letter to the bishop) yet he does 'longing to be Obediently Yours in the Lord'. The Times

To serve the vast spaces and small villages across the prairies of Western Canada a brotherhood was formed under the Revd W G BOYD. Their initial base was in the parish S Faith in Edmonton. BUCHANNAN had a time here before World War 1, and returned again to lead in 1922.

In this era the Church in Australia developed a successful ministry of 'Bush Brotherhoods' across the outback; similarly following their example SEDGWICK the bishop of Waiapu New Zealand tried in the early 1920s to foster a rural Brotherhood but it did not take.

Note:

Amelia WATSON

born 06 Apr 1857 New Zealand

died 22 Sep 1933 Grosvenor hotel Malvern co Worcestershire England the daughter of Robert and Elizabeth WATSON who lived in Christchurch New Zealand.

maybe: Robert WATSON died 02 Dec 1879 age 63 at his residence Merivale Christchurch buried Barbadoes cemetery

Amelia married (probably not in New Zealand)

Arthur Ansell BULLOCK-WEBSTER

who was at some point in New Zealand

(1891) Amelia with husband head living on own means with three servants Melksham House Market Place Westbury Buckinghamshire born Mar ¼ 1852 Westbury Buckinghamshire, registered as Ansell Thomas Edward WEBSTER; died Sep ¼ 1919 age 67 Christchurch Hampshire registered as Ansell B WEBSTER.

Amelia left property in Great Britain in addition to considerable property in New Zealand and Canada.

Of her Canadian property $25 000 dollars was left on trust for her sisters-in-law Evelyn and Helen BULLOCK-WEBSTER and for her brother-in-law Canon George Russell BULLOCK-WEBSTER rector S Michael Paternoster Royal London EC - who died a few months after her death.

Her English estate went to the Church of England Waifs & Strays Society;

In her time in New Zealand Amelia BULLOCK-WEBSTER had been a regular attender at the Christchurch cathedral; she and Arthur Ansell BULLOCK-WEBSTER retired to England before 1891.

Her New Zealand property reported to be £70 000 to £80 000 went to form a pension fund for retiring clergy in the diocese of Christchurch; this was the Bullock-Webster Trust, named in honour of her parents Robert and Elizabeth WATSON, and her late husband Ansell BULLOCK-WEBSTER.

This New Zealand bequest endowed the clergy retirement pension for the diocese of Christchurch New Zealand: as a result and until the provincial (national) Church pension scheme was set up, Christchurch diocese had the best clergy retirement pension - such that C GAULT could say (c1962) that the diocese of Christchurch was held together by clergy determined to survive in the diocese and thus earn their significant retirement pension. Comment

(1891) on his appointment to the rectory S Mary Steps the patron was the Revd James Baxter STROTHER of Newton Abbot Devon (a Tractarian, see The Oxford Movement in Practice G Herring);
(1913) the advowson was gifted by the Revd T OUTRAM-MARSHALL to the SMF which was encouraging Catholic patrons to do so, in a belated attempt to counter the success of the evangelical trusts in buying up and generally collecting advowsons so that they as patron might ensure protestant succession in parishes under their patronage. Thus for example, the evangelical Church Society in (2018) held about 120 advowsons for parishes.
(12 Jun 1931) an interesting conflict arose from such a transfer when the patroness of Shenley parish in Hertfordshire Mrs Donald GOTTO intended to transfer her right of patronage to the SMF (Society for the Maintenance of the Faith) as she was entitled to do under the Benefices (Transfer of Rights of Patronage) Measure 1930. Canon F HALSEY the rector of Shenley and rural dean of St Albans presided over a meeting of the parochial church council which resolved that they did not want the advowson transferred to a party-promoting group - as of course was SMF. The council wanted the advowson vested in the see of St Albans where the risk of party-interference would be minimal.

Comment

The missionary College of S Augustine of Canterbury accepted students commended by the missionary societies particularly the SPG (Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in foreign parts). The students were given a wide education including training in practical things (tropical medicine) as well as other religions.

The warden of S Augustine's College was constantly negotiating with overseas ('colonial') bishops who asked for missionaries from that college. Negotiations for such a placement might continue until they set sail.

For the selected candidate, ordination in England was often convenient; thus the new deacon or priest might be sent out to the missionary diocese ready for action. By the authority of the archbishop of Canterbury (or as here, his deputy the bishop-suffragan of Dover) these men were ordained in England on the expectation that they would not work in England but would proceed to the missionary diocese.

After training at the missionary college of S Augustine Canterbury BURGESS was ordained deacon by the suffragan bishop of Dover for the archbishop of Canterbury 'for the colonies' - but he did not go to the colonies and settled instead for Bethnal Green. Something had not worked out as intended.

Comment

Movement between different Churches was not so common nor so casual then as a century later. However it is worth comment that while some AngloCatholics became RC, it was very rare then for a Baptist to become an AngloCatholic priest, and it is noteworthy that his brother Frank BURNETT was a minister in the Baptist Union - yet a son of that Baptist Frank BURNETT was an Anglican priest however. Comment

BURNEY was great-great nephew to the novelist and diarist Fanny BURNEY (daughter of Dr Charles BURNEY musicologist); she married (1793) General Alexandre D'ARBLAY, and she died 06 Jan 1840; their only child the Revd Alexander Charles Louis D'ARBLAY (1794-1837) priest at All Saints Camden Town London died unmarried

Comment his wife and cousin Mildred WAKEFIELD links him to some of the most colourfully controversial people in New Zealand colonial history, and to Sir John HALL one of the most significant politicians of the later Victorian era in the colony.

and (01 Nov 1909) blessed incense on its first use in that church

- sounded out [by GAUL?] for the bishopric of Mashonaland but declined to let his name go forward;

incense was the problem on which BURTON resigned as (Edgar JACOB) the bishop of St Albans banned use;

the conflict with the bishop was known in the parish but his own exhaustion was given as the formal reason;

GAUL used the mitre, and (1912) returned Africa with gifts of cloth-of-silver vestments and episcopal gloves]

23 Dec 1909 by the bishop of Colchester dedication very expensive Lady chapel (a memorial to his 1st wife and others, designed by Frank PECK again) including a tabernacle and commemoration of the Assumption above the altar; the panels of the reredos were later designed by Martin TRAVERS – not clear to me exactly what TRAVERS did but the parish records are clear that the floor tiling, the tabernacle with super-altar was the work of Frank PECK (MWB)

Note: Frank PECK architect for a proposed Wellington cathedral in elaborate French Gothic, and for Nelson cathedral New Zealand a mute foreshortened building (MWB)

1909 the New Zealand church delegated selection of new parish priest (vice AVERILL; who had been himself put forward by Canon WCE NEWBOLT and appointed) for S Michael & All Angels to WCE NEWBOLT (1890-1930) canon of S Paul's cathedral London and member of SSC [Societas Sanctae Crucis], and to the bishop of London Arthur WINNINGTON-INGRAM: however

Jan 1910 with strong commendations from the bishops of London (Arthur WINNINGTON-INGRAM) and of Colchester (Robert Henry WHITCOMBE) BURTON was nominated as their rector by the parish of S James King Street Sydney (vice CARR-SMITH); the Sydney diocesan nominators consulted Eugene STOCK also in London, the historian of CMS and specifically of the New Zealand Church Missionary Association, who advised them that BURTON was an extreme Ritualist (= mass vestments and incense) – which brought unanimous rejection of him by the Sydney nominators. However it was public knowledge that the parish of Christchurch S Michael was already then under offer to BURTON

[Note: BURTON had raised £40 000 for S Saviour parish during his years as priest there;

vice BURTON the Revd Leonard Sedgwick WESTALL vicar of Thaxted Essex was appointed vicar S Saviour;

Comment

The bishop of London WINNINGTON-INGRAM was uneasy about ordaining priests during World War 1; he was keen that the Church should provide fighting men and not draw them aside from their patriotic duty to fight patriotically.
Thus The Times noted few were ordained then compared to numbers ordained before the War; and London diocese in ordination lists marked that those ordained were disqualified from war service; several were formerly Nonconformist or Protestant ministers and so were not withdrawn from active service but already were in effect sidelined.

BUTLER, H

'H BUTLER' in S Mary Swanley is the son of the vicar of S Mary Swanley; with the basic details on H BUTLER, we then offer his father Montague Russell as the correct name of the AngloCatholic Conference member:

BUTLER, Hugh Montagu

master at Denstone college (1919) of vicarage S Mary Swanley Kent (1939) headmaster of a grammar school born 24 Jan 1890 Stoke Newington north London died Jun 1971 Gloucester;
married 21 Aug 1919
Annie Isabel WILTSHIRE
daughter of Samuel WILTSHIRE gentleman;
This schoolmaster HUGH MONTAGU BUTLER was the only child of the probable person who certainly was an AngloCatholic priest and in Swanley an AngloCatholic centre. We offer at most likely:

BUTLER, MONTAGU [not registered at birth but also RUSSELL

Education

1878 London College of Divinity (founded 1863, evacuated during World War 2 to Northwood London, and finally 1970 moved to become S John's college Nottingham)

Note: LCD was a distinctly evangelical theological college. It is unusual to find an AngloCatholic priest train there, leaving the possibility that his family background was evangelical and he chose to become AngloCatholic

1881 deacon London
1882 priest London (8)

Positions

1881-1883 curate All Saints Gordon Square St Pancras diocese London

Comment

author (1894) Rome's Tribute to Anglican orders: a defence of the Episcopal succession and priesthood of the Church of England, founded on the testimony of the best RC Authorities

After a decade of discussion between Canterbury and the Vatican, the condemnation by Pope Leo XIII of Anglican orders in his bull (1897) Apostolicae Curae as 'utterly null and void' was a devastating betrayal of any spirit of cooperation between the two Churches. While a few disappointed AngloCatholics converted to the RC church, AngloCatholic leaders and scholars recognised the document's fake history and dishonest arguments and continued as Anglicans. I suspect that resentment against RC exclusivism was behind the habit in census returns 1901 and 1911 for some AngloCatholic priests to state that they were 'Catholic priests', either just that or Catholic priests 'of the English church' (MWB).

Comment

As patron of the living of Inkpen on his father's death he was able to appoint himself as rector in 1895 and to stay there the rest of his life. I have noticed during our research that before World War 1 The Times announcements of preferments (clergy appointments) invariably mentioned the nominating patron; this was not consistently so after the war, and reminds that throughout the twentieth century the constant trend was to transfer patronage away from private patrons to the bishop as the leader of the diocese. Private and party trusts (evangelical particularly but also Catholic) continued to hold advowsons (patronage) but as parishes combined (in rural areas most obviously) they found it a very complex responsibility to impose their specific views on not one but a cluster of parishes incorporating specifically variant traditions. (1920) Dispute on use and abuse of Patronage

See The Times: 16 Mar 1920, 30 Mar 1920, 17 Jul 1920 for reports

Christopher Sausmarez CAREY had been duly presented to the church of the Sacred Trinity Salford in the diocese of Manchester by the patron Sir Josslyn Augustus Richard GORE-BOOTH baronet of Lissadell co Sligo Ireland. But Edmund Arbuthnot KNOX the evangelical bishop of Manchester objected; KNOX appointed the Revd John Russell DARBYSHIRE vicar S Luke Liverpool to Sacred Trinity. The English Church Union at the height of Victorian anti-Ritualist prosecution had been founded specifically to help prosecuted Ritualist priests. The rise of the distinctly AngloCatholic tradition in the early years of the next century aroused hot feelings and bishops were now stretching the limits of their authority to block AngloCatholic priests. The English Church Union lawyers G J TALBOT KC, E W HANSELL, J G

WOOD were called in to support the AngloCatholic priest and challenge the bishop. For GORE-BOOTH they challenged Bishop KNOX and DARBYSHIRE in the Church Court. GORE-BOOTH explained to the court that he was the patron and accordingly after the cession (13 Apr 1918) of the previous incumbent the Revd A Edward CORNIBEEER he had presented C S CAREY for appointment as parish priest. To this action of the patron GORE-BOOTH the bishop did not respond at the time; but now several years on, had announced his intention to collate, institute, and admit the Revd J R DARBYSHIRE (priest at S Luke Liverpool) to be the next incumbent of Sacred Trinity Salford. GORE-BOOTH's nominee CAREY had admitted to the bishop of Manchester that he was habitually guilty of 'illegal' practices: (1) reservation of the Blessed Sacrament (2) wearing of a chasuble and alb (3) the ceremonial use of incense (4) the lighting (on and above the communion table) of candles which were not required for light; CAREY had been informed that the bishop for those reasons refused to institute CAREY to the living and gave notice of his having appointed DARBYSHIRE and not CAREY to Sacred Trinity.

The English Church Union's lawyers argued that as CAREY had never been admonished or warned or censured or proceeded against in any Ecclesiastical Court on account of his practices, these so-called illegal practices did not show CAREY was unfit to be the parish priest and did not justify the bishop's arbitrary refusal to institute CAREY. As Counsel explained the legal details, the judge Mr Justice COLERIDGE asked: 'Is there not an authority which would inform my virgin mind on this point?' In the end the bishop of Manchester won the case: for the given reasons of illegal practices he was not bound to institute CAREY, the bishop had a right to institute his own nominee, and judgement must be for the bishop with costs. The plaintiffs appealed the Court decision, but their appeal was dismissed. (411)

This controversy offers a valuable testing of the powers of both the private patron of a living and of the bishop who licensed the priest. If the bishop were to provide substantial grounds for declaring the priest unfit for the appointment, then the Court would give judgement to the bishop; the patron and the priest nominated to the living lose. The balance of powers was steadily moving away from traditional patrons to the central authority of the diocesan bishop. However with the unwelcome publicity that might ensue from a legal challenge to the bishop and his use of power, bishops increasingly tried to work with AngloCatholic and to broaden their pastoral approach. Comment: class privilege and AngloCatholic priests who survive opposition

*The founder of S Mary Magdalene Paddington Richard Temple WEST (born 1827 died 10 Feb 1893) a significant Ritualist was a grandson of Horatio WALPOLE 2nd Earl of ORFORD through WEST's mother Lady Maria née WALPOLE. His brother Sir Algernon WEST (1832-1921) was principal private secretary to the British PM William Ewart GLADSTONE. One assumes these connections (as so often) did assist the survival of so marked a Ritualist as Temple WEST. I often sense in this research that if the Ritualist AngloCatholic priest was well-connected or wealthy, then he would have a good run without being curbed so readily as a man without wealth or connections. Class privilege. MWB

Comment

The Convention list of registrations has J J Cartwright; we have not found any priest named 'J J CARTWRIGHT', neither before nor after 1920; as our putative candidate 'James Lawrence' changed curacies in the years around the AngloCatholic Convention, he might as a junior cleric have been between licensed appointments and so staying with a friend or colleague at S Botolph Farnborough; the parish priest was an older man and thus not a college friend but with a village population of 300 he was not in need of a curate. In indistinct blurred font, the initials J L might easily be read as J J. Our suggested candidate 'James Lawrence CARTWRIGHT' is the suitable age, ordained after World War 1 and had yet to make his mark and be known at such a Convention. His subsequent ministry may be thought to match that for a quieter AngloCatholic of that era. (MWB)

Note: this was the London-base for SSJE until the beginning of this century when the last monk left and the place was sold up; it was much used as a centre for spiritual direction

Comment

(1866) the men's Anglican religious order known as the Society of S John the Evangelist (SSJE) was founded by Richard M BENSON with the mother house in Cowley Oxford; at its peak this English men's religious order had members serving in South Africa and India, and also in Japan, Canada, USA, and Scotland. In England they were the experts in Ignatian spirituality and in demand for retreats and spiritual direction. Their separate SSJE Congregation in USA continued into the 21st century.

in his autobiography, Sidney DARK (an editor Church Times) described CHILD 'an able man, a charming host, a delightful companion....' whose flippancy had made his life a failure. 'I always feel about Maurice that at heart he is very sad and is always trying to laugh it off'. (Bernard Palmer in Church Times)

Comment: the Revd Thomas MOZLEY (1806-1893) writer of the Oxford movement, married Harriet NEWMAN sister of John Henry NEWMAN vicar S Mary Oxford

(-1845-1846-) vicar Badgworth & Shurdington co Gloucester

(28 Mar 1845) remonstrating parishioners obliged him to leave aside the surplice

when preaching and revert to the use of the preaching gown (Cheltenham Chronicle)

Comment: until the 1840s the preacher over his cassock would put a black gown; Tractarian priests revived the wearing of the surplice by the preacher; thus the white surplice became a red-rag to people suspicious of Ritualism, who might request (as in this instance) the surpliced priest to revert to the use of the gown. By the later 1850s, the gown was not so often to be seen in pulpits. MWB

Comment

a school teacher as well as a priest
The Society for the Maintenance of the Faith a group set up to hold advowsons for parishes vested in them particularly for AngloCatholics; by 2010 the Society held the right of presentation to over eighty livings. By that date there were not enough Catholic priests to staff all the traditionally AngloCatholic parishes; furthermore as many smaller livings united with as many as four or five other parishes, every priest for pastoral reasons was expected to accommodate the preferences of every tradition among these parishes. Catholic loyalties and faith commitments became of secondary concern in the exigencies of this context. MWB

Note: Church Union schemes

many AngloCatholic people were concerned lest the Church be again conflicted as it had been for a decade over the formation of the united church of South India; as a result of that divisive experience their default position was to oppose church union schemes (MWB)

Note: I find it valuable to note that intelligent church voices would be raised even then against honour being given to RHODES the ultra-Imperialist exploiter of African resources and peoples. MWB

11 Dec 1901 conference of the bishop of London on confession and absolution: leaders Lord HALIFAX (Charles L WOOD), Canon BODY DD, VS COLES, Robert C MOBERLY DD Regius professor Pastoral Theology Oxford, H B SWETE DD Regius professor Divinity Cambridge, Canon (1895-1905 of St Albans) the Honourable Edward LYTTELTON [(1905-1916) headmaster of Eton], Fr Richard M BENSON SSJE, and others (411)

Note: Confession and Absolution by the turn of the century was carefully recognised as an integral part of the tradition represented in the Book of Common Prayer; to stabilise the decades of controversy (Catholics for, protestants against) this conference indicates the high-level work to ensure widespread acceptance of the place of sacramental Confession as an available but not compulsory means of grace

[Note on Sarum Use and Western use and patrons

CORNIBEER a Western rite Catholic, was regarded as the leader of the High Church party in Manchester diocese. Sacred Trinity church stood in the tradition known as the Sarum (or English) use. The AngloCatholic Congress enthusiasts tended to disparage this use as British Museum religion, belonging in medieval MSS rather than daily life; they aimed to reach modern times more directly by using contemporary RC traditions.

(1918) on CORNIBEER's leaving Sacred Trinity, the patron Sir Josslyn Augustus Richard GORE-BOOTH 6th baronet (1869-1944) put in C Sausmarez CAREY as parish priest

(1922) E A KNOX the evangelical bishop of Manchester refused to institute C S CAREY into the living; the English Church Union on Sir Josslyn's behalf prosecuted KNOX and the priest whom he had instituted as parish priest at Sacred Trinity. The bishop won.] (422)

1926-1930 commissioned furnishings from Martin TRAVERS for S Matthew Westminster, which by Nov 1965 me judice looked passé. Most of the church was (1977) destroyed in a fire. The rebuild of the core of the church is effective.

at ordination some doubt over 'William' as his second name

21 Dec 1905 deacon Wakefield for York for Bunbury

Note: Sponsors for Ordination

in the Church of England an ordinand was ordained by the appropriate diocesan bishop (or his deputy) for a formally-recognised licensed appointment within his diocese. However if the ordinand was committed to serve in a diocese overseas, that overseas bishop might request another bishop to ordain him in England before he sailed overseas to begin his ordained ministry there.

Thus CRANE was an ordinand for Frederick GOLDSMITH the bishop of Bunbury Western Australia; Bunbury requested the archbishop of York (as metropolitan for the Northern Province of York) to accept the responsibility for the ordination of his candidate in northern England. In this instance the archbishop of York authorised the bishop of Wakefield to ordain CRANE a deacon on his behalf. Then the Revd Ernest CRANE would sail to Western Australia, probably with his passage costs covered by the diocese of Bunbury.

Comment

editor of plainsong for the liturgy; many AngloCatholics promoted the use of plainsong in the liturgy even though it was often not popular with congregations.

The reports in The Times of requiem masses at S Matthew Westminster are detailed, suggesting that church's satisfaction in doing new things while employing ancient precedents - and a wish for the public to know all about it. MWB

(1939) single, housekeeper Florence CARTER single with name DAY written in later

Comment

His AngloCatholic identity appears to have been a shift from the definite Evangelical party line of Ridley Hall Cambridge, of Emmanuel church West Hampstead, and the CCCS which appointed only Evangelicals to the winter and summer chaplaincies in Switzerland. The shift may have occurred when he was based at S Augustine Wembley. In retirement he was preaching at an AngloCatholic church S Matthew West Kensington.

converted to AngloCatholicism by Charles GORE, convinced that an incarnational theology cannot be separated from the human condition, societal problems are structural rather than individual promoted the works of BERDYAEV, Jacques MARITAIN, S KIERKEGAARD among Anglicans together with Maurice RECKITT active with the League of the Kingdom of God, the AngloCatholic Summer schools of sociology, and (1931-1950) the journal 'Christendom', all to encourage and fund research into the application of Christian social thought

01 Nov 1976 (anonymous) obituary for this 'controversial moral theologian' 'a more authoritarian [leader] than would be expected today' 'certainly a man for an era, and perhaps the last man of that era'; 'no doubt thought of himself, as many others saw him, walking the path of the liberal, sensible, middle-of-the-road AngloCatholic' The Times

Note: Irrelevance to modern life of moderate AngloCatholicism and extreme AngloCatholicism

The obituarist accurately indicates the shift across the decades; DEWAR was AngloCatholic but prided himself as not like the AngloPapalist extremists, but as a rational and restrained intelligent priest. But so great were the changes in church life and theology through the century, that in his mature years he had become as irrelevant and outdated as the extremists from whom he had long distinguished himself. His tradition of moderate AngloCatholicism no more than that of the discounted AngloPapalists (or any other single church tradition) could hope to match the changes in scientific learning, moral attitudes, biblical studies, social issues, loss of European empires, embracing of multiple cultures, and world-ranging interests through that twentieth century. the vicar changed the name of the church from All Saints to Our Lady

removed a memorial tablet

replaced the oak tabernacle with a silver tabernacle prepared a scheme for taking out the east window and for decorating the high altar; to which objections the archdeacon admitted he was wrong but the next-of-kin had written him requesting him to remove 'the hideous thing'

and substitute a brass one; the oak tabernacle he had given to Canon Talbot EASTER of Sheffield;

the diocesan Chancellor (HB VAISEY KC) 'Really, Mr Archdeacon, where do you draw the line? You had no business to have the tablet removed from the wall, and I am trying to stop this kind of illegality. No wonder people are unpleasant. You do this work and then ask me to confirm it. You do not even send me a postcard to say it has been done.' (411)

(13 Jul 1935) he wrote to The Times: 'I have never contemplated changing the name of the church from All Saints to Our Lady ... no scheme for taking out the east window or for decorating the high altar. The redecoration of the Holy Cross chapel ... had the unanimous good will of the church council' – DILWORTH-HARRISON writing from Angelès Gazost Haute Pyrenees (411)

[Note: the perpetual curate was in effect the parish priest, but historically a parish priest with more restricted local rights (and income) than a vicar. However from 1868 the term 'vicar' was legally used instead of the term 'perpetual curate'. In the decades covered by this Directory, Crockford accurately and specifically uses the term perpetual curate in benefices where that was the title of the appointed parish priest even though in local custom the priest was known as 'vicar'. The term 'perpetual curate' continued in official use until abolition in 1968. MWB]

[Note: Church Governance. The synodical assemblies of the church of England have their origins in the work of Theodore (668-690) Archbishop of Canterbury; the AngloCatholic revival pressed for their revival so that the Church might have an independent and responsible voice of its own, not subjugated to the secular government; (1919) with the Enabling Act, 'Church of England Assembly (Powers) Act', a degree of self-government was given the Church through the new elective Church Assembly; albeit with powers more consultative than legislative this dual-control by the Church Assembly as well as the revived Convocations of Canterbury and of York was an important change; (1969) the General Synod of the church of England replaced the Church Assembly and subsumed the role and history of the Convocations and formally integrated the laity into the governing of the Church MWB]

Comment

22 Mar 1922 funeral report The Times

Note: Cuddesdon theological college was founded (1854) by Samuel WILBERFORCE bishop of Oxford and amid controversies quickly became marked as an AngloCatholic initiative.

Leeds clergy school was a local initiative (1876) by John GOTT vicar of Leeds to provide a residential course and practical experience of urban ministry in the industrial north of England. It developed a quietly AngloCatholic identity. On merging (1975) with Ripon Hall, it was thus incorporated in the newly-named Ripon College Cuddesdon.

Comment

Perhaps: his mother's death gave him both the large home and enough money to live in it, with his income supplemented by lodgers.

Comment

FERRIER radically re-furnished church S Paul Shadwell with a coped statue of Our Lady, a baroque reredos designed by Martin TRAVERS, including a tabernacle, other statues, and holy water stoups; opponents complained to the bishop of Ripon (Edward Arthur BURROUGHS a protestant) but they were 'non-churchgoing parishioners' and FERRIER and his parochial church council informed BURROUGHS that the bishop had been 'grossly misinformed about the affairs' of the parish, for the people were 'unanimous in upholding the Vicar in his fight for the honour of Our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament'. Comment

FINCH was strongly Catholic; his early death and the total disappearance through social changes and World War 2 of that very AngloCatholic parish and church All Hallows obliterated his legacy and our trail.

13 Jun 1897-1904 assistant (to WH JERVOIS) curate S Mary Magdalene Munster Square diocese London

Mar 1901 residing with William HH JERVOIS the vicarage St Pancras; also JS WILLIMOTT, William H D BAKER

Feb 1902 'Requiem for the soul of our late Sovereign Lady, VICTORIA' with music composed by Fr FRITH, was sung at S Matthew Westminster, 'on the year's mind of her Majesty's obsequies'; service as previous year at S Matthew, with no catafalque this time, but the Russian anthem (Kontakion for the departed from the Kiev tradition, promoted by BIRKBECK) which had been used by order of the late Queen at the funeral of Prince HENRY of BATTENBERG her son-in-law, was conducted by Mr W J BIRKBECK [William John BIRKBECK (1859-1916) devoted knowledge of the Russian Orthodox church, close friend of Lord HALIFAX, married Rose Katherine GURNEY]. The English Church Union initiated the service and the church was over-full; officiating the Revd WHH JERVOIS [S Mary Magdalene Munster Square, member Guild of All Souls], the Revd H C FRITH [as liturgical deacon], the Revd John Starky WILLIMOTT [as liturgical subdeacon, (1908-?death) vicar S Hilda Leeds born 1875 Caerhays Cornwall died 31 Aug 1934 age 59, member Guild of All Souls] in black velvet brocade with red and gold orphreys, vestments lent by the Guild of All Souls, the three cantors directed the choir in black copes; choir of some 30 men sang the plainsong of the mass. The vicar W B TREVELYAN assisted in choir. To oblige in all regards the bishop of London, incense was used but not used to cense persons nor things. The Sarum use and not the Roman use was observed throughout. The Revd J B CROFT at the end played CHOPIN's funeral march. A member of the Protestant alliance exclaimed: "What we have seen this morning, friends, is a blasphemous insult to the memory of Queen VICTORIA" and was marched down the aisle and ejected. Among those present Countess BEAUCHAMP [née Lady Emily PIERREPONT born 1853 died 11 May 1935 member Guild of All Souls daughter of 3rd Earl MANVERS married (1878) Frederick LYGON 6th Earl BEAUCHAMP; the BEAUCHAMPS close friends of Lord HALIFAX; (1870-1891) member council Keble college], Sir George ARTHUR [George Compton Archibald ARTHUR M.V.O 3rd baronet (1860-1946)] (1936-) president of the Royal Martyr Church Union; (19 Dec 1938) with the archbishop of York, the bishops of Chichester, Bradford, Bristol, and the dean of S Paul's London, and DUNCAN-JONES dean of Chichester, Professor H L GOUDGE, the Revd Ralph S EVES [later of S Alban Holborn], Lady Cynthia COLVILLE [born 1884 died 1968, née CREWE-MILNES, DCVO, DBE, FRCM, JP], Dorothy L SAYERS, Dame Sybil THORNDIKE, Sidney DARK [a signatory in the protest against anti-Semitism in Britain], Lord and Lady Edward SPENCER-CHURCHILL [Edward SPENCER-CHURCHILL (born 1853 died 05 May 1911) son of the 6th Duke of MARLBOROUGH, married (1874) Augusta Warburton a member Guild of All Souls], the Bishop of Lebombo [William Edmund SMYTH member Guild of All Souls, SSC], Canon LOWE, Mr George William Erskine RUSSELL [journalist, connected to Fr RUSSELL of S Alban Holborn, and son of Lord Charles RUSSELL], the Revd the Honourable A F A HANBURY-TRACY as vicar of S Barnabas Pimlico and president of the Guild of All Souls (411)

1904-1911 vicar Our Most Holy Redeemer Clerkenwell

(Mar 1911) with Frank Herbert JONES born c1871 York, the Revd Arthur Theodore GREY born c1886 London, residing clergy house Clerkenwell

08 Jul 1911 announced, 'appointed by patrons the Council of Keble College to the vicarage of S Barnabas Oxford vacant by the resignation of the Revd Cyril HALLETT who has joined the Universities Mission to Central Africa' (411)

1911-1916 vice Cyril HALLETT, vicar S Barnabas Jericho city and diocese Oxford (patron Keble college)

04 Aug 1916-1918 vice Robert Alfred John SUCKLING SSC, vicar S Alban Holborn diocese London, patron dean & chapter cathedral S Paul

Comment: 09 Apr 1918 he resigned; celibate priests were in a very few places explicitly preferred to married priests. Thus: when FRITH engaged to be married, felt it due to the traditions of S Alban that he should resign the benefice; as patron the dean and chapter of cathedral S Paul appointed H ROSS vicar of S Bartholomew Brighton to Holborn S Alban (411)

Comment

(1899) probationer SSC (Societas Sanctae Crucis) but not in the chantry roll of the Guild of All Souls – despite that grand requiem for the late Queen, which certainly shows enthusiasm for prayers for the departed

Feb 1902 the requiem for Queen VICTORIA highlights several signs of the upcoming 'advanced' AngloCatholic Congress tradition; the thrusting confidence in promoting the very unfamiliar (and then telling readers of The Times all about it), the full description of elaborate vestments, the use of plainsong for the mass, the use of incense but with the facetiously conscientious assurance that nobody and nothing was censured and the bishop of London thus obeyed; and a marker of the period, the highlighting comment that the Sarum [Salisbury the dominant medieval liturgical rite in England] liturgy was used and not at all the Roman rite. Twenty years on the modern (Tridentine) Roman rite was being used at such AngloCatholic events, with increasingly defiant derision of the 'British Museum religion' sponsored by English-rite AngloCatholics. The parish priest TREVELYAN is noted to be present but not presiding, quietly sitting in choir – was this to save him from direct criticism for going too far on the assumption that if up front he would identify with the occasion completely? It was clever to hook the late Queen into the event by mentioning that she had ordered that this same Russian kontakion for the departed be used for the late Prince Henry of BATTENBERG of Hesse her son-in-law; he had married (23 Jul 1885 S Mildred Whippingham) HRH Princess BEATRICE the youngest child of Queen VICTORIA, he died 20 Jan 1896; their daughter Victoria Eugenie became Queen consort of Spain. The named aristocrats add further interest – were they all friends and associates of the aristocratic Fr HANBURY-TRACY? Certainly several were members of the Guild of All Souls which was sponsoring the solemn requiem for the late Queen. Their presence would add legitimacy to the occasion and social significance. In the context of the era, the protests of the Protestant Alliance (warmly noted by the reporter) are not a surprise. MWB

Comment

Bishop Roscow SHEDDEN may well have had pulling power as a number of junior AngloCatholic clergy followed him to serve in the diocese of Nassau. As a young bishop he epitomised the most advanced AngloCatholic Congress style, for worse and for better.

Note: For parishes of the Episcopal Church of Scotland 'population' information is not provided in Crockford; the Church of Scotland was the established church and pastorally accountable to the nation whereas the Episcopalian Church was a tiny minority with pastoral responsibilities to its own members only MWB

Note: Niall Diarmid CAMPBELL (born 1872 died 1949) 10th and 3rd Duke of Argyll was a seriously devout AngloCatholic; he was the organist at All Saints the little church in Inveraray, and pressed his strong preference for plainsong in the mass; as he played he also sang, in a very high pitched voice; 'he wanted to be a Roman Catholic but his parents would let him so he became extra highchurch instead'.

(pers. comm. Dec 1978. 'Maisie' Mary Macarthur WILBERFOSS née LEMON born 20 Aug 1899 Argyllshire, died 08 Jun 1985 Roseneath Wellington New Zealand – whose heartfelt childhood memories of attending Sunday mass with her family were warm and real to her, such that she strongly hoped the new parish priest at Roseneath S Barnabas would maintain that familiar AngloCatholic tradition (08 Dec 1978- MWB parish priest Roseneath).

For All Saints Inveraray Niall Diarmid CAMPBELL the 10th Duke of Argyll provided Catholic accoutrements and as a memorial to the fallen of World War 1 provided the dominant bell tower.

Comment

After ordination quickly moved from the Evangelicalism of his education and became known as a decided High Churchman of the 'Lux Mundi' [questing rather than closed-mind] school, and later in life as an AngloCatholic, of a liberal and scholarly type; to the end of his days he claimed the capacity to understand and to sympathise with the position of the Evangelicals; (1923) he lacked reading knowledge of German and was anxious about going so late to the important Oxford appointment - which needed German (411)

Comment

The GREATOREX family of Derbyshire was often musical; the most famous musician was this priest's grandfather Thomas GREATOREX, composer the organist and choir master at Westminster abbey.

A WALTER GREATOREX (born 1877 Mansfield co Nottinghamshire died 29 Dec 1949) composed several popular hymn tunes; his father Henry (bank manager) and his grandfather Joseph GREATOREX lived in Derbyshire. His grandfather Joseph was the son of a Thomas GREATOREX but not (as it appears) of Thomas GREATOREX grandfather of the priest, subject of this biography. (MWB)

Comment

1949 W KNOTT & Son (of Brook Street Holborn, beside S Alban Holborn) published a Guide to S Cuthbert's church Philbeach Gardens; this AngloCatholic publisher supplied a small market with AngloCatholic liturgical texts particularly (from 1912) the English Missal (full altar edition 1933), Ritual Notes, Catholic Prayers for Church of England People, and (1955) the English Catholic Hymnbook. They were the publishers of material for the 1st AngloCatholic Congress. The liturgical revisions and reforms from the 1960s had such an impact that these Tudor and faux-Tudor (and latin) texts have little value but for some retain interest.

Comment on Patronage

The old haphazard Patronage system of the Church of England may be a surprise to more recent Anglicans who when looking for a new parish priest have their own parish nominators, who meet with the diocesan nominators, who work under the authority of their bishop, who together nominate a priest to their bishop for appointment.

Until the mid-twentieth century, an extremely varied system of patronage had meant that private patrons commonly held the power and responsibility to appoint parish priests particularly in rural areas. Their ownership of the advowson, this legal right, was often historically related to their role as landowners and squires or aristocracy.

Over the centuries some personal patrons had given their advowson – patronage rights - to their old Oxbridge university college; thus a university college could in its turn as a corporate patron appoint its old students to parishes.

During the nineteenth century, Evangelical power-groups bought up large numbers of parish advowsons, to ensure the maintenance of Protestant traditions against the risk of a highchurch priest moving in and disturbing the status quo. Resentful of this grabbing of power, AngloCatholic party groups came into the fray, a bit late to collect many, but enough to annoy the protestant party groups.

A number of cathedrals held patronage powers, and thus 'dean & chapter' often feature as patron. In a smaller number (through its Lord Chancellor) the Crown as patron has appointed priests.

Throughout this Directory Christine and I note the patronage under which a priest had been appointed. It is not necessarily obvious that a highchurch patron would find and present to the bishop for his appointment a highchurch or AngloCatholic priest – where it is obvious to us, we indicate it, for it did happen. Certainly it is a fascinating reminder of how until the modern period the structures of civil and religious society were woven together. Patronage reforms were right in principle yet it might be observed that the result reminds that church and society have moved apart as traditional community leadership lost interest in church membership and such local responsibilities as parish patronage involved.

After World War 1, we have noticed in our research, increasingly parishes were now under the patronage of the bishop of the diocese.

Why? From the mid-nineteenth century the population drift to industrial cities had meant the dominant importance of urban populations and the waning significance of rural traditional inherited powers. For the new parishes, some new churches were built by central diocesan sponsorship, or with government-assistance, or by local business interests and private wealthy churchmembers; by this time the diocesan authorities often now were ready to take up the patronage responsibility; quite often the new parishes set up local trusts. Though the rate and style of changes varied the process was steady: patronage became increasingly centralised to the bishop and the diocesan office.

The Revd Thomas HANCOCK, father of Aidan, is the only person whom we have come across whose hostility to the old patronage system was explicit. He took the consequences of his principles: no parish appointment for him. Thomas might have posthumous satisfaction in recognising that reforms gradually and constantly centralised the patronage into diocesan appointment boards, such that his own descendants (for instance in New Zealand) were priests who knew only this accountable diocesan patronage board working with direct representation from the local parishioners. And then those who appointed had to participate in funding the stipends for their priests.

A search ('patron', 'patronage', 'BLENCOWE, CHARLES EDWARD', 'BUTLER, HENRY DOBREE', DAY, GEORGE STANLEY') through this Directory brings up not only details about the patrons but also our comments on particular interesting circumstances or people. MWB

 As compilers we often record the income of the parish in this directory. While all agree that many rural livings were too poor to provide an adequate stipend, this is the first time I have seen a specific complaint of a parish priest recorded.

Note: (1924-1926) HANKEY was president of the Guild of All Souls in England; the chantry society founded 1873, later (1965) built its own chantry chapel in the grounds of the shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham Norfolk. The chantry chapel's foundation stone was laid by Robert MORTIMER bishop of Exeter, and the chapel designed by Laurence KING was consecrated (13 Oct 1965) by William BRADY bishop of Fond du Lac in the Episcopal church of the USA. Fr Walter HUM SSC formerly vicar All Souls Leeds was their first chantry priest, who had responsibility for the daily requiem mass. For the Guild of All Souls I did say the daily requiem mass there one time when on pilgrimage to Walsingham in 1970. MWB

Apr 1934-death in plurality by dispensation of the archbishop of York, also perpetual curate Foremark, patron the bishop by lapse, stipend £60 population 153 (411)

Note on Pluralism:

HARCOMBE provides an interesting example of modern pluralism. The express formal dispensation by the archbishop of York was required to enable him the priest of Melbourne to take on this second parish, Foremark with (1923) annual stipend £60 and population 153. One priest two parishes two stipends: this was 'pluralism'.

Church reforms during the nineteenth century worked against 'plurality', the system by which a priest might hold several (a plurality) clerical appointments or livings; pluralism had been a way for ambitious priests to accumulate a higher income by collecting as many livings as they could. This abuse was attacked as scandalous: senior priests became wealthy with a minimum of pastoral attention to their lesser appointments and they put a poorly-paid curate to do the routine parish work.

Church legal reforms brought greater equality between stipends and as the uniting of benefices no longer brought incremental wealth to the priest, one scandal was removed. Through the twentieth century the small population and small stipend of many rural livings quietly meant pluralism was creeping back, nicely now under the term the 'uniting of benefices'.

By the end of the twentieth century, few smaller parishes were still standing alone. The distancing of the stretched priest from local pastoral involvement was the inevitable new scandal. MWB

These 21 parish priests insisted that as Catholics they had not only every right but a pastoral responsibility to use a monstrance and incense and tabernacle (set on the high altar) to honour the Real Presence of Christ in the Blessed Sacrament. No bishop in the Church of England in 1929 would agree with them. The fight was on.

1932 The Elements of the Spiritual Life

1940 The Mystery of the Cross

04 Nov 1958 obituary; and a substantial tribute from Sir John BETJEMAN: HARTON was 'a staunch Catholic but did not believe in putting country people off with too much ritual'; 'impressive carving of the Crucifixion put up on the north transept to catch the eye of the crowds who come in summer to watch the knights jousting when the clock strikes' (411)

07 Nov 1958 further tribute, by T S ELIOT, emphasising the 'particular combination of scholarship with a deep understanding of ascetic theology and of the spiritual life which is found in his writings. We owe him a debt of gratitude for The Elements of the Spiritual Life and it is greatly to be regretted that he did not live to complete the study of the work of Richard of Saint Victor with which he was occupied at the time of his death' (411)

Comment: from 1964 until 1966, he had two wives and according to the firm principles of that era, this was unacceptable for a priest.
This lapse certainly would have closed his stipended ministry – but he had dropped out from licensed ministry in the earlier 1930s.

Comment

He was an old man when he attended the AngloCatholic Priests' Convention, and died two months later.

HOLE on appointment to Plympton S Maurice began to renew the fabric on Catholic principles; included in the complete restoration of the church is (1895) a stone statue of S Thomas set in a niche above the external porch door. Also the Crucifixion in bas-relief on the tombstone is certainly notable. (online information Jan 2017)

Comment

c1918 author a commentary on the Epistle to the Hebrews (11 Jun 1918 The Times)

Note: The Oxford Mission to Calcutta (OMC)

(1879) founded in response to request from Ralph JOHNSON the bishop of Calcutta for help from Oxford graduates to work among educated people in the city; with the backing of Edward KING (later bishop of Lincoln) and a Rule of Life drawn up by Charles GORE founder of CR (Mirfield)

(1880) the first Brothers went to Calcutta near the university. Within a generation Brothers of this Order of the Epiphany were also in a neglected group of village Christians east of Calcutta, and (1902) a Sisterhood of the Epiphany was formed at Barisal.

Important names were Fr STRONG, and Fr DOUGLASS; who headed further branch houses in Behala and at Jobarpar. The work continues but the Brotherhood was extinct from the later twentieth century. (Father George LONGRIDGE SSJE wrote the standard history of the Oxford Mission to Calcutta early on.) (online information Feb 2017)

09 Sep 1961 obituary The Times

Comment Anglican vestments

BROWNE is the only one in this directory whose vestments were mentioned in The Times; others will certainly have had fine work but that did not reach the newspaper. Anglican needlework ('Opus Anglicanum') in the medieval period was a wonder; the religious sisters and embroidery guilds in the nineteenth century and most of the twentieth century again did wondrous fine work. In New Zealand Sister Annette CSN (an Anglican religious of the Community of Sacred Name) continued that tradition with other Sisters in their Community and with help from lay assistants.

Note on CR Mirfield and its liturgical usage

The South African Prayer Book was similar to the so-called 'deposited' book, the revised Book of Common Prayer rejected by the British parliament in 1928; the mass rite from the South African book was used by the Community of the Resurrection at Mirfield in Yorkshire. In doing so the Community was behaving illegally. Yet they might argue they were using a book authorised by another province of the Anglican communion, one in which they had been working a long time.

However the Revd Gordon DUNSTAN CBE (professor of ethics King's College London) in his sermon at the Commemoration day mass at Mirfield in c1968, publicly rebuked CR for their use at Mirfield of the South African rite: they were (he told us firmly) in effect encouraging lawlessness amongst students at their College – he had been one – for under canon law the liturgy must be that lawfully authorised by the Church Province of which one is a member.

To apply his judgement consistently across the range of Catholic liturgical options would mean that in England the South African prayer book was exactly as legal as the English Missal: which is to say, not at all.

To put this another way: when all mass rites but one are illegal, then the people may as well choose the preferred illegal rite (eg the English Missal) and be happy albeit be damned by Gordon DUNSTAN CBE. (MWB)

Comment

his first curacies suggest he was Evangelical and as S Michael Camden Town was AngloCatholic probably changed to AngloCatholic after World War 1; the tributes in the parish history of S Saviour St Albans might be taken to imply he was not an 'alpha male' MWB

JELICOE, John Basil Lee

born 05 Feb 1899 Chailey co Sussex

died 24 Aug 1935 age 36 of pneumonia, at a nursing home Moorcroft Hillingdon co Middlesex 'Requiescat in pace'

28 Aug 1935, funeral Chailey parish church, with the bishop of Dover [Alfred ROSE], and the Revd Halbert Johnston BOYD [S Paul S Leonards-on-Sea], the Revd Herbert Henry MATRAVERS [(1897-1923-) curate Chailey diocese Chichester]

the choirboys of S Mary of the Angels song school under MORSE-BOYCOTT; among present, uncles the Revd Arthur Hamilton BOYD [rector Slaugham diocese Chichester] and the Revd Halbert J BOYD; and the Revd John Cuthbert NANKIVELL for the Isle of Dogs Housing Society, the Revd N G POWELL for S Michael's Housing society Penzance, Mr Donald G PELLY for St Richard Housing Society; the Revd C Parkinson SHAW for the Church Union Housing association, the Revd Percy MARYON-WILSON with the Revd Lorimer REECE for the Magdalen college Mission; the Revd Hampden THOMPSON, Canon H L PASS for Chichester cathedral and many more named

28 Aug 1935, 'solemn requiem for the repose of the soul of the Revd Basil JELICOE', at S Mary the Virgin Somers Town, celebrant Percy MARYON WILSON, with the Revd H L O REES, and the Revd T[homas] M PARKER; among present, the Revd Langtry WILLIAMS (New York), the Revd Eric BAILEY (All Saints Margaret Street), the Revd Adam FOX (for Magdalen college Oxford), the Revd Nigel SCOTT (for St Pancras House Improvement Society), Brother Kenneth B.S.F.A. [Anglican religious, Brotherhood S Francis of Assisi], Fr BIGGART CR and many more names

28 Aug 1935, 'special remembrance of and thanksgiving for the life and work of the Revd Basil JELICOE will be made at the choral celebration of Holy Communion' at S Martin-in-the-Fields

Comment: the careful language shows that the tradition of S Martin-in-the-Fields was middle and thus no match in tone or language to the advanced AngloCatholic 'solemn requiem' celebrated at S Mary Bourne Street; however the ministry of JELICOE reached very wide and deep and his loss was greatly felt MWB

obituary, 'in politics a liberal Conservative, in party-theology an AngloCatholic: who owes in both capacities an immense amount to Cambridge' (4) – as he was from a lowchurch background and went with the lowchurch CMS as a missionary to India, this AngloCatholic influence of Cambridge appears to have been delayed (MWB)

EXCURSUS on the use of the English Missal, and the rise of modern alternatives as shown in the columns of The Times

1912 KENRICK with his wife (a good latin scholar) compiler and translator The English Missal 1st edition published 1912 by W Knott & Son;
this missal offered the user both the full Roman rite (translated from latin into a faux Tudor English, largely by Agnes KENRICK) and the full Book of Common Prayer (BCP) mass rite.

At the altar the advanced AngloCatholic was able to diminish use of the Anglican Prayer Book and follow more of the Roman rite. If complaints were made about the contents of the altar book, the priest could truthfully say that all the Anglican eucharistic rite of the Book of Common Prayer was published and available there in the English Missal. As the canon of the mass and other prayers were said sotto voce by the celebrant, the suspicious might well not notice more than distant muttering. Viscount HALIFAX was one.

1922 the diocesan chancellor ordered the removal of The English Missal from S Magnus the Martyr London Bridge

[Note: for a full report on Consistory court case see FYNES-CLINTON entry in our directory at http://anglicanhistory.org/england/congresses/blain_hickton2015.pdf]

02 Oct 1924 the Revd W Fowell SWANN on his retirement from the secretaryship of the Church of England Waifs and Strays Society was presented with a handsomely-bound copy of KENRICK's English Missal and a portable typewriter (411)

09 Jan 1934 report of a protest by Lord Hugh CECIL about illegality at the Liverpool cathedral; in his remonstrance against Bishop DAVID CECIL noted that 'self-willed lawlessness is already prevalent far and wide. I was present myself at a service where ... the English Missal was substituted for the Prayer Book and ... a Corpus Christi procession followed the service.' While Lord Hugh CECIL deplored this illegal behaviour as well, he the more deplored that in DAVID's diocese AngloCatholic clergy had been excluded from the fellowship of the diocese because they did not obey the bishop of Liverpool about Permanent Reservation and Benediction; so then why was the dean of Liverpool not bound when the diocesan AngloCatholic clergy were bound? CECIL wanted a full enquiry, to ensure even-handedness.

Comment: the dominant tradition in the diocese of Liverpool and specifically in the cathedral was evangelical and low. Thus the vehemence of Lord Hugh's protest to DAVID (a protestant) about his partiality: protestant illegalities were ignored, AngloCatholic illegalities were disciplined. MWB

05 Dec 1952 BLUNT bishop of Bradford, urged caution in attempts to modernize the Prayer Book; '... some of the variations stem from a book which, with huge presumption, though it has no authority whatever, calls itself The English Missal'.. He spoke of this as mutilation, and noted that loyalty to 'our Prayer-book' was required still of clergy; experiments were not disloyal but such adulterations or mutilations were disloyal. However he closed, 'Few would assert that the Prayer-book is beyond any possibility of improvement'. (411)

Note: BLUNT was a 'Prayer-book Catholic' and like many such, the more hostile to the English Missal increasingly in use in the tradition of AngloCatholic Congress churches. Prayer-book Catholics saw the English Missal as betraying the natural Catholic identity of the Church of England by rejecting the BCP as too protestant (MWB)

07 Sep 1959 the Revd R A E HARRIS complained about being sacked by the bishop of Southwark (Mervyn STOCKWOOD); 'I am doing my very best to bring the Church of England back into reunion with the Holy See. I would like to see the Church of England back under the authority of the Pope.' Banned from taking services in the diocese of Southwark, HARRIS attended S John Balham (diocese Southwark); at home he read vespers and compline from the Roman breviary – 'I have this book for my own private use and there are hundreds of Church of England priests who say the same Latin office as I do for private piety from the breviary.' Since his coming to S Andrew's mission church Carshalton 33 years back he explained that he had on the altar the English Missal which included English translations from the latin-language Roman missal, for (as he explained) the Roman mass 'was so simple and streamlined'

30 Sep 1983 correspondent Ian BECKWITH director of the Centre for the Study of Rural Society: voiced awareness of issues about the groupings of rural parishes for a leaner and fitter church, he was concerned that the priests were becoming leaner but not necessarily fitter in the effort to manage 6, 10, even 17 separate churches and to ensure that the worship needs of each were catered for in the form preferred – which by that date could mean the Book of Common Prayer, Series 2, Series 3, ASB (A or B) [Alternative Services Book] and indeed the English Missal : and just which priest could oblige all preferences and why should any priest be pressed to do so? (411)

08 Oct 1983 editorial in The Times: reminding that every page of the BCP, the Alternative Services Book, the English Missal, the Methodist Prayer book had to struggle with the sexist imagery and gender imbalance in liturgical and biblical texts: these problems had not been addressed at all despite the range of revised options for the mass rite

26 Apr 2004 an obituarist for the Revd Peter BLAGDON-GAMLEN (born 05 Jan 1920 died 03 Mar 2004) noted: 'Although a convinced 'papalist' in his approach, as the changes of Vatican II unfolded he remained attached to an older way of doing things. The English Missal and (to a lesser extent) the Prayer-book 'remained his staple fare.' (411)

Personal comment (05 Aug 1970) on the feast of Our Lady of the Snows I saw him in Santa Maria Maggiore in Rome in great ecstasy as he dashed to embrace the flower-petals thrown from the ceiling of the Lady chapel; his soutane was girdled with the green cincture marking his membership of the Order of the Holy Thistle. (MWB)

30 Jun 2007 contributing to debate about the English version of traditional prayers, and the laments of traditional RCs, the Revd Canon Alan WILKINSON wrote that those who wanted more latin should go to the eucharist in Anglican cathedrals and they would quickly feel at home as 'the modern Anglican Eucharist is almost identical in structure and language with the modern RC mass' (411)

In sum: the liturgical reforms of the 1960s and their dissemination through the 1970s made it very difficult both to follow the lead of Rome and persist with this Tridentine English Missal which used the texts of the Pian missal (1604). On principle as part of the western church, the Western rite Catholics had to follow the Vatican reforms. Meanwhile the Anglican reforms were also converging with the RC reforms and an accommodation between the two modern-language rites (Church of England and Roman Catholic) was not so difficult to manage within the bounds of Anglican rubrical guidance or tolerance. The Times also lists as present the Archbishop of the West Indies (Enos NUTTALL), the Bishop of Rochester (Edward TALBOT), Stepney (Arthur WINNINGTON-INGRAM), Sierra Leone (TAYLOR-SMITH), Bishop JOHNSON, Bishop MYLNE, Bishop ROYSTON (Peter Sorenson (1872-

1891) bishop of Mauritius, Bishop HORNBY (Wilfrid (1892-1894) late bishop of Nyasaland, (1904-1919) later bishop of Nassau); Canon Charles GORE the preacher; Henry WHITEHEAD [brother to philosopher Alfred North WHITEHEAD, father to mathematician J H C WHITEHEAD] was

ordained bishop for Madras, and William George PEEL for Mombasa

Comment: for the consecration of a bishop, those bishops closest to him from university and in churchmanship would try to attend and participate in the laying-on-of-hands. With three ordinands for this consecration the range of consecrating bishops includes men from a matching variety of churchmanship. Most obvious is TAYLOR-SMITH who as a markedly Protestant prelate would not be eager to turn up for an AngloCatholic like KING, but he would be there for the CMS-sponsored PEEL bishop for Mombasa.
