OGS (Oratory of the Good Shepherd) <http://anglicanhistory.org/misc/ogs.html>

active with the Society of SS Peter & Paul publishers

May 1926 Catholic and Critical: by members of the Anglican Communion, edited by the Revd E G SELWYN [Edward Gordon SELWYN liberal AngloCatholic scholar, son of Edward Carus SELWYN], and included contributions from Dr E J BICKNELL, Sir Edwyn C HOSKYNS, Dr A E J RAWLINSON, Professor A E TAYLOR, Professor A HAMILTON-THOMPSON, J K MOZLEY, Kenneth Escott KIRK and the Revd Wilfred J KNOX - (12 Jun 1959, anonymous obituarist for Edward Gordon SELWYN DD dean of Winchester) about this book: 'It was the period of the early AngloCatholic Congresses and of the controversies about Prayer Book revision. SELWYN sought to develop an apologetic for Anglicanism which was both critical and Catholic, and a practical policy which was fully sacramental without being merely Romanizing [= repeating RC opinions]... The essayists included many of the ablest scholars in the AngloCatholic tradition... it has made an enduring impact on successive generations of the clergy' (411)

Comment on H A J LAWSON and Conflicts

From the 1870s, Ritualist clergy often encountered opposition on their introduction of unfamiliar customs to services. Under the law of Great Britain the courts convicted half a dozen who were sentenced to prison for their loyalty to Catholic principle (their view) or for breaking the civil law of Britain – the court decision.

Two generations on, these priests had become legendary heroes, and their heroic aura extended to the many more priests who had served with devout intensity in the slums of industrial England.

LAWSON was clearly identifying himself with them and wished to be a Catholic martyr for his generation. The local newspapers give insight into his approach to self-martyrdom.

(1926) LAWSON wrote letters to three parishioners who attended a weekday service held by a lay preacher in a private house, telling them that they had committed a deadly sin and they were not to return to church until they acknowledged their mistake. If they did return they would not go back into the choir. The following Sunday at mass there were three servers (two being children), a choir of two women, a man, one girl and two children, and in the congregation two reporters, a visitor from Redditch, a woman from a distant parish and five children.

(Easter annual vestry meeting 1931) LAWSON announced that the churchwardens would be elected under old canon law where parishioners and rector elect the wardens jointly. Names were put up and the first was not elected as he only received three votes. The next was put up and elected. The rector then said he was going to appoint the other as his churchwarden. The rural dean [a local parish priest with pastoral care for a cluster of local parishes] had been ordered out of the room, but only got as far as the door when he found the rector had not dealt as he had stated he would do; he returned and told LAWSON what he thought of him, allegedly calling him a scoundrel. The rector called a policeman to the room, closed the meeting and asked the parishioners to leave.

Mr BRAGG the sacristan joined in, urging people to get out. He walked up to Mr FIFORD and said 'You get out of here'; Mr FIFORD said 'I am going and you'd better go too and get home to your wife.' Mr BRAGG then struck him with a blow so hard that he knocked against an old lady and knocked her down.

The rural dean made clear that LAWSON was a scoundrel for the way he was carrying on the meeting. Feeling was running high because the rector had let the meeting down in a very illegal and unfair way.

(1939) during discussion to unite the parishes of Rous Lench and Abbot's Morton, it was noted that of a population of 133 only 6 people attended services at Abbot's Morton; for instance at the 8.30 service there was one parishioner and one stranger, and at 1100 there were two parishioners and two who were on the electoral roll but did not live in the parish.

(Aug 1939) at the wedding of Miss Gertrude UPSTONE and Mr William MILLER at S Mary Reading, amongst the list of household items received by the couple as gifts was a picture of the Sistine Madonna from the Revd H A J LAWSON

(1939) the local newspaper has a photograph of LAWSON, noting that he states he was AngloCatholic and had been in dispute with some of his parishioners who were not like-minded, for twenty years. He was living in the school house with oil and paraffin the only means of cooking and lighting, and without water supply. [The living did have a house when he was appointed.] He brought an action against the parishioners for control of certain funds, and after losing he said he would go to gaol rather than pay the £80 costs.

Closing comment: under the ancient rights of parish clergy, known as Parson's Freehold, as legal rector LAWSON could not easily be removed from office. However he held no further livings and seems not to have gone to gaol.

Comment

1922 Keynotes of the Catholic Faith, selected from the diary and letters of J.A. Le Couteur compiled by A. L. (260 pp)

Note Le COUTEUR's time was busy at S Columba Kingsland Road.

(1969) its terminus was at hand; I noticed dandelions in a glass pot before the major shrine of Our Lady. The adjoining vast brick buildings for presbytery and parish school were showing major neglect.

(1975) the church was declared redundant by the diocese of London on the union of the parish with the parish S Anne Hoxton;

(1980s-2020-) the building was in use by the Christ Apostolic (Bethel) church. MWB

Note: 23 Dec 1929, The Times published correspondence to go with the last statement from the bishop of Birmingham. Bishop BARNES reminded the press that he had banned Benediction, Exposition, Devotions, Processions of the Host because they imply erroneous doctrine akin to Transubstantiation. He did not wish to take priests to court for disobeying him but would continue to discipline them by their oath of obedience to him in 'all things lawful and honest'. However at S Aidan's the trustees (Dr J NOTLEY, Canon C N LONG, the Revd J J AGAR-ELLIS, Mr S R SHORE and the Bishop of Truro) proposed to go to law to challenge his right to make such demands as they believed these demands of BARNES to be neither lawful nor honest.

The story is bound up with the rights of patrons of a parish; is complex and drawn-out, but can be followed through the statements letters and protests printed with BARNES' letter in (411) MWB

Comment

1934 the AngloCatholic Congress movement combined with the older English Church Union; it is of interest that MACKENZIE was a leader in both, and a reminder how quickly the separate lines of the two AngloCatholic interest groups were able to merge. This was in fact necessary as the ECU was tired; Lord HALIFAX realised its day was over and that the new younger leadership, particularly Maurice CHILD, of the AngloCatholic Congress movement showed more life and that should be accepted.

09 Nov 1932 obituary The Times
(10 Dec 1932) announced, his successor Noel Thomas HOPKINS

minor canon, sacrist, junior cardinal at the cathedral S Paul London (411)
(10 Nov 1934) a Lady chapel had been recently made in the south choir aisle of Wakefield cathedral where in the old parish church had been the Lady chapel, and now the 'English' altar was a memorial to MACLEOD – this suggests the design would be a long altar with curtains behind and at the sides sustained by carved riddle posts, and with a crucifix and two candles on the altar table, certainly not six which was AngloCatholic Congress preference, and thus not the 'English' or Sarum preference.
(24 Sep 1936) marriage at S Matthias Earls Court London of Raleigh Ashlin SKELTON of Deyncourt Gardens Upminster Essex and Mary Katherine MacLEOD elder daughter of the late Canon and his wife of Horbury Wakefield; the officiants G Napier WHITTINGHAM the Revd T G COMBER (411)

Note the original order of religious sisters of ss Mary and John were nurses and were associated with Florence Nightingale. The convent and hospital for the aged and infirm was built in Chiswick in 1891. This would be the Order of S Mary and S John at the hospital in Ball Street Kensington. It seems to be one of a cluster of small church-based hospitals which became nationalised. As we have seen in other instances, the original Order fades out or is replaced with another one to do the same work. Maybe the death of Mother Frances in 1909 brought the change, as from 1910 Sisters of the Society of S Margaret took over the work in Chiswick and continue there today. The Society of S Margaret was founded 1855 by J M NEALE at East Grinstead.

member SSC (Society of the Holy Cross)

(1919-1955) he was chaplain to the Sisters of S Margaret at their S Saviour's Priory 18 Queensbridge Road Shoreditch E2 London, with his own pied-a-terre adjacent to the convent (successor NP STURT)

The Society of Retreat Conductors founded 1924; 13 000 attended a paper on Retreats at the 1st AngloCatholic Congress and interest grew fast. The Revd Herbert MATHER chaplain to the sisters at S Saviour's priory Haggerston was joined by Fr WYATT and Fr BACON at 161 Tufnell Park Road as a base community in the style of the Oratorians to provide retreats.

<http://thesrc.org.uk/index.php/history/>

The SRC particularly promoted Ignatian retreats. Its management was not strong enough to save it from declining interest. To me in 1970 N
P STURT lamented that the SSJE (Cowley Fathers Angdlican religious) no longer had members competent in Ignatian retreats; but the problems for SRC were more and deeper than a purported lack of Ignatian retreat conductors.

Jul 1921 member 1st AngloCatholic Priests' Convention Oxford
1925-1957- vicar S Michael Tividale Tipton

(16 Aug 1929) reported he had withdrawn acceptance of the benefice of S Aidan Leeds (patron, the vicar of Leeds) because of the demands made by the bishop: the bishop of Ripon (E A BURROUGHS) had said he would not license MATTHEWS as the vicar of S Aidan unless MATTHEWS made promises about his liturgical practice, that he would accept the limits of the 1928 Prayerbook; MATTHEWS objected that BURROUGHS was making demands beyond his powers and refused to obey (411)

Comment: Once the matter became public knowledge and he was challenged, BURROUGHS quibbled about the actual words he had used against MATTHEWS, and their meaning; but MATTHEWS did not go to S Aidan Leeds.

He explicitly would not oblige the bishop by promising to stop doing whatever he was doing (what exactly? It is not stated in The Times) and instead restrict himself to use of the 1928 mass rite.

The mass rite in the revised Book of Common Prayer (rejected by the House of Commons in 1928) became known as the 'interim' rite. The latin word means 'for the time being', (ie until something better was authorised) and that term was used by N P WILLIAMS in his book (1928) For the Present Distress: a suggestion for an Interim Rite

See anglicanhistory.org/england/npwilliams/interim1928.html

It was formulated to allow some flexibility beyond the rite of 1662 in the Book of Common Prayer. It did satisfy moderate AngloCatholic people and moderate bishops who wanted unity in their dioceses. BURROUGHS was one such moderate, who then sought to impose unity on wayward AngloCatholics. Such as MATTHEWS.

However 'Real Catholics' (self-styled) found the revised rite inadequate and resented it now becoming a new disciplining tool against them. They made it a point of honour to ignore the carefully flexible provisions of the 1928 Prayerbook. The outré confidence engendered by the AngloCatholic Congress movement gave a boost to their tribal loyalty in using instead the English Missal. This stand-off continued for decades until the 1960s' liturgical reforms brought a confluence of traditions. MWB

[Note by Feb 1924 a candidate for assistant-bishop Melanesia CLAYTON had been nominated, had accepted and then, on grounds of frail health, declined appointment: (see correspondence, archives Honiara Solomon islands)]

14 Jul 1924 Arthur Edward CORNER commissary (UK) for Melanesian mission, with support of his committee bishop of Rochester (HARMER previously Adelaide), bishop of Salisbury (DONALDSON previously Brisbane), and an Archdeacon WILLIAMS (for New Zealand), recommended MOLYNEUX to the New Zealand bishops for appointment, and to STEWARD for his acceptance - which latter came, but slowly

Apr 1925 presented at High Wycombe by the bishop of Oxford with a pastoral staff, a set of Holy Communion vessels, cheque for over £50

11 Jun 1925 dismissal service S Martin-in-the-Fields before departing for Melanesia (411)

Aug 1925 assistant bishop Melanesia with responsibilities for the New Hebrides [Vanuatu], based Lolowai in Aoba [Opa, Ambae] - but as Bishop STEWARD was frail after cancer operations MOLYNEUX's duties became primarily as the assistant to the bishop of the diocese Melanesia and any sense of a regional responsibility was lost (MWB from reading 261)

http://Anglicanhistory.org/oceania/blain_mandated_territory.pdf

Nov 1925 on MV SOUTHERN CROSS with JM STEWARD bishop of Melanesia, who was in poor health, pastoral visit to Rabaul (FR BISHOP priest resident) New Britain: the Melanesian Mission had accepted responsibility for this Mandated Territory (on behalf of the church of Australia which was to provide funds and a bishop) (261)

Jul 1926 arrived Auckland New Zealand:

Aug 1926 a presenter at the provincial event, 'East and West' missionary exhibition Auckland

01 Apr 1927 wrote his official letter from Lolowai Bay, New Hebrides [Vanuatu] (261)

12 Mar 1928 with Canon EN WILTON arrived for general synod Auckland SOUTHERN CROSS (261)

19 Apr 1928-01 May 1928 MOLYNEUX and the Revd GK MOIR were the clerical representatives at 24th general synod in Wellington

04 May 1928 departed Auckland MV SOUTHERN CROSS V: MOLYNEUX, with Dr MAYBURY, Canon EN WILTON, the Revd LE CARTRIDGE, the Revd GF LEGGATT, Mr D Lloyd FRANCIS [later a priest], Miss FOX, Miss May SCOTT [parishioner of Christchurch S Michael & All Angels - I recall her at mass in a red beret and beige clothes c1960, a nervous gentle person MWB], Miss BROUGHTON: WILTON to visit the diocese Melanesia, attend (30 Jun 1928) diocesan synod at Siota, proceed to Sydney for consecration as bishop, and finally proceed to the Mandated Territory of the diocese as bishop-assistant to the bishop of Melanesia (261)

Jun 1928 at Siota presided synod of diocese Melanesia: (after withdrawing a pamphlet in which he recommended invocation of the saints) received unanimous nomination to be proposed to the bishops of New Zealand for appointment as next bishop of Melanesia (vice JM STEWARD) - three bishops were present at the synod: JM STEWARD bishop of Melanesia, and assistant-bishop WILTON and assistant-bishop MOLYNEUX (261)

13 Jun 1928 diocesan synod unanimously chose him to succeed JM STEWARD as bishop of Melanesia

16 Aug 1928 after unanimous nomination by the Melanesian synod elected bishop of Melanesia by the bishops of New Zealand (412)

13 Nov 1928 enthronement as bishop of Melanesia in Siota

14 Feb 1929 arrived two anglican religious Sister Margaret and Sister Gwen BSc (London) after experience in India the incipient community of religious for work at Siota in the diocese of Melanesia (261)

early 1930 ill, cancelled visit to New Britain; operation in New Zealand before going directly to England:

1930 attended and addressed the Lambeth Conference of Anglican bishops

24 Jun 1930 attended the annual meeting of the English committee of the Melanesian Mission; also present was Gerald SHARP archbishop of Brisbane (formerly of New Guinea)

08 Oct 1930 wrote to LANG abp of Canterbury asking for a young candidate as assistant bishop to have charge of New Hebrides archdeaconry; LANG enquired of AE CORNER, general secretary of the Melanesian Mission, who urged two assistant bishops, noting 'disastrous' appointment of EN WILTON, and hoping WH BADDELEY vicar South Bank Yorkshire might go - who declined appointment as assistant to MOLYNEUX (280)

11 Dec 1930 letter to raise funds for the new MV SOUTHERN CROSS (411)

NOTE MV SOUTHERN CROSS V was in need of expensive maintenance; under pressure from the New Zealand church it was sold and two smaller vessels planned, and neither of which would continue the extravagance of voyages regularly to Auckland New Zealand (261, and minutes of general synods New Zealand)

Jun 1931 conference of the Northern staff [not including New Hebrides], at Siota Solomons islands

1931 pastoral visitation Rabaul, New Britain (Mandated Territory) diocese Melanesia (412)

Jun 1931 conference of Northern region staff at Siota - priests in this region included FR BISHOP, VG SHERWIN, LE CARTRIDGE, and layman ELDRIDGE (at Arawe) [ELDRIDGE left before Apr 1934, and H THOMPSON and McLEOD would come to where he had been (BADDELEY in 261)]

Nov 1931 resigned with 'complete nervous breakdown' (69)

which was the euphemism to avoid stating the concern about his erotic involvements (with local men and two Englishmen visiting on the SOUTHERN CROSS), particularly as detailed in a specific log of his sexual activities by the captain of the MV SOUTHERN CROSS V)

01 Jan 1932 p4 Southern Cross Log, reference to serious illness of Bishop MOLYNEUX - a shock, his resignation impending (261)

22 Jan 1932 arrived in England for a prolonged rest The Times

Apr 1932 had vacated see, departed Solomon islands, with D E GRAVES administrator sede vacante (202;280;403)

Comment

'a firm churchman of authoritarian personality who attracted and repelled according to taste, but a strong and effective teacher, preacher, spiritual director' (diocesan and parish website accessed 28 Mar 2017)

As bishop of Monmouth permitted Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, and encouraged AngloCatholic tradition across the diocese compiler (1935) The Churchpeople's Prayer Book based on the 1928 Prayer Book and used widely in the Church in Wales

Photographs show him robed (like Percy DEARMER promoter of the Sarum Rite) in a double-breasted cassock known as a 'Sarum' cassock, and a 'Canterbury cap' a soft cloth cap related to the beret and biretta; these self-imaged him as a moderate AngloCatholic priest of the Sarum (or English) tradition, and distinct from the Romanising AngloCatholic priest who would intentionally be photographed in single-breasted cassock (soutane, with many buttons maybe 39) and biretta (a later European version of that medieval English cap)

Comment

c1903 in response to what was seen as a serious decline in number of candidates for Holy Orders, a private scheme for training ordinands had been begun at Hooton Pagnell nr Doncaster by the Revd F S WILLOUGHBY; a generous interest was taken in it by Howard Douglas HORSFALL of Liverpool (who had already built and endowed several churches in Liverpool) and other donors. A hostel was built and MOUSDALE became (1903) vice-principal and also curate of the parish. So convinced was HORSFALL of AngloCatholic needs that by 1904 he was bearing the cost of training about 40 men and to ensure a stable future the project was linked up with the University of Durham. S Chad's Hall was opened at Durham in that year and HORSFALL appointed MOULSDALE to be principal. The hostel at Hooton Pagnell was retained until 1916 as a preparatory and testing institution for ordination candidates. (411)

Comment

(1917) a founder of the Federation of Catholic Priests (FCP), a group which organised the Catholic voice in the political arena of the Convocations of York and Canterbury, of their successor the Church Assembly, and of its successor the General Synod. Around 1927 it had 1 400 members. By the later 1960s its muted voice was marginalised by the revival of the Society of the Holy Cross (SSC) itself primarily for the spiritual formation of Catholic priests but which became focussed on defeating the plan for union of the Church of England with the Methodist Church of England. This political activity raised the profile of SSC and younger clergy joined in zeal. FCP continued in a quieter mode.

Comment

member of SSC (Societas Sanctae Crucis, Society of the Holy Cross) member Guild of All Souls (chantry society)
A remarkable continuity of ministry, always stolidly conservative and yet in his Catholic idiom he certainly did evolve with the times, all as parish priest at the one church. He was seen as the last representative of the Tractarian era of the Catholic revival, he became Ritualist, and then AngloCatholic, and by his sponsorship of JD SEDDING and the baroque style showed signs of the AngloCatholic Congress style too. His obituarist says he stated his intention to retire in two or three months and then he died instead. (MWB)

Comment

The Society of S John the Evangelist (SSJE), known as the Cowley Fathers from their mother house in Cowley Oxford, was the first significant and important men's religious order in the revival of the religious life in the Church of England. As our research for this directory shows, SSJE sent out religious members to South Africa and to India (and Japan).

Education

1895 Missionary College of S Augustine Canterbury

university of Durham

1898 deacon Newfoundland

1900 priest Newfoundland (8)

Comment: his family was active and entrepreneurial but probably did not have money to give Gordon an expensive education; the College of S Augustine was thus often helpful, for it could accept able candidates for training on their commitment to work in the church overseas. While he was at Canterbury in those years Durham university offered external courses particularly to assist the academic formation of ordinands.

Comment: in modern times the official title of the benefice became 'S Giles Cripplegate with S Bartholomew Moor Lane, S Alphage London Wall, S Luke Old Street with S Mary Charterhouse and S Paul Clerkenwell' a title which usefully reminds just how extensive and important the uniting of benefices had been over the last 100 and more years, a trend dictated by depopulation, destruction during World War 2, fading cultural interest in Church life, and the prohibitive maintenance costs of old buildings MWB

1920 under the general theme Corporate Religion, presented paper 'The Faithful Departed: with a short note on Spiritualism as seen in the light of Catholic philosophy' at the AngloCatholic Congress [Spiritualism was an important interest among some people in those decades; some priests became Theosophists; for New Zealand examples see http://anglicanhistory.org/nz/blain_directory/]

also <http://anglicanhistory.org/essays/field/>
<http://anglicanhistory.org/england/ecu/> The English Church Union was united with the AngloCatholic Congress movement in 1933 just before Lord HALIFAX died, fulfilling his wish that they become one; (01 Jan 1934) HALIFAX and Bishop A CHANDLER were the foundational joint Presidents. HALIFAX had become weary of the trivial arguments and disagreements between the leading members of the English Church Union and considered it had had its day.

Comment

Jul 1921 presented a paper on prayer for the 1st AngloCatholic priests' convention, at Oxford; a strange document to read, a jumble of discursive citations, but doubtless expressive of Baron von HUEGEL's comment on him as 'a man of much spiritual shrewdness and extraordinarily wide reading'

Comment

1920 presented paper 'Authority and Discipline' at the 1st AngloCatholic Congress author of books on the New Testament and Christian history - 'clung tenaciously to traditional views and refused to abandon his position ...
close knowledge of the currents of Continental thought, and a sympathy with saintliness and the religious temper wherever found' obituary
The Times
PULLAN had a strong sympathy with the Serbian people; 'when a large school of Serbian lads was domesticated in Oxford during World War
1 he learned their language and attended their services in the college chapel' [S John's college], and was decorated with the Serbian Order of S Sava

Comment

RIDGEWAY family was strongly Church. Of the four sons of an evangelical priest one was a civil servant of the British empire (who earned the gratitude of RC people in Sri Lanka), one was a low church bishop who preached at the 1st AngloCatholic Congress (and earned the respect of the AngloCatholic Congress), one was a higher-church bishop of Chichester, one was a parish priest and father of Charles Lennox who was AngloCatholic. An interesting example of a devout family producing a variety of loyalties but that one faith and commitment. (MWB)

 RUSSELL by his wide range of Catholic changes in S James church Manston Leeds aroused great annoyance; Arthur LEE a member of the protestant Church Society organised decades of opposition; eg (08 Apr 1923) RUSSELL robed in cope and biretta solemnly cursed the two protestant leaders. After pressure and despite his genuine efforts to make concessions, RUSSELL obliged his bishop and resigned from S James Manston Leeds (see Nigel Yates pp359-360)

Note

21 Apr 1936 note in The Times, that the dean and chapter of Winchester presenting the Cunard White Star Line a set of altar linen for use on the RMS QUEEN MARY; worked by Anglican religious the Mother Superior of S Anne's convent Emsworth co Hampshire of which the dean of Winchester for some time was warden (411)
Note: the religious Order of S Anne (founded 1910) with members in the 'first order' for Perpetual Intercession and the care of children; members of the second order went out daily for secular work; significant convents were the Convent of S Anne Emsworth Hampshire, S Anne Arlington Heights 74 Massachusetts, S Anne's House 44 Temple St 14 Massachusetts; Convent of S Anne Oneida Wisconsin, and others also in Kingston New York, Denver Colorado, and for a few years (1920s) a children's home in north Christchurch New Zealand. They had a hard time of it, with local suspicion of their advanced AngloCatholic style; their work with children was taken over by the indigenous religious order the Community of the Sacred Name (CSN).

Note: the Revd John DALTON once a lawyer was vicar of Hickleton (patron Viscount HALIFAX, population 139) from 1885, and (1896-1916) also priest-in-charge of Goldthorpe mission church; he was born Sep ¼ 1864 Whitehaven co Cumberland, and (Feb 1923) totally blind resigned the vicarage of Hickleton and died 24 Aug 1924; Lord HALIFAX appointed the Revd Basil Herbert KINGSLEY (born 1862 died Mar ¼ 1929 registered Doncaster member SSC) canon of Bloemfontein to succeed him at Hickleton (411;8)

1916-1919 1st vicar parish of Goldthorpe (patron Charles L WOOD 2nd Viscount HALIFAX) West Riding Yorkshire diocese York

18 May 1916 church consecrated by BURROWS 1st bishop of Sheffield, Cosmo Gordon LANG the archbishop of York preacher; patron saints SS Mary Magdalene & John the Evangelist chosen by HALIFAX 'because they loved Our Lord so much'; for the church and presbytery and fittings for SS Mary Magdalene & John the Evangelist HALIFAX paid £20 000

May 1916 HALIFAX remonstrated with SHAW for using a silent canon of the mass; however HALIFAX was increasingly deaf and later could not be sure at S Mary Bourne Street whether prayers were offered silently or just quietly

1917 under discipline by BURROWS bishop of Sheffield for refusing to obey his regulations on Reservation of the Blessed Sacrament; the tabernacle was set in concrete in a retable behind the high altar beneath a huge Italianate baldacchino (of concrete) and stayed there

Note: LOCKHART's biography Viscount Halifax indicates that SHAW chose church furnishings for Goldthorpe for which HALIFAX paid; the parish church of SS John Evangelist & Mary Magdalene was designed by Alfred Young NUTT MVO (born 05 May 1847 Barrow-on-the-Hill Leicestershire, died 25 Jul 1924 Slough), as a youth sponsored by Lord John MANNERS, and served most of his life at Windsor castle, as Chapel Surveyor and Clerk of Works; he was a keen church person and through contacts during his time at Windsor commissioned for Anglican church work including at S John Evangelist Little Leighs Essex 1919-1921 assistant (to E O H WHITBY) curate S Mary the Virgin Bourne Street (Graham Street) Westminster

1920-1924 organising secretary Nassau missionary society (bishop Roscow SHEDDEN)

27 May 1929 The Times: 'The 21 incumbents in the diocese of London who addressed an open letter to the Bishop on the subject of his direction with regard to reservation, and to whom the Bishop recently replied, have now caused the following letter to be sent to him: 146 Clarendon Street Paddington W2 May 23 1929, To the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of London. My Lord Bishop, The 21 Incumbents who wrote to your lordship on Obedience have met together to consider your reply, and we are deeply concerned by your grave misunderstanding of our letter and by the serious issues you have raised both for ourselves and our people. They are so serious that they could only be dealt with in a detailed reply. Meanwhile we wish to make it plain that should we ever come to accept your lordship's interpretation of our oath of Canonical obedience we should at once lay down our ministry. Signed on behalf of the 21 Incumbents, C P SHAW (Chairman)

Martin TRAVERS designed changes to the chancel and sanctuary at S Mary Magdalene Paddington

At the height of the Anglo-Catholic Congress movement during his incumbency at S Mary Magdalene Paddington, after high mass the three sacred ministers were required to go back through the day's liturgy again to learn from their mistakes. The curates were very hungry by the time they broke their fast well into the Sunday afternoon. One curate N P STURT considered that SHAW like other high risers in the Anglo-Catholic Congress group faded suddenly and did not fulfil earlier promise. (pers comm C GAULT, NP STURT)

02 Jul 1969 obituary The Times – warm heart and Mrs SIMPSON's gracious hospitality caused the undergraduates to think of the Dean and his wife as their friends; garden available to undergraduates for giving their own garden parties; human to the finger tips, with a ready sense of fun, and a forthright and racy style of speech, which did not hesitate to call a spade a spade, he was known to be a man of deep religious piety and devotion to duty; he got things moving, committees became exciting; two important extensions to Christ Church's building were completed under his enthusiastic and determined initiative: the Blue Boar Quadrangle for 61 more rooms for undergraduates, a gallery to house the Christ Church pictures, and their completion was celebrated by the visit of The Queen, Visitor of Christ Church in May 1968; the cathedral became more closely associated with the parishes of the diocese and with the city; constant interest in the cathedral music and in the choir school, which was greatly improved as a place of education largely through his vigilance; particularly happy with children, every chorister personally known to him; the care that he took with every detail of the Cathedral services can never have been exceeded (411)

also: (1966) the Principal of the College of the Resurrection at Mirfield Fr H Benedict GREEN CR had a warm regard for him, and did mention that he latterly preferred to say mass in latin in a side chapel each day (MWB)

Comment

1941-1971 a Guardian of the shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham

TWISADAY wrote lyrics for hymns for Our Lady of Walsingham, and for them composed music reminiscent of Arnold KETELBEY (1875-1959)

All Saints church Notting Hill has work designed for TWISADAY by Martin TRAVERS

member the Guild of All Souls (chantry society)

c1961 an altar server of All Saints Notting Hill observed an elderly woman with a big hat and veil leaning on a cane walking along Regent Street; he recognised the figure to be Fr TWISADAY, and after overcoming his surprise, he reflected that even the priest can have a day off and courteously did not disturb him (Dec 1965 pers comm Winslow Maloney to MWB)

Comment

member SSC (Society of the Holy Cross)

1917 1st secretary of the Federation of Catholic Priests (FCP) which campaigned for AngloCatholic interests; (1927) about 1 400 members

1919 author The Catholic Faith in Practice, in English Parishes, commending use of the rosary and of Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament

1920 a speaker on 'The Limits of Toleration' at the 1st AngloCatholic Congress

Jul 1921 a speaker on the teaching of adolescents at the 1st AngloCatholic priests' convention at Oxford (attended by 1 199 priests)

UNDERHILL was at first celebrated by advanced AngloCatholics on his appointment to Bath & Wells, but showed himself the pastoral bishop for all and not just a leader for advanced AngloCatholics. He was not a successor to the heroic Catholic leader Frank WESTON after all, and so disappointed them (MWB).

(1898) member SSC

(10 May 1898) magistrate's court Worship Street, disorderly conduct and brawling inside S Michael Mark Street Finsbury disturbing the congregation during Divine service; John KENSIT and Daniel HONE accused VOWLER the curate-in-charge of assault; KENSIT and wife and others [50 supporters] came to worship and were 'assaulted' by holy water; VOWLER wanted KENSIT summonsed for brawling; all the cases were adjourned sine die to permit of a reference to the High Court

(18 Oct 1898) disturbances at S Michael Shoreditch, HONE referred to the priest as 'dressed like a Chinese joss' and he was 'disgusted at the whole grotesque mummery'; HONE said that 'the iron gates of the chancel were thrown open and two or four little boys in something like chemises trimmed with lace and frills entered, one carrying a pot; when water was sprinkled, he said 'I protest against this blasphemous tomfoolery' and the water brush was 'an instrument of torture'. The protestants argued that if they had seen 'asperges' or 'mass' on the noticesboard outside the church they would have not gone in, assuming the church to be a 'Popish establishment'. VOWLER's case claimed there was no forbidding of water vat and brush in the Ornaments Rubric and he as curate did as wished by his vicar, the judge noted that KENSIT and friends were going around the country for months disturbing the congregations; HONE to pay £5 and £5.5. costs; as VOWLER had no intention to injure with sprinkling holy water the charge dismissed. The churchwarden hoped that normal services would resume at the church and that the matter would die down. KENSIT hoped to get costs awarded to him for he had been put to expense, 'expecting up to the eleventh hour that the case would be gone on with; but the police magistrate CORSER said KENSIT had brought the proceedings and had no cause for claiming costs. HONE gave notice of appeal against his conviction. (411)

 (04 Mar 1938) elected junior vice-chairman of SPCK (Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge) (411)
 (24 May 1939) WALTON staggered into the goods yard Chorley Wood railway station nr Watford and collapsed; badly gashed head and taken to Watford Public Assistance Institution, two fingers injured, 'dangerous' condition; WALTON with another man had alighted from a London train (from Baker Street) at Chorley Wood, but that man had disappeared, later taking a London train at Chorley Wood station; in a spinney on Chorley Wood common the police found a large stone on which were bloodstains; near a bridge used for cattle to cross the railway to the common the rector's coat and hat were found; a message of sympathy to his wife was sent from the Lower House of Convocation at Westminster; (30 May 1939) Lawrence McLean MAYWOOD 19 'of no fixed address' [but in fact of the 1st Battalion of the Scots Guards Victoria Barracks Windsor], in custody Watford, charged 'that he did feloniously wound [WALTON] with intent and with malice aforethought to kill and murder him'; on Chorleywood Common MAYWOOD was so disgusted at what the man asked that he hit him; MAYWOOD claimed self-defence and was also charged with assaulting and robbing WALTON of £5; medical evidence that the rector unable to testify and had no recall but MAYWOOD testified that he 'got the wind up' during a struggle, and in trying to get up he felt a stone at hand and grabbed it and hit the man [WALTON] two or three times (411)
 1945, 1951 of Oyster Bend Three Beaches Paignton co Devon (8)
 (01 Oct 1945) letter to The Times about the Emperor of Japan; the report from the Tokyo Correspondent was inaccurate, the visit of HIROHITO to General MacARTHUR was not unprecedented; 1902/1903 the Tsarevich Alexei ROMANOV (1904-1918, haemophiliac only son of Tsar NICHOLAS II) visited Japan and was attacked by a fanatical Samurai when riding in a rickshaw; the Emperor MEIJI went at once by train from Tokyo to visit the distinguished visitor who refused to accept the Emperor's visit; this episode a terrific loss of face for the Japanese (411)
 But Note: WALTON's dating is insecure for Alexei ROMANOV was not born until 1904. WALTON may intend to refer to the failed attempt on the life of the Tsarevich NICHOLAS at Otsu Japan in 1891?

(30 Oct 1912) letter to the editor The Times: J A KENSIT of Birmingham explained that his Wickliffe Preachers faced the Bishop of London in S Silas to make him desist from further encouragement to G N WHITTINGHAM: he had been 'guilty of the gravest offences against the law and order of the Church of England', particularly the Ash Wednesday ceremonies, with but slight deviations from the Roman missal, and other ceremonies, including the use of candles, mass vestments, incense; WHITTINGHAM had further transgressed 'in a manner almost inconceivable in a building of the Reformed English Church', with a Mary procession with a decorated banner inscribed 'Mater Dolorosa', borne round the building by 'young girls dressed in white with bridal veils and holding long blue streamers which fell from the top of the banner'. KENSIT quoted three verses of the hymn 'Ave Maria! O Maiden O Mother/ fondly thy children are calling on thee;/ Thine are the graces, unclaimed by another,/ Sinless and beautiful – Star of the Sea'.

Meanwhile: Mr John WATERMAN of the Protestant Truth Society sought a summons for assault against WHITTINGHAM vicar-designate; when three protestors of the Protestant Truth Society read their protest against the vicar's malpractices, WHITTINGHAM followed them when they were ejected from the church, and had struck WATERMAN on the ear; case was not allowed

Subsequently: WHITTINGHAM wrote to the editor The Times, that he was indifferent to what persons of that sort said or thought about him, but he had no wish to have the bishop harassed by noisy and turbulent persons; therefore that hymn a translation of an old Breton carol was used but once and it was then withdrawn at the bishop's request (30 Oct 1912 from 64 Adelaide Road NW)

Comment

1917 author Too Much Stiffness – the Catholic movement was to follow through the Counter-Reformation onwards to modern days rather than go backwards to the medieval Church before the protestant reformation. This became the stance of the Society of SS Peter & Paul, which introduced Counter-reformation devotion and baroque art into Anglican publishing and churches, and became a dominant idiom for a decade of the AngloCatholic Congress movement.
1920 presented paper 'Authority in Matters of Belief' at the 1st AngloCatholic Congress
Jul 1921 at the 1st AngloCatholic priests' convention he gave the first paper, on intellectual efficiency; H L GOUDGE professor of New Testament interpretation at King's college London the second, and C F ROGERS also of King's on the Christian faith and unbelief. Canon Sparrow SIMPSON chaplain S Mary hospital Ilford a paper on dogmatic theology, and Prebendary Lawrence A PHILLIPS principal of Lichfield theological college on moral theology. Under the wider topic of 'practical efficiency', S R P MOULSDALE DD principal of S Chad theological college Durham on the conduct of worship, HFB MACKAY of All Saints Margaret Street on the holy eucharist, G C RAWLINSON assistant priest S Barnabas Pimlico on confession and direction, A H BAVERSTOCK on the teaching of children, Canon Francis L UNDERHILL of S Alban Birmingham on teaching adolescents, and J J G STOCKLEY rector of Wolverhampton the teaching adults. Under the wider topic of personal efficiency, Fr J C H HOW OGS Cambridge on the ideal of priesthood, Canon C Newell LONG warden of Birmingham diocesan house Coleshill on the priest's rule of life, the Revd Fr David JENKS SSM of Kelham on meditation. Fr Denys [PRIDEAUX] OSB warden of the Benedictine community at Pershore on prayer [his paper a very odd jumble of learned allusions], on penitence the Revd Francis G BELTON vicar S Patrick Birmingham. On the wider theme of mission to the people of England: the Revd J F BRISCOE rector of West Bagborough, the Revd John Arthur Mannering MONTFORD vicar Ascension Lavender Hill SW.
1928 author For the Present Distress: a suggestion for an Interim Rite
See anglicanhistory.org/england/npwilliams/interim1928.html
1933 author Northern Catholicism, proposing a distinctive pure Catholicism to be found uniquely in northern European people, thus displaying a racial bias which was alienating for many. The claim of the advanced AngloCatholic to follow the wider embrace of the Western church was a challenge to Little Englanders who were regarding as showing this racially biased undertow.

Jul 1921 member 1st AngloCatholic Priests' Convention Oxford

(1923) patron Keble college Oxford income £347+house population 8 090 (8)

(06 Aug 1927) a signatory of the statement from 1 300 AngloCatholic clergy who were generally in favour of the Prayer-book Measure and the Deposited Book; Charles GORE heads this list, notably too the principals of Chichester, Cuddesdon, Dorchester, Ely, Lichfield, Salisbury, and Warminster theological colleges (411)

Comment: the signatories list represents the tradition known as 'Prayer-book Catholic'; many signatories appear in this directory of AngloCatholic Convention priests, missing are the extreme AngloCatholic priests who were the more firmly dissociating themselves from following a prayer-book that was not Catholic enough; the assumption would be that they were not inclined to obey the bishops or follow the new liturgical rites. In this and the next decade the English Missal was becoming their staple liturgical resource. (MWB) before his death (31 Aug 1934) accepted honorary canonry in cathedral Ripon from the late bishop of Ripon (Edward BURROUGHS died 23 Aug 1934)

Comment

13 May 1927 obituary for the Revd Richard William WILSON 'the Hoppers' Parson'; since retirement, a voluntary curate to his successor ASHER; over the years he had converted a small public house nr Tonbridge Kent into a seasonal hospital for hop-pickers of whom many from Stepney; Fr WILSON had also founded in Stepney a club of girls 'Ladybirds', a shelter the 'White House' where tramps could spend the night, and 'The Old Ladies' Parlour' a day room for elderly women The Times
The WILSON brothers were high profile for the commitment and longevity of their joint ministry in Stepney, and much was made of them being cousins (once-removed) of the Revd Herbert WILSON

Fr NP STURT said DE LARA WILSON assumed a grand name and style but was a fake in every way (pers comm 1975); but as the priest's mother was in fact a DE LARA, maybe STURT's hostility was a personal dislike rather than fully reasonable; references to him in The Times indicate a willingness to appear everywhere social and classy MWB

member Guild of All Souls
a Guardian of the shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham, but (1936) after a sexual indiscretion left Oxford and resigned from the guardianship for a period
The Greek Revival church S Paul Walton Street Oxford was transformed with fine fittings and taste into a Continental classical church, (and after closure became a café); it is a cheerful irony that S Thomas Shepherd's Bush the church where he served latterly became Greek Orthodox

1893-1894 rector church S John Passaic diocese New Jersey

(1893) praised for successful introduction of a vested [ie robed] choir, 'careful training [apparent] in singing, marching, and general appearance of the boys and men' (Churchman 1893-0304)

06 Jan 1894 in Grace church Newark, deposed by the bishop of Newark [Thomas A STARKEY] from the sacred ministry, in the presence of the Revd George M CHRISTIAN DD and the Revd John KELLER presbyters [priests], action taken under Title II Canon 5, Section I of the Digest (03 Feb 1894) Postville Review Iowa : had been guilty of immoral practices. The charges which led to his resignation from church S John Passaic were made six weeks previous by two of his vestrymen.

Note: Canon 5 section i has the priest declare to the canonical authority (his bishop) that he renounces his ministry in the Episcopal church; the bishop if satisfied that the renunciation is voluntary and not for foregoing misconduct or irregularity must accept that and give due notice of the deposition from the ministry to every diocese and jurisdiction of the Episcopal church (information from Wayne Kempton 19 Jan 2018)

Comment: YARNALL and his wife went to England; to be licensed and active in the Church of England YARNALL would need to 'exhibit his orders' [certificates of ordination as deacon and as priest] and if available to him a bene decessit [document from his last bishop that he left with a good reputation] to the diocesan officers in Winchester to be seen and counter-signed; if these documents had been legally and formally cancelled on his deposition in 1894, it is a puzzle how he could be licensed in 1898.

Questions arise: after those four years without a licence for ministry, did he withdraw his ostensibly voluntary renunciation of holy orders in the USA, or once in England did he ignore his technical renunciation and the Church's deposition? Did he assert lack of misconduct or irregularity (as stated in that Canon 5 section i), and ask to be re-instated as a priest? On the grounds that the Episcopal Church of the USA was a different entity, did the Church of England ignore a deposition made under canon law of the Episcopal Church? If so, at what level was that decision made which in effect allowed YARNALL to function as a priest again without (for instance) another ordination?

So, did JJ COOKE YARBOROUGH vicar of Romsey have particular grounds for giving YARNALL this chance, did he push aside the obvious objections to YARNALL's relicensing? Did YARNALL's own associates and friends push and manipulate for him? Were the Winchester diocesan authorities casual and careless and indulgent? It is a very curious case. MWB

Comment

(01 Jul 1927) Church Times obituary by GNW [G Napier WHITTINGHAM]: a priest in Minnesota he went to England in 1898 for six months holiday, that became two years as Assistant Priest at Romsey Abbey. When he was thinking of returning to the States Lord Shaftesbury attended the morning service, was impressed by his preaching and offered him S James Shaftesbury which was vacant. Except for a short holiday to visit relatives, he did not go back to the USA. He was a charming host and exceptionally brilliant raconteur and immensely popular. He was a conscientious parish priest saying Mass daily but he latterly reduced that to two or three times a week because of the distance between the rectory and the church and increasing trouble with his asthma.

He lost his wife 5 years ago, a charming and popular woman and without her he was not quite the same.

At his funeral the village church was crowded; all his men and lads managed to leave their work and pay their respects, Lord Shaftesbury was at the graveside, many of the neighbouring clergy attended and the Bishop of Salisbury sent his chaplain to represent him (411)

Comment

1920s-1930s Belgian and baroque furniture he installed in S Thomas Shepherds Bush; a taste popular among the discriminating. In the 1920s Lord HALIFAX on holidays with his chaplain in Europe brought back a number of items for S Wilfrid Hickleton from Belgium and Italy (also Southern Germany for I recall a wooden bust of St Wenceslas from central Europe - it was very eaten by worms and the short bust may once have been deeper or was perhaps a reliquary) and for SS Mary Magdalene & John the Evangelist Goldthorpe. ASSYRIAN CHURCH

The Assyrians in Roman Syria/Assyria became Christian early in the Christian era. Their survival through centuries of persecution is remarkable, but the Ottoman empire was particularly harsh to them: thus the Archbishop of Canterbury promoted a special mission based at Urmi to sustain and resource the Assyrian church.

See HEAZELL, FRANCIS NICHOLSON; JENKS, DAVID; MOSS, CLAUDE BEAUFORT; PARRY, OSWALD HUTTON; RITSON, CALEB JACKSON.

During World War 1 the Ottomans with Kurdish allies committed genocide of about 300 000 Assyrian Christians, two thirds of their entire population; most remaining Assyrian Christians fled the Middle East particularly to North America.

Other priests, including PULLAN, Leighton, had a strong sympathy with the people and church of Serbia and other Orthodox churches.

BAYLISS, LILIAN

a theatrical producer, committed promoter of the Old Vic theatre and of Sadler's Wells opera.

Educated at S Augustine Kilburn she was a committed AngloCatholic; a memorial (1939) was unveiled by the bishop of Kingston at her church S Agnes Kennington Park south London where she was a parishioner for 40 years – but it was lost in the wartime bombing of S Agnes. She had presented in memory of family members a set of stone Stations of the Cross for the church. These survived in use into the next century.

brother to Blanche PRYCE married (1840) James Colquhoun CAMPBELL (1859-1890) bishop of Bangor

son of John Bruce PRYCE of Duffryn St Nicholas Glamorganshire

inherited his mother's family's property and took the name BRUCE brother to the Revd William Bruce KNIGHT dean of Llandaff died 1845

son of John KNIGHT

and Mary BRUCE daughter of the Revd E BRUCE;

his seat was at Duffryn Mountain Ash co Glamorganshire; he particularly assisted the foundation of the Welsh theological college, (1892) at Aberdare (1907) re-sited in Llandaff Glamorganshire

CAMPBELL, NIALL DIARMID 10th Duke of Argyll

(born 1872 died 1949)

nephew of HRH Princess Louise Alberta daughter of Queen VICTORIA of the House of Hanover his uncle George Douglas CAMPBELL 8th duke of Argyll married Amelia Maria CLAUGHTON daughter of the bishop of St Albans.

This duchess of Argyll Amelia Maria (née CLAUGHTON), and her nephew Niall Diarmid were both members of the Guild of All Souls the chantry society. On the anniversary of death they are commemorated in the daily requiem at the Guild's chantry chapel at Walsingham.

Niall Diarmid was a seriously devout AngloCatholic. He was elected a Guardian of the shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham. He was a generous patron of All Saints the little church in Inveraray below his castle. He provided Catholic accoutrements and (as a memorial to the fallen of World War 1) the dominant bell tower. He was organist at All Saints, and pressed his strong preference for plainsong in the mass; as he played he also sang, in a very high pitched voice; 'he wanted to be a Roman Catholic but his parents would not let him so he became extra high-church instead'. I had this (Dec 1978) from 'Maisie' Mary Macarthur WILBERFOSS née LEMON (born 20 Aug 1899 Argyllshire, died 08 Jun 1985 Roseneath Wellington New Zealand). She had heartfelt childhood memories of attending Sunday mass with her family – she strongly hoped the new parish priest at her church in Wellington, S Barnabas Roseneath would maintain that familiar AngloCatholic tradition. CATHOLIC LEAGUE

Groups were founded to foster Anglican contacts with the Roman Catholics

(1857) the Association for the Promotion of the Unity of Christendom; set up by Ambrose L M P De LISLE for unity between Anglicans Roman Catholics and Orthodox. Cardinal Nicholas WISEMAN condemned it and it closed

(1913) the Catholic League was founded on the initiative of the Revd Richard LANGFORD-JAMES and the Revd Henry FYNES-CLINTON specifically to foster reconciliation of Anglicans and Roman Catholics. AngloCatholic Convention members were among the initial membership of 97.

Admission to the Catholic League particularly required allegiance to the Creed of Pope Pius IV promulgated (1565) by the Council of Trent; this Tridentine allegiance became impossibly difficult when the decisions of the 2nd Vatican Council largely outstripped and replaced it.

COMPER, SIR JOHN NINIAN

(born 10 Jun 1864 died 22 Dec 1960) a church architect and designer of stained glass, son of the Revd John COMPER AngloCatholic leader whom Robert EDEN bishop of Moray, Ross, & Caithness brought to

Scotland; he was rector S John Aberdeen, rector S Margaret Aberdeen; for his work among street kids and prostitutes of Aberdeen the Scottish Episcopal church (2003) declared John COMPER to be a 'Hero of the Faith' with the annual commemoration 27 July; Fr COMPER died 27 Jul 1903 suddenly on the banks of the River Dee while handing out strawberries to poor children recur across a century as AngloCatholic clergy and their supporters often annoyed parishioners and bishops.

From the 1870s, on their introduction of unfamiliar customs to services and fittings for the church, Ritualist clergy often encountered opposition. Using the civil law of Great Britain the courts convicted half a dozen priests who were sentenced to prison for their loyalty to Catholic principle (their view) or for breaking the law (the court decision).

Two generations on, these priests had become legendary heroes, such that their heroic aura extended to the many more priests who had served with devout intensity in the slums of industrial England.

In this Directory H A J LAWSON was clearly identifying himself with them. The local newspapers provide insight into his approach to self-martyrdom.

(1926) LAWSON wrote letters to three parishioners who attended a weekday service held by a lay preacher in a private house, telling them that they had committed a deadly sin and they were not to return to church until they acknowledged their mistake. If they did return they would not go back into the choir. The following Sunday at mass there were three servers (two being children), a choir of two women, a man, one girl and two children, and in the congregation two reporters, a visitor from Redditch, a woman from a distant parish and five children.

(1931) at the annual vestry meeting LAWSON announced that the churchwardens would be elected under old canon law where parishioners and rector elect the wardens jointly. Names were put up and the first was not elected as he only received three votes. The next was put up and elected. The rector then said he was going to appoint the other as his churchwarden. The rural dean [a local parish priest with pastoral care for a cluster of local parishes] had been ordered out of the room, but only got as far as the door when he found the rector had not dealt as he had stated he would do; he returned and told LAWSON what he thought of him, allegedly calling him a scoundrel. The rector called a policeman to the room, closed the meeting and asked the parishioners to leave.

Mr BRAGG the sacristan joined in, urging people to get out. He walked up to Mr FIFORD and said 'You get out of here'; Mr FIFORD said 'I am going and you'd better go too and get home to your wife.' Mr BRAGG then struck him with a blow so hard that he knocked against an old lady and knocked her down.

The rural dean made clear that LAWSON was a scoundrel for the way he was carrying on the meeting. Feeling was running high because the rector had let the meeting down in a very illegal and unfair way.

(1939) during discussion to unite the parishes of Rous Lench and Abbot's Morton, it was noted that of a population of 133 only 6 people attended services at Abbot's Morton; for instance at the 8.30 service there was one parishioner and one stranger, and at 1100 there were two parishioners and two who were on the electoral roll but did not live in the parish.

(Aug 1939) at the wedding of Miss Gertrude UPSTONE and Mr William MILLER at S Mary Reading, amongst the list of household items received by the couple as gifts was a picture of the Sistine Madonna from the Revd H A J LAWSON

(1939) the local newspaper has a photograph of LAWSON, noting that he states he was AngloCatholic and had been in dispute with some of his parishioners who were not like-minded, for twenty years. He was living in the school house with oil and paraffin the only means of cooking and lighting, and without water supply. [The living did have a house when he was appointed. MWB] He brought an action against the parishioners for control of certain funds, and after losing he said he would go to gaol rather than pay the £80 costs.

Closing comment: under the ancient rights of parish clergy, known as the Parson's Freehold, as legally parish priest LAWSON could not easily be removed from office. However he held no further livings and seems not to have gone to gaol.

CONFRATERNITY OF THE BLESSED SACRAMENT CBS

(1862) founded by Canon T T CARTER of Clewer to encourage devotion to the eucharist and the Real Presence of Christ in the sacrament. To enhance worship CBS also funded tabernacles and vestments for poorer parishes. CBS equipped the church of Melanesia with altar tabernacles in the early 1960s. MWB

CONVOCATION, CHURCH ASSEMBLY, SYNOD

The synodical assemblies of the church of England have their origins in the work of Theodore archbishop of Canterbury (668-690); the AngloCatholic revival pressed for the revival of the medieval Convocations so that the Church might have an independent and responsible voice of its own, not subjugated to the secular government;

(1919) with the Enabling Act, 'Church of England Assembly (Powers) Act', a degree of self-government was given the Church through a new elective Church Assembly; albeit with powers more consultative than legislative this dual-control by the Church Assembly as well as the revived Convocations of Canterbury and of York was an important change; (1969) the General Synod of the church of England replaced the Church Assembly and subsumed the role and history of the Convocations and formally integrated the laity into the governing of the Church MWB

COURTENAY, WILLIAM REGINALD 11th Earl of Devon

(born 1807 died 1888)

a strong churchman with a large family who were often AngloCatholic.

married (27 Dec 1830) Lady Elizabeth FORTESCUE; their daughter Lady Agnes Elizabeth COURTENAY married (22 Apr 1869)

Charles Lindley WOOD 2nd Viscount Halifax of Monk Bretton.
(1901) the 13th Earl of Devon was patron of 4 livings including S John Bovey Tracey.

CRICHTON-STUART SIR JOHN PATRICK 3rd Marquess of Bute

(born 1847 died 1900), married (1872) the Honourable Gwendolen Mary Anne FitzALAN-HOWARD an RC family.
Latterly an RC he provided the site for the Anglican church S Mary the Virgin Bute Street Cardiff for which the architect John Dando SEDDING designed (1884) the east end; and (from 1868) the rebuild of S Margaret Roath Cardiff.

De WINTON, Wilfred Seymour

(born c1856 died 1929)
a banker of a banking and land-owning family in Glamorganshire Wales.
(c1907) donor the second site for S Michael's theological college, in Llandaff Cardiff. This college had a strong influence in its formation of priests; a high proportion of the members of the 1920 AngloCatholic Priests' Convention were alumni.

ENGLISH MISSAL

The Book of Common Prayer (BCP) provided the rite for the eucharist. From the mid-nineteenth century AngloCatholics chafed against its restrictions, and supplemented its provisions with material from medieval Anglican service-books and from contemporary RC service-books.

(1928) A substantial revision of the whole BCP was rejected by the House of Commons. As a milder version of this revision was acceptable to milder AngloCatholic people, this was authorised informally in some places by some bishops. From this time this 'interim rite' (from the latin meaning 'for the meantime') was used with the informal understanding that a better revision of the Prayer Book would be prepared.

(See anglicanhistory.org/england/npwilliams/interim1928.html)

A number of moderately Catholic bishops promoted the 'interim rite' for use in AngloCatholic parishes. Those obdurate AngloCatholic churches which continued to use other rites were chastised or inhibited by their bishop. Firmly AngloCatholic people continued to view the revised ('interim') rite as inadequate and resented it as a new disciplining tool flourished against them. So they made it a point of honour to ignore its carefully flexible provisions. The outré confidence engendered by the AngloCatholic Congress movement gave a boost to their tribal loyalty: to oppose the bishops and go their own way. This stand-off continued for decades until the liturgical reforms of the 1960s brought a confluence of traditions.

The English Missal was the altar-book most used by AngloCatholics until the rise of modern alternatives in modern idiom reduced its use. The Times indicates the liturgical evolution, which I summarise here from its columns.

KENRICK, H W G with his wife Agnes Eliza Georgina, was the compiler and translator of The English Missal. From its 1st edition published in 1912 by W Knott & Son, this missal offered the user both the full Roman rite (translated from latin into a faux Tudor-English, largely by Agnes KENRICK) and the interleaved eucharistic rite of the Book of Common Prayer. If complaints were made about the altar-book, the priest could truthfully indicate that the mass rite of the Book of Common Prayer was printed in the English Missal. At the altar the advanced AngloCatholic priest was able to diminish use of the Anglican Prayer Book and enhance use of material from the Roman rite in silent prayer. As the canon of the mass and other prayers were said sotto voce by the celebrant, the suspicious might well notice not more than distant muttering.

1922 the diocesan chancellor ordered the removal of The English Missal from S Magnus the Martyr London Bridge – see FYNES-CLINTON, Henry Joy in our 'AngloCatholic Congress Directory' (anglicanhistory.org > england > congresses > blain_hickton2015) for a full report on the Consistory court case against him. This sustained court case shows the possibly childish but certainly principled actions taken by Fr Fynes.

02 Oct 1924 the Revd W Fowell SWANN on his retirement from the secretaryship of the Church of England Waifs and Strays Society was presented with a handsomely-bound copy of KENRICK's English Missal and a portable typewriter

09 Jan 1934 report of a protest by Lord Hugh CECIL about illegality by the dean at the Liverpool cathedral; in his remonstrance against DAVID bishop of Liverpool Lord Hugh noted that 'self-willed lawlessness is already prevalent far and wide. I was present myself at a service where ... the English Missal was substituted for the Prayer Book and a Corpus Christi procession followed the service.' While Lord Hugh certainly deplored this illegal behaviour, he deplored the more that in DAVID's diocese of Liverpool AngloCatholic clergy (for their persistence with Permanent Reservation and Benediction) had been excluded from the fellowship of the diocese because they did not obey the bishop of Liverpool whereas the low church clergy were not excluded. The dean of Liverpool was not bound, the diocesan AngloCatholic clergy were bound to obey: why this discrimination? CECIL wanted a full enquiry, to ensure even-handedness.

Comment: the dominant tradition in the diocese of Liverpool and specifically in the cathedral was evangelical and low. Thus the vehemence of Lord Hugh's protest to DAVID (like his diocese also a protestant) about his partiality: protestant illegalities were ignored, AngloCatholic illegalities were disciplined.

05 Dec 1952 BLUNT bishop of Bradford was a 'Prayer-book Catholic' and like many such, the more hostile to the English Missal being commonly used in the churches in the tradition of the AngloCatholic Congresses. BLUNT urged caution in attempts to modernize the Prayer Book; '... some of the variations stem from a book which, with huge presumption, though it has no authority whatever, calls itself The English Missal'.- he spoke of this as mutilation, and noted that loyalty to 'our Prayer-book' was required still of clergy; experiments were not disloyal, such adulterations or mutilations were disloyal. However he closed, 'Few would assert that the Prayer-book is beyond any possibility of improvement'.

07 Sep 1959 the Revd R A E HARRIS complained about being sacked by the bishop of Southwark (Mervyn STOCKWOOD); 'I am doing my very best to bring the Church of England back into reunion with the Holy See. I would like to see the Church of England back under the authority of the Pope.' Banned from taking services in the diocese of Southwark, HARRIS attended S John Balham (diocese Southwark); at home he read vespers and compline from the Roman breviary – 'I have this book for my own private use and there are hundreds of Church of England priests who say the same Latin office as I do for private piety from the breviary.' Since he had come to S Andrew's mission church Carshalton 33 years back he had on the altar the English Missal for (as he explained) the Roman mass 'was so simple and streamlined'.

30 Sep 1983 correspondent Ian BECKWITH director of the Centre for the Study of Rural Society: voiced awareness of issues about the groupings of rural parishes for a leaner and fitter church, he was concerned that the priests were becoming leaner but not necessarily fitter in the effort to manage six, 10, even 17 separate churches and to ensure that the worship needs of each were catered for in the form preferred – which by that date could mean the Book of Common Prayer, Series 2, Series 3, (A or B) from ASB [Alternative Services Book] and indeed the English Missal : and just which priest could oblige all preferences and why be pressed to do so?

08 Oct 1983 editorial in The Times: reminding that every page of the BCP, the Alternative Services Book, the English Missal, the Methodist Prayer book had to struggle with the sexist imagery and gender imbalance in liturgical and biblical texts: these problems had not been addressed at all despite the range of revised options for the mass rite

26 Apr 2004 an obituarist for the Revd Peter BLAGDON-GAMLEN (born 05 Jan 1920 died 03 Mar 2004) noted: 'Although a convinced 'papalist' in his approach, as the changes of Vatican II unfolded he remained attached to an older way of doing things. The English Missal and (to a lesser extent) the Prayer-book remained his staple fare.'

Comment (05 Aug 1970) on the feast of Our Lady of the Snows I saw him in Santa Maria Maggiore in Rome in great ecstasy as he dashed to embrace the flower-petals thrown from the ceiling of the Lady chapel; his soutane was girdled with the green cincture marking his membership of the Order of the Holy Thistle. (MWB)

30 Jun 2007 the Revd Canon Alan WILKINSON contributed to the debate about the English version of traditional prayers, and the laments of traditional RCs; he wrote that those who wanted more latin should go to the eucharist in Anglican cathedrals and they would quickly feel at home as 'the modern Anglican Eucharist is almost identical in structure and language with the modern RC mass'

In sum: On principle as part of the western church, the Western rite Catholics had to follow the Vatican reforms. But the liturgical reforms of the 1960s and their dissemination through the 1970s made it very difficult both to follow the reforming lead of Rome and to persist with this Tridentine English Missal. Meanwhile Anglican reforms were also converging with RC reforms and an accommodation between the two modern-language rites (Church of England and Roman Catholic) was not so difficult to manage within the expansive bounds of Anglican rubrical guidance or tolerance. MWB

FEDERATION OF CATHOLIC PRIESTS

(1917) Thomas Lawrence MURRAY was a founder of this group which organised the Catholic voice in the political arena of the Convocations of York and Canterbury, of their successor the Church Assembly, and of its successor the General Synod. Around 1927 it had 1 400 members. By the later 1960s its muted voice was marginalised by the revival of the Society of the Holy Cross (SSC) itself primarily for the spiritual formation of Catholic priests but which became focussed on defeating the plan for union of the Church of England with the Methodist Church of England. This political activity raised the profile of SSC and younger clergy joined in zeal. FCP continued in a quieter mode.

GUARDIAN newspaper

(1846-1951) a weekly newspaper founded by Richard William CHURCH, Thomas Henry HADDAN to promote good journalism and judgement and to support the Ritualist movement. Its demise allowed the Manchester Guardian to become The Guardian.

GUILD OF ALL SOULS

(15 Mar 1873) founded by Joseph PLIMPTON, Walter PLIMPTON, Edmund Frederick CROOM communicants of S James Hatcham, with their vicar the Revd Arthur TOOTH as first president. (1924-1926) HANKEY was president, and then (1926-1936) a son of the founder Fr CROOM succeeded him as president.

See <http://anglicanhistory.org/usa/gas.html>

This chantry society built its own chantry chapel in the grounds of the shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham Norfolk. The chapel was designed by Laurence KING, its foundation stone was laid by Robert MORTIMER bishop of Exeter, and was consecrated (13 Oct 1965) by William BRADY bishop of Fond du Lac from the Episcopal church of the USA. Fr Walter HUM SSC formerly vicar All Souls Leeds was their first employed chantry priest, who had responsibility for the daily requiem mass. [For the Guild of All Souls I did say the daily requiem mass there one time when on pilgrimage to Walsingham in 1970. MWB]

GUILD OF S RAPHAEL

(1915) founded for the promotion of the sacramental ministry of healing as an integral part of the life and worship of the Church; Miss Caroline BIGGS was secretary, Canon R P ROSEVEARE of S Paul Deptford the first warden. CRAFER was a vice-president.

(1950s) C GAULT introduced this guild at Christchurch S Michael & All Angels New Zealand.

The Divine Healing Fellowship was similar but more inclusive of other church traditions and less sacramental; the Guild of S Luke was also a valuable group for this healing ministry.

HYMNBOOKS

Until the publication of the English Hymnal in 1906, Hymns Ancient & Modern (itself a product of the Oxford movement) was the standard hymnal among middle and high church Anglicans. The light-green English Hymnal swiftly replaced it in AngloCatholic and moderate high church parishes. This new book always appealed to musicians for its quality of music, and was widely appreciated for providing hymns to celebrate the Church's liturgical year and for the mass.

(1955) The English Catholic Hymn Book was published by W Knott & Son, publishers of the English Missal. This small light-blue book numbered its hymns in sequence continuing from the English Hymnal. (In the 1980s we did use the ECHB at S Barnabas Roseneath Wellington; though useful for Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, too many of the lyrics were risible. MWB)

PATRONAGE

The old haphazard Patronage system of the Church of England may be a surprise to more recent Anglicans who when looking for a new parish priest elect their own parish nominators, who meet with the elected diocesan nominators, who work under the authority of their bishop, who together nominate a priest to their bishop for appointment and licensing.

Until the mid-twentieth century, an extremely varied system of patronage had meant that private patrons commonly (and particularly in rural areas) held the power and responsibility to appoint parish priests, and then to invite the bishop to license the nominated appointed priest. Their ownership of the advowson, this legal right of appointment, was often historically related to their role as landowners and squires.

Over the centuries some personal patrons had given their patronage rights (advowson) to their old Oxbridge university college; thus a university college could in its turn as a corporate patron appoint its old students to such parishes.

A number of cathedrals held patronage powers, denoted by the term 'dean & chapter'. In a smaller number the Crown (through its Lord Chancellor) as patron has appointed priests.

During the nineteenth century, Evangelical power-groups bought up advowsons, to ensure the maintenance of Protestant traditions against the risk of a highchurch priest moving in to the parish and disturbing the status quo.

Resentful of this grabbing of power, AngloCatholic party groups came into the fray, and initially bought and then collecting advowsons. This annoyed the protestant party groups.

Throughout this Directory Christine and I note the patronage under which a priest had been appointed. It is not necessarily obvious that a highchurch patron would find and present to the bishop for his appointment a highchurch or AngloCatholic priest – where it is obvious to us, we indicate it, for it did happen. Certainly it is a fascinating reminder of how civil and religious society were woven together. Patronage reforms took appointment powers from the society leaders to the relevant church authority, and so were right in principle. Traditional society leadership had lost interest in church membership and such local responsibilities as parish patronage. Yet the result reminds that church and society have moved apart.

We have noticed in our research, that after World War 1, increasingly parishes were under the patronage of the bishop of the diocese. Why? From the mid-nineteenth century the population drift to industrial cities meant brought dominant importance to urban populations, and the consequent waning significance of rural traditional inherited powers. For the new parishes, new churches were built by central diocesan sponsorship, or with government-assistance, or by local business interests and private wealthy church members. Although quite often the new parishes set up local trusts the diocesan authorities were increasingly expected to take up the patronage responsibility. The rate and style of reform initiatives varied yet the movement was steady: patronage became centralised to the bishop and diocesan office.

The Revd Thomas HANCOCK, father of Aidan, is the only person whom we have come across whose hostility to the old patronage system was explicit. He took the consequences of his principles: no parish appointment for him, he could not accept one. Thomas might have posthumous satisfaction in recognising that reforms gradually and constantly made patronage a church responsibility, such that his own priest descendants (for instance in New Zealand) knew only this accountable diocesan patronage board working with direct representation from the local parishioners. And of course those who appointed had to participate in funding the stipends for their priests.

A search ('patron', 'patronage', 'BLENCOWE, CHARLES EDWARD', 'BUTLER, HENRY DOBREE', 'DAY, GEORGE STANLEY') through this Directory brings up not only details about the patrons but also our comments on interesting circumstances or people. MWB

PELHAM-CLINTON, HENRY PELHAM ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS 7th duke of Newcastle

(born 1864 died 30 May 1928)

promoter of AngloCatholic causes in the House of Lords; member Guild of All Souls (chantry society)

The duke was patron 10 livings

Plainsong chant was promoted by AngloCatholic musicians for the liturgy. It was not usually popular with congregations.

PLURALISM

Church reforms during the nineteenth century worked against 'pluralism', the custom by which a priest might hold several (a plurality) clerical appointments or livings.

HARCOMBE provides an interesting example of modern pluralism. The express formal dispensation by the archbishop of York was required to enable him the priest of Melbourne to take on a second parish, Foremark with (1923) annual stipend £60 and population 153. One priest two parishes two stipends for the priest: this was 'pluralism'.

The habit of pluralism had been a way for ambitious clergy to accumulate a higher income by collecting as many livings as they could. Such pluralist clergy became wealthy with a minimum of pastoral attention to their lesser appointments where they put in a poorly-paid curate to do the donkey work.

During the twentieth century not principled reform but dire necessity ushered in a new form of pluralism. Few smaller parishes could still stand alone, and the 'uniting of benefices' clustered them again. Legal reforms brought greater equality between clergy stipends. But by the end of the twentieth century, the priest was now stretched across many church centres and was distanced from local pastoral involvement - the inevitable new scandal of pluralism.

RELIGIOUS ORDERS FOR WOMEN

Many women's religious orders are mentioned in this Directory as they had chaplains usually AngloCatholic licensed to their pastoral care. We have included information within these biographies on all women religious and their orders; predominant were the Society of S Margaret (SSM), the Wantage Sisters of the Community of S Mary the Virgin (CSMV), and the Most Holy Trinity community at Ascot, the Clewer Sisters of the Community of S John Baptist (CSJB).

SOCIETY FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF THE FAITH (SMF) AND PATRONAGE

(1865) the evangelical Church Association was formed to counteract the tide of AngloCatholic church revival. As part of this they collected advowsons (the legal right to appoint parish priests) to ensure protestant or low church parish priests were appointed to their parishes. By 2018 the Church Society was patron of about 125 parishes.

(1873) In response to the Evangelical initiative, the SMF was founded 'to promote and maintain Catholic teaching and practice' by acquiring private patronage of livings to ensure that parishes vested in the SMF could be assured of Catholic leadership.

(1904) when the Guild of All Souls obtained the advowson of S Stephen Gloucester Road Kensington London, a patronage committee was formed to hold it for the parish. By 2018 forty parishes were under the patronage of the Guild of All Souls.

But the SMF is perhaps the best-known AngloCatholic patronage society, with (2016) over 80 livings across England.

However by 2000 there were not enough Catholic priests to staff all the traditionally AngloCatholic parishes held by SMF. As most parishes had combined with other small livings of varying traditions, it became pastorally impossible to serve them all.

Once the responsibility for raising the priest's stipend fell to the church-going community the options were gone. Few parishes could manage this, and in such rural areas, almost none. The significance of traditional patronage was inevitably minor. MWB

SOCIETY OF RETREAT CONDUCTORS

(1920) Some 13 000 had attended a paper on Retreats at the 1st AngloCatholic Congress (1924) was founded the Society of Retreat Conductors, particularly to promote Ignatian retreats. The Revd Herbert MATHER chaplain to the sisters at S Saviour's priory Haggerston was joined by Fr WYATT and Fr Philip BACON at 161 Tufnell Park Road to provide an Oratorian style community to foster retreats.

<http://thesrc.org.uk/index.php/history/>

(1970) as we discussed the problems of Stacklands retreat house, Fr N P STURT lamented that the SSJE (Cowley Fathers) no longer had members competent in Ignatian retreats; but the problems for SRC were more than a lack of Ignatian retreat conductors. From World War 2 the management was not strong enough amid rising costs to save SRC from declining interest and the subsequent demolition of Stacklands. MWB

SOCIETY OF SS PETER AND PAUL (SSPP)

The AngloCatholic Congress movement aimed to follow through from the Counter-Reformation into contemporary Roman Catholic tradition rather than go backwards to the medieval Church before the protestant reformation. This became the stance of the gad-fly Society of SS Peter & Paul, which introduced Counter-reformation devotion and baroque art into Anglican publishing and churches; this became a dominant marker for a decade of the AngloCatholic Congress movement. MWB

(1911) SSPP founded, with important leadership from the Revd Maurice CHILD; Mr Samuel GURNEY (1885-1968) a director of the Medici Society, was the wealthy funder of this publication enterprise. Niall CAMPBELL 10th duke of Argyll also was active in its formation.

(1929) The Society was wound up.

(1910) held advowsons for two livings, Hickleton and S Andrew Worthing co Sussex;

also (from 1916) the new church SS Mary Magdalene & John the Evangelist Goldthorpe

As he thought the new waves of 'advanced' or Romanising AngloCatholic Congress clergy were disparaging of the Catholic identity of the English church and its history, Lord HALIFAX was not comfortable with the Anglo-Catholic Congress movement. He had long made the first English-language Prayer Book of 1549 the standard liturgy in S Wilfrid at Hickleton and in his private chapel at the Hall. The Society of SS Peter & Paul produced the mass booklets for him. These continued in use until the later 1960s when the revision of the Anglican rites for mass made them more acceptable for AngloCatholic use; the vicar of Hickleton thus took the congregation in one leap from 1549 to 1968.

The revived shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham was even more strongly Papalist; however, to honour his huge contribution to all Catholic interests Lord HALIFAX was made an honorary Guardian of the shrine. Representative Guardians were at the Hickleton funeral requiem and at S Mary Bourne Street for the contemporaneous London requiem for him.

23 Jan 1934 in the choir of York minster, the solemn requiem for the repose of the soul of Charles Lindley WOOD: unlisted in The Times but present was the organist of Hickleton church, who told me (early 1970) that the Russian Kontakion was sung, and explained that quiet staccato emphases were given in singing the words 'Dust' thou' art' and' un'to' dust'; he politely suggested that our priests' choir might do the same when we sang the Kontakion during the requiem funeral mass of his vicar Fr G E W JOHNSTON and wife Madeline at Hickleton church.

Personal stories of Lord Halifax from Goldthorpe and Hickleton

During the 1960s I was for some years among people who remembered Lord HALIFAX. As these local stories sit well beside the grandeur of his public life, and give insight into his personal character, I set them here.

The Halifax estate grew rich from the coal found under their land; while Lord HALIFAX disposed of the mines and did not run them, he did get a penny a ton (I was told by old coal miners) for each ton extracted. I was told of men hurt in pit accidents for whom Lord HALIFAX sent down his bailiff (estate manager) to take them at his own expense through to Leeds infirmary and he paid the costs.

(1916) For Goldthorpe a couple of kilometres down the hill from Hickleton Lord HALIFAX was donor of the ferro-concrete church of SS Mary Magdalene and John the Evangelist, as well as the presbytery (adjoined by a covered way), and the verger's house and parish hall. He chose his favourite saints as patrons for the church because 'They loved so much'. His appointee as parish priest, C P SHAW collected items across southern Europe for the new church in Goldthorpe. Lord HALIFAX did go for Continental holidays with his personal chaplain, and they seem to have kept up the custom of buying religious items both for S Wilfrid and for SS Mary and John. Spanish realism featured heavily, but also Venetian seventeen century paintings, and baroque wooden candlesticks.

With his own domestic chaplain (often the parish priest at S Wilfrid Hickleton, adjacent to Hickleton Hall) he had a daily mass in his private chapel in Hickleton Hall, and went to the sung mass at S Wilfrid on Sundays.

However on occasional Sundays he would be driven down in the dray to the boundary of this coaltown Goldthorpe; he would alight and walk through the main streets to the church. He liked to be among the people and talk to them.

(c1930) During the sung mass at S Wilfrid, Lord HALIFAX sat in the Halifax chapel to the south of the chancel. For the sermon, he came down and across to sit in front of the pulpit in the nave as he was deaf. One time after the sermon he was moving very slowly back towards his place and paused several times and leaning on his cane looked back at Fr PAINTER the parish priest: 'What is it Father? Why have you stopped?' 'We are waiting for you, we are waiting for you.' And he moved quietly back to his stall.

Not long before his death in 1934, a young family man from Goldthorpe was poaching in Bella Wood below Hickleton Hall west towards Goldthorpe. As he was checking his trap for a rabbit he felt a stick poking his back. He started up fearing the game-keeper. It was Lord HALIFAX the landowner leaning heavily on his stick and moving very slowly: he pulled down his shirt cuff and on it wrote the man's name and address and sent him on his way. The man returned to his wife fearful of consequences. Next morning the bailiff (estate manager) drew up in the dray and came to the door: with the compliments of Lord HALIFAX he presented the man with a brace of rabbits and a basket of eggs, and an armful of flowers for his wife.
